MORROW VERSUS HOOVER IN 1932? AUGURS DIFFER

Wet Jersey Victory Stirs Prophets.

Victory Cost $44,000

Newark, N. J., June 18.—(AP)—Dwight W. Morrow spent approximately $44,000 in his successful campaign for the long term Republican senatorial nomination, Douglas Thompson, his campaign manager, announced tonight. He did not make public the expenses for the short term campaign.

Morrow's plurality late tonight in the long term contest had reached the record total of 299,619, with 24 scattered districts missing out of the 3,304 in the state. The vote tonight stood:

Morrow, 417,058.

Prelinghuysen, 47,780.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Will Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, overwhelmingly nominated Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey yesterday, become a candidate for the presidency in opposition to Mr. Hoover in 1932?

This was the subject of hectic speculation among politicians today as they studied the returns showing that Mr. Morrow, running on a platform advocating repeal of the 18th amendment, had defeated his two opponents by a majority of over 250,000 votes.

Some leaders were of the opinion that as Morrow has made himself the outstanding political leader of the prohibition repeal movement he will be compelled by circumstances to challenge the renomination of President Hoover. Others were quite as firmly convinced that with an eye upon 1936 instead of 1932 he will declare at an early date for the renomination of Mr. Hoover.

Hoover Pledges Support.

With their thoughts dwelling upon such matters, the politicians attached much significance to the official statement which President Hoover caused to be issued, announcing that he will support Mr. Morrow in the November election.

"The White House," said the statement, "will give every possible support to the Republican nominee for the senate from New Jersey. The President and the administration have every confidence that Mr. Dwight Morrow will be the next senator from New Jersey."

This was an unusual act on the part of the President. He has not felt impelled to issue a declaration of his support of any other Republican nominee for the senate. In behalf of the President it was explained that the statement was made to dispel any possible inference that Mr. Hoover would be cool to the candidacy of Mr. Morrow, either because the nominee is advocating prohibition appeal or because he is being boomed for President.

Some Republican leaders interpreted the President's move as a cordial gesture, intended to cause Mr. Morrow to feel so friendly to Mr. Hoover that he will discourage the activity of advisers booming him for the presidency.

Morrow Boom Stirred Storm.

The Morrow presidential boom was launched a few weeks ago by former Gov. E. C. Stokes of New Jersey and John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton. Whereat Hoover leaders in New Jersey became so wroth that the Morrow managers inspired newspaper statements that following the primary Mr. Morrow would disavow presidential ambitions and declare for the renomination of Mr. Hoover.

A different view of the White House endorsement of the leader of prohibition repeal was taken by Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], a wet leader, who said that it "indicates a cautious step in the direction of a liberal attitude on the eighteenth amendment."

Senator Henry J. Allen [Rep., Kas.], a noted dry and close friend of Mr. Hoover, thought the nomination of Morrow "indicates the confidence and pride of the people of New Jersey in Mr. Morrow, but does not indicate the trend of sentiment on any particular issue."

Wets Are Exultant.

The wets were exultant, asserting that the extraordinary victory of Morrow over Fort, the dry candidate, despite the fact that the wets were di-

SHANAHAN AND MALONE CLASH; STIR ASSEMBLY

Chicago's Tax Row Grows Bitter.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 19 (Thursday).—[Special.]—At midnight the wrangle over Chicago's tax situation, which had swept a gusty way through the Illinois house of representatives for ten hours, wound up with a verbal battle between Speaker David E. Shanahan and Chairman William H. Malone of the state tax commission. The clash was brief but bitter.

Malone had been arguing in favor of a bill to authorize the payment of $15,000 to auditors who worked on the reassessment. He said it was nothing except in conformity with a measure passed by a previous special session which directed that similar expenses be paid. "You members voted for it," he said, "including Dave Shanahan."

The speaker was in his old Cook county seat, since the house was in committee of the whole, and he jumped from his chair.

O'Grady Quizzes Malone.

"Don't you include me in this," he shouted at Malone. "I remember some years ago when you stood in that very spot and charged that the governor of Illinois [Gov. Lowden] had attempted to fix taxes with your commission for the Pullman company. Before an investigating committee you saw the grand jury looming before you and you refused to testify, but later you took the political platform and repeated the charges. You're not sincere.

"Do you think I would ever go to the governor and urge your reappointment to the chairmanship of the tax commission as you have repeatedly asked me to do?"

"I deny that I ever asked anybody to intercede for me with the governor," shouted Malone.

"You did. You asked me repeatedly in the Foreman Bank building in Chicago to get an appointment for you with the governor," answered the speaker.

Both men shouted their questions and answers at the top of their voices. There were cheers, cries for "order," and most members rose to their feet.

Fires Back at Malone.

Following this clash Representative Thomas J. O'Grady asked Malone about some of the capital stock assessments levied by the state tax commission which the assemblymen insinuated had been placed too low. This clash ended in an uproar as the committee of the whole adjourned for the night to resume consideration of the tax problem in the morning.

The battle earlier in the night produced new charges of tax fixing—this time in the reassessment—and settled into a lengthy cross-examination of the Republican officials by the minority Democrats.

The accusations were drawn from the questioning of a public accountant who had worked on reassessment books, found large and drastic cuts, and reported them to the reviewers, where they remained without action, he said. More than $5,000,000 has been so cut, the accountant reported, although Reviewer Edward R. Litsinger, whose testimony followed, declared these discrepancies had been reported to his body after the tax books were closed. A quarter of a millions dollars was thus lost to collection.

Chicago Officials Heard.

The hearing into Cook county's tax situation began late in the afternoon with George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago and a member of the joint commission on real estate valuation telling what he knew of the reassessment. Waiting to appear were Reviewer Litsinger, Assessor Gene G. Oliver, Assessor John Conroy, Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, and Mr. Malone.

This coterie, together with a number of persons close to the reassessment were in the house chamber as a result of action yesterday by Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe, Democratic national committeeman, who introduced a measure which would abolish both the board of assessors and the board of review and supplant them with one assessor and two reviewers. Igoe moved and the house unanimously concurred, that both boards, Malone and Cutmore come to Springfield for questioning today.

While the house was questioning these men, the senate hurled itself into the tax controversy, after a quiet session, by inviting an overwhelming

NEW JERSEY'S FAVORITE SONRISE, AS SEEN FROM WASHINGTON

KIDNAP AND ROB YOUTH AND GIRL, N. U. GRADUATES

Miss Virginia Goss, 21 years old, 421 Kedzie street, Evanston, and Irving Breger, 22 years old, 214 South Hamlin avenue, both of whom were graduated from Northwestern university last Monday, were kidnaped by two robbers last night in Breger's new roadster, which he received as a graduation present.

The couple were sitting in the car in front of Miss Goss' home when the bandits presented pistols and forced Breger to leave the driver's seat. With one robber at the wheel and the other holding Miss Goss in his lap the couple were driven to Western avenue and Howard street, where the kidnapers took a wrist watch from each of their victims and $5 from the young woman. They refused the few pennies that Breger had in his pocket.

Then the robbers forced the couple out of the car and drove off. Breger and Miss Goss, left without bus fare, walked the two and a half miles to the Evanston police station. The young woman is the daughter of Ira D. Goss, an insurance broker. Breger is the son of Benjamin Breger, a wealthy wholesale meat dealer with offices at 3351 South Halsted street.

EX-KAISER GUEST AT PARTY WHEN BLAST INJURES 5

AMSTERDAM, June 18.—(AP)—A boat on which part of an excursion party, attended by former Kaiser Wilhelm, was crossing Lake Kaag, near Leyden, blew up this afternoon. Five of the party were seriously injured. The ex-kaiser was sailing on another boat, which was not damaged.

The victims were four of the guests and a mechanic. The ex-kaiser and Princess Hermione were uninjured, but greatly perturbed by the accident, which has not yet been explained.

They were guests of a Dutch family and the party had divided into two boats for the lake trip. In one boat went the ex-kaiser and the princess, and in the other part of their suite.

4 Children of 1 Family Die of Odd Malady

While Mrs. Rosella McKittrick, 2431 West Lexington street, saw three of her children buried in Arlington cemetery yesterday afternoon, her husband, B. H. McKittrick, a truck driver, gave a pint of blood in an effort to save the life of a fourth child. And last night a fifth child, a victim like the others of a strange intestinal malady, died at the county hospital.

The dead children are: Paul, 10 months old, who died on Tuesday afternoon; Raymond, 2 years old, who died on Monday night; Evelyn, 5 years old, who died on Tuesday morning, and Donald, 3, who died last night.

Expect Child to Recover.

Kenneth, 8 years old, received his second transfusion yesterday. The father also had given a pint of blood the previous day.

The disease puzzled hospital authorities. Dr. N. G. Shaw, house physician, said last night it had been diagnosed as infectious enteritis of unknown origin. It is probable, he said, that Kenneth will live. The McKittricks' sixth child, Eugene, 6 years old, accompanied his mother to the cemetery yesterday. He is recuperating from whooping cough.

The father was told of his children's illness and death as he sat in the hospital, awaiting the transfusion. All the children except Kenneth had been ill with mumps, he said. When they were recovering they contracted whooping cough.

Ten days ago Evelyn developed what appeared to be pneumonia, and on Thursday she was taken to the hospital. The next day Raymond and Donald showed the same symptoms, and that night their parents took them to the hospital.

Older Boy Becomes Ill.

"Then the other two had the same thing the next day, and we brought them in," the father said. "Kenneth had been all right, played outdoors all day Friday, and suddenly on Saturday morning when he got up he fell down.

"I was at the county morgue, where we held a private funeral, but the doctors here called me for a transfusion. I couldn't go to the cemetery."

Employés of the Speedway Motor Truck Service, Inc., 3141 Harrison street, where McKittrick has been employed intermittently as a driver, collected $150 to pay for the funeral.

Rum Valued at $170,524, Hidden in Box Cars, Seized

Ocala, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—Two railroad box car loads of liquor, hidden behind bales of moss and valued by officers at $170,524 at wholesale bootleg prices, were seized and destroyed by the federal prohibition agents here today.

AERIAL CAMERA SNAPS BOUL MICH BY FLASHLIGHT

Aerial flashlight pictures of downtown Chicago, the first ever taken, were made last night by Lieut. George W. Goddard of the army air corps technical school at Rantoul, Ill.

Flying at a height of about 1,000 feet, Lieut. Goddard dropped three bombs in the vicinity of the Michigan avenue bridge, the Wrigley building, and Tribune tower. Their explosion was synchronized with the shutter of his camera, the lens of which was trained through a hole in the bottom of the plane, a Douglas O-2H. Three pictures were taken.

Lieut. Goddard invented the apparatus in 1926 and military authorities say is will be of great value in wartime in uncovering night movements of armies. Lieut. Goddard's pilot last night was Lieut. John M. Welkert.

Johnson Asks on Radio for Treaty Defeat

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—In a speech broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup Senator Hiram W. Johnson [Rep., Cal.] tonight denounced the pending navy limitation treaty as inimical to the best interest of the United States and demanded its rejection.

He asserted that the treaty was sought and is being rushed to ratification by the President in an effort to make political capital for the administration in the approaching election.

"Here is a document," said the senator, "which its sponsors dare not permit our people to discuss; a treaty, the papers and communications relating to which they refuse not only to the people but to the senate as part of the treaty making power; a pact so difficult and complex that few have any adequate understanding of it, and one which requires detailed and prolonged study; an international agreement which, when first carefully scrutinized at home after execution abroad, demanded an exchange of notes with Great Britain and Japan to clarify and explain one of its most important provision.

Calls Treaty a Failure.

"Whatever incense may be burned at the altar of internationalism; whatever hosannahs of praise may be sung to peace and good will; whatever genuflections may be made to power that demands at all hazards a treaty as a demonstration of achievement and accomplishment, this document that is sought to be crammed down the throats of the American people has within it not only the germs of future misunderstanding and ill will; but above and beyond all this, it is unjust and unfair to our country. It robs us of that which we thought by sacrifices we had obtained in 1922; it may imperil our marvelously growing commerce, now equaling that of any nation on earth, and endanger even our national defense; and after all the boastful utterances concerning parity, it yields us only inferiority. It does not measure up to our material necessities, and it falls far short of our ideals. It is a treaty that is un-American, and Americans should reject it."

The senator called attention to the fact that at the Washington conference Japan accepted the 5-3 ratio in consideration of America yielding her right to establish additional and strengthen existing naval bases in the western Pacific.

Ratio and Naval Bases.

"We kept faith," Johnson went on. "We hoped then that the disadvantage of our lack of naval bases might be offset by our naval superiority accorded by the 5-3 ratio with Japan. Our naval experts then and now are unanimous in the opinion that that ratio is essential for our safety. At London upon the demand of the Japanese this ratio was destroyed and Japan was accorded a ratio of substantially 10 to 7, instead of 10 to 6; but the United States still continues to pay the price of the 5-3 ratio, and still is forbidden to utilize to the full her bases in the far Pacific. Notwithstanding this 5-3 ratio, Japan demanded at London equality in submarines with us, and our representatives obligingly yielded."

The California senator explained why our lack of outlying naval bases makes eight inch gun cruisers essential to protection of our commerce and why possession of such bases enables Great Britain to protect her commerce with the smaller six inch gun ships.

Eight Inch Gun Cruisers.

"The representatives of our navy in Washington at the insistence of our government, and so that an agreement of limitation might be reached," said Johnson, "finally reluctantly agreed to an irreducible minimum of 21 eight inch gun cruisers while asserting, nevertheless, that we should have 23. Great Britain refused to permit us 23. Great Britain refused to permit us 21. Ultimately, Great Britain offered to 'permit' the United States to build 18. Even this under the treaty was coupled with the condition we could have only 16 during the life of the treaty, and 2 thereafter. Of course, an equivalent of 6 inch gun cruisers was offered, but these the great preponderance of naval authorities held to be of little consequence to the United States."

"L" Patrons See Robbery, Powerless to Aid Victim

While several persons watched, helpless to aid him, Walter Pandyk, 111 Euclid avenue, Oak Park, was held up by two Negroes last night on the west bound elevated platform at Paulina and Lake streets and robbed of a $50 watch and $29 in cash. One of the bandits threatened Pandyk with a knife while his companion took the watch and money. Theodore Kelly, 157 North Laramie avenue, ran to Pandyk's aid, but the robbers eluded him and escaped.

GETS COMMAND FROM MAYOR; GIVES HIS PLAN

Men Must Walk Beat, He Says.

The Cleanup Order

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock saw Mayor Thompson yesterday and got the above order.

Alcock said he was assured by the mayor that he would remain in command of the police if he showed results in cleaning up the city (Details on page 2).

Other high points in the day's gang war developments:

Bishop George Craig Stewart in inaugural address attacks court delays which help criminals (Details on page 2).

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

No substitute has been found for the old fashioned patrolman who traveled his beat, knew everyone in the neighborhood, had the confidence of law abiding folks and the wholesome respect of criminals, according to Chicago's new police boss, Acting Commissioner Alcock.

"In the whole city of Chicago there are only about 1,100 patrolmen on the streets, or on beats, he said last night. "I'll have three times that many before 10 days."

A Good Policeman Defined.

"I guess I can give you what I think makes a good policeman," the new chief said. He paused, contracting his rugged eyebrows, his mouth set, so that it became apparent why he is called "the iron man" of the police department.

"A good policeman," he said, "is a man who travels his beat constantly—not running around—and who travels it intelligently. He must use his brains as well as his feet.

"He should be familiar with any suspicious places on his beat and should be personally acquainted with as many persons on his post as possible. He should have their confidence.

The Thing Chicago Lacks.

"I say this because it's one thing lacking today—the patrolman who is there, in uniform, watching for trouble. That kind of policeman has gone out of fashion. Of course, we need to have automobiles, because criminals travel in automobiles now, but we should have patrolmen in addition. And we will have them.

"If there had been a patrolman—I don't mean a traffic cop—stationed near the Illinois Central tunnel, no gunman would have dared kill Lingle. Or if he had, and the patrolman had known his business, he would not have escaped."

When He Was a Captain.

Alcock told about the days when he was captain at the Woodlawn station, where he served for 10 years. More than 100 women and girls in the district who worked nights at telephone exchanges and other offices used to go home by way of elevated trains and the Illinois Central, he said.

"I used to send the boys out to meet them and escort them home every night," Alcock said. "My men knew everyone on their beat."

"Yes," put in his secretary, Christopher G. Reed, "I remember a girl who worked at Hull House. I used to take her home myself."

Prohibition to Blame.

Acting Commissioner Alcock then reminisced about the days when there were saloons, and respectable saloon keepers who often had snug homes over their saloons which they owned themselves. It is prohibition, he said, and the selling of beer by means of syndicates, which is at the bottom of Chicago's present situation.

"We've always had crime, and always will have it, but it has never been like it is now in Chicago," he said slowly.

"Are gangs as well organized as people think them?" he was asked.

"O, better," he replied. "Crime has become so efficient today, so progressive, that no one has caught up with it."

"And can they be broken up?"

Acting Commissioner Alcock set his jaw.

"There is no reason in the world why they can't be," he replied. "It is very simple—enforce the law. Murders by hired gangsters can be stopped. Just as soon as you start to electrocute them, they'll stop. They're all cowards. There's not one who won't squeal like a rat when you get the goods on him."

He Doesn't Want Publicity.

Asked something about his life, the chief demurred. He remarked that a police officer had no business having his picture in the paper. He declined to become sentimental about having come from Ireland to America at the age of 9, saying: "Ireland has nothing to do with Chicago."

Questioned about his schooling after he came to Chicago at the age of 21, he grew red. Then he laughed.

"I went to school, all right," he said, smiling. "As a matter of fact, I didn't stop at grammar school, or at high school. I even studied law. But I won't talk about that. No, because—well, I'm a little sensitive about that. I never got to be a lawyer."

Then, with a chuckle: "Lawyers don't make good policemen, anyway."

"You see," he said, "when I joined the department—Aug. 10, 1895, it was—I only meant to work a year or two, then go to Harvard.

"I never meant to stay in the police department. No, always I had wanted to be a lawyer. But, well—I did like all of us in the police department did."

"Became fascinated with it?" his interviewer asked. "No, no," he laughed. "I got married."

His Son Carries On.

He paused, looked up at the ceiling, and said:

"A funny thing—my boy came home from school one day when he was 8 years old and said he was going to Harvard and be a lawyer. I'd never told him about—well, my end of it. He took the examinations and passed, and——" Again he paused, again looked ceilingward. "He got his degree from Harvard last year. Funny, isn't it? He got to do what I never did."

He alluded to his son, Thomas H. Alcock, who now is studying corporation law in the University of Chicago law school. The acting commissioner has one daughter, also, Frances Ruth, 22 years old, who was graduated in June, 1929, from the University of Chicago and now is a substitute teacher in the Chicago public schools.

For 26 years Acting Commissioner Alcock has lived at 3460 West Adams street, where he spends all his time off duty.

ALCOCK PLEDGES POLICE TO DRIVE GANGS FROM CITY

Aldermen Order Thorough Inquiry on Department.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock last night reported his acceptance of the following commission from Mayor Thompson: "Drive the criminals from Chicago; send them to the penitentiary or the electric chair."

"I told the mayor I would," Alcock said. "There'll be police work done, and no excuses from shirkers."

That was Alcock's announcement that he, as acting police commissioner, was taking hold during a crisis and in the midst of a campaign demanded by the city's leaders to stop criminality and gang power. He was at the helm in an onslaught on "500 crooks who are responsible for all the turmoils in the city"—his own words.

Mayor Silent Before Council.

Until after the city council meeting yesterday there had been no public proclamation of the mayor's intentions regarding a successor to William F. Russell, who resigned as head of the police force on Monday. Alcock himself said he had had no word of the mayor's intentions.

The name of the mayor's choice might have been submitted to the council for confirmation, and that choice might have been Alcock or some other policeman or a civilian, but throughout the session there was no word from the mayor. At the conclusion of the council meeting Mayor Thompson sent for Alcock to meet him in his office.

"I told the mayor I would prefer to remain as acting commissioner rather than have him appoint me commissioner," Alcock said, his position as first deputy commissioner being his authority to assume the office as acting commissioner. "He said I might do what I wanted, whichever way I wanted, but he wanted results quickly, not reports. I said I'd do the rest."

Council Spurs Investigation.

At its meeting the council unanimously adopted a resolution giving added powers to the aldermanic investigation of the police department, which is to be resumed today. The resolution, introduced by Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d], authorizes the council police committee which is conducting the inquiry to make a thorough investigation of the department from top to bottom.

"There has been a great amount of major crime committed in Chicago," said the resolution, "and it is inconceivable that criminal gangs could organize to the extent they are now organized in our community without connivance on the part of the police.

"It would be impossible for this criminal oligarchy to continue its nefarious practices without police protection. It is the duty of the city council to get the facts so it will be in a position to remedy the intolerable conditions that are now prevalent."

Time to Act, Albert Says.

"I think this is the time when public officials and all good citizens should unite to stamp out lawlessness," Ald. Albert said. "The name of Chicago has been besmirched, and I don't think it is the will of the people that the great majority should bow to the wishes of gangsters.

"There has been a conspiracy and a connivance by certain unscrupulous police captains, and I don't think the people want to put any more money into the coffers of these people. The responsibility rests with the city council.

"In Philadelphia when crooked police officials conspired with gangsters, Gen. Smedley Butler of the United States marine corps was called in to take control. With Prosecuting Attorney Monaghan he put grafting policemen in prison.

"Prison for Crooked Captains."

"We should not be transferring wrong captains from one district to another but we should transfer them to the penitentiary. Police captains are riding in expensive automobiles while our citizens are being shot down."

Arvey Commends Russell.

Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th] seconded the motion with a statement that none of the council members are now seeking to place blame for conditions, but want to strike at the root of the trouble and seek the why of conditions. He said that Commissioner Russel had been "a very good, honest, and capable executive" and Chief of Detectives Stege was also a capable and worthy policeman, and they were not to be censored.

"We have learned recently," Ald. Arvey said, "that other states parole their criminals to Chicago—order them to keep out of the state in which they committed crime and force them to go to neighboring states. Illinois keeps its paroled and probational criminals at home. Chicago also gives full publicity to its crime, while other cities conceal theirs.

"In New York last week a newspaper account of the murder of five gangsters in one day was limited to eight lines in an inconspicuous position in a newspaper."

Resolution Hits Dry Law.

Ald. John Toman [23d] introduced a resolution declaring that the prohibition laws attack fundamental and inalienable rights and are an abuse of the lawmaking power. The resolution asked the council to go on record favoring an amendment to the 18th amendment that will permit each of the 48 states to control its own liquor problems and asking a national referendum on the subject.

His document declared that the falsity of the promises of prohibition has been proved and that millions of dollars have been put thereby into criminal hands, undermining all respect for authority and demoralizing the people. The resolution was adopted with but three dissenting votes, those of Ald. Sheldon W. Govier [9th], Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th] and Ald. Charles S. Eaton [5th].

Alcock to Testify Today.

The aldermen after the meeting went to the office of Alcock, whose tenure as acting commissioner had then been made certain, and discussed plans of the proposed investigation with him. Alcock said he would be the first witness when the council investigation of the police is resumed this morning, according to plans outlined. Captains and deputy commissioners will be called later.

Rumors that he would put former Commissioner Michael Hughes back in the department as chief of detectives, that the present system of having deputy commissioners in charge of districts would be abolished, and that the personnel of the detective bureau would be reduced from 900 to 500 men, were dismissed by Alcock as just guesswork. He said he had ideas along those lines but no present plans.

AUSTRALIAN REPORTER IS KIDNAPED; FEAR GANGSTER VENGEANCE

LONDON, June 18. — (AP) — Dispatches from Sydney, Australia, to the London Daily Herald today reported that the city was agitated by the kidnaping of a newspaperman for reasons similar to those which led to the killing of Alfred Lingle, Chicago newspaperman, by gangsters.

Murray Hullett, reporter for the Sydney Truth, mysteriously disappeared yesterday after leaving his office for home. The police fear that he was kidnaped by gangsters and perhaps murdered because of an article he wrote about Sydney's gangs a fortnight ago.

Hullett, who was 25 years old, had an exceptional knowledge of gang life in the Australian metropolis. He was attacked on June 14 by four men while on a visit to the suburb of Surrey Hills, a quarter of evil repute.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

More than machinery for making and enforcing laws is necessary in cleaning up Chicago's crime condition. So declared Bishop George Craig Stewart in his inaugural address last night as Episcopal bishop coadjutor of Chicago. Bishop Stewart was consecrated bishop yesterday morning in his parish church of St. Luke's at Evanston by the Most Rev. James De Wolf Perry of Rhode Island, primate of the church, assisted by many other visiting prelates.

In his keynote address, given at a dinner in his honor at the Sherman hotel by the Church club of Chicago, Bishop Stewart called Chicago's crime record "the greatest blot on the city's name." He reviewed the phenomenal growth of Chicago and then said that the city with about half the population of London, has 12 times as many premeditated murders each year.

Criticizes Court Delays.

Bishop Stewart criticized court delays, legal red tape, and various technicalities impeding speedy justice as important factors in Chicago's crime situation. He said the city's mixed population was one of the causes of crime, but that unemployment and poverty were still more important causes. He called the recent gang killings here "a symptom of deeper disturbances in our society."

The new prelate praised Chicago's progress in its fight against criminals and its advances in various fields. The city leads the world in population growth, possesses many of the world's leading cultural institutions, and has more theological students than any other city in the world, including Rome, he said, and then pointed out that its crime rate is seventeenth among the cities of America.

Responsibility of Church.

The bishop asserted that laws must be supported with vigor, and that means of bringing speedy trial must be devised. He declared that the church has the complex responsibility of coöperating with social agencies in tracing and solving the sources of the disturbances which came to a head with Lingle's murder.

"Jails will never offer a solution," Bishop Stewart said. "Jails never made good citizens. Law courts cannot create good citizenship, though they restrain crime. We must concern ourselves with the grave problem of poverty, ignorance and irreligion. These breed crime."

Urges Religious Extension.

The responsibility of the church in the development of moral and spiritual stamina was stressed by Bishop Stewart. He declared the clergy and laity must extend the field of religious education so as to parallel the secular educational advantages of the younger people, and expressed confidence that Chicago will meet the spiritual challenge as well as it had met economic problems.

About 700 persons attended the dinner which brought to a close the ceremonies of Bishop Stewart's consecration. Dean Duncan H. Browne of St. James' cathedral was toastmaster. Assisting at the consecration yesterday morning at St. Luke's church were Bishops William T. Manning, New York; Sheldon M. Griswold, Chicago; Harry T. Moore, Dallas, Tex.; Warren L. Rogers, Cleveland; Thomas Casady, Oklahoma, and Charles Woodcock, Kentucky.

LINGLE'S WIDOW ASKS LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Mrs. Helen Lingle, widow of Alfred Lingle, slain TRIBUNE reporter, appeared before Assistant Probate Judge Edward S. Scheffer yesterday asking for letters of administration. A petition filed with Probate Clerk Mitchell Robin said that Lingle died intestate, leaving an Illinois estate that will not exceed $5,000.

Attorney Cornelius Harrington, representing Mrs. Lingle, said Lingle had no real estate in Cook county and the figure of "less than $5,000" represented the personal property of the slain reporter. The Lingle summer home at Long Beach, Ind., will be listed in Indiana courts, Attorney Harrington explained. He said he is now seeking to discover other assets of the Lingle estate.

FIND GANGSTER GUILTY ON GUN TOTING CHARGE

Red Kissane Faces Jail and Fine.

Anthony [Red] Kissane, known as a gangster, was convicted last night in Judge Trude's court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He is subject, if a new trial is not granted Tuesday, to a maximum sentence of one year in the county jail or a fine up to $300, or both. The jury deliberated one hour.

Policeman William Drury, who arrested Kissane on Nov. 11 at Clark and Randolph streets, brought the name of Alfred Lingle, slain TRIBUNE reporter, into the case in his testimony. He said Kissane told him he was working for Lingle at the time of the arrest. Drury is one of the policemen whose recent transfer from a detective bureau squad resulted in protest.

Tells of Search.

"I was walking south on Clark street when I saw Kissane," Drury testified.

"I then asked him what he was doing in that neighborhood and he replied, 'Working.' I asked him who he was working for and he said, 'I worked for Jake Lingle.' I said I didn't care who he was working for but I was going to arrest him."

"Who was Jake Lingle?" asked Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keeler, the prosecuted the case.

"He was the man recently murdered," replied the witness.

A move to suppress the evidence on the grounds of illegal arrest and search and seizure was denied. Attorney George Hans then took up the cross-examination of the policeman, the only state witness.

The examination then proceeded as follows:

Q.—What made you think Kissane had a pistol? A.—Well, he is a well known gangster.

What Is Gangster?

Q.—Were you ever in a court when he was convicted? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know any one else who was in any court when he was convicted? A.—No, but he was charged with murder once. I believe he was acquitted.

Q.—What do you mean by the term gangster? A.—The man who lives by the gun or lives by the muscle.

Q.—What do you mean by that? A.—Goes around intimidating people.

Q.—Who do you know that Kissane intimidated? A.—If I did I would have some complaints against him.

The policeman said he saw Kissane with such gangsters as Leo Mungoven, but never arrested him before.

Q.—Did you investigate to find out if Kissane worked for Lingle? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Isn't it the duty of good policemen to investigate stories of men they arrest to find out if they are true or false? A.—Yes, sometimes, but I didn't attach any significance to it. If I believed it maybe I would have investigated.

Q. Is this the first time you ever told any court about your testimony in reference to Lingle? A. Yes.

Says He's Union Business Agent.

The defense put on Harry G. Green, 1519 Lexington street, and Jerome Whitman, 4356 Lexington street, the latter Kissane's bondsman, to testify that the defendant was of good reputation.

Kissane then took the witness stand and said he is financial secretary and business agent for the Hod Carriers' union, local 23. He admitted having the revolver, but said he was taking it to a friend in Channel Lake.

Kissane made no mention of Lingle's name nor did the state's attorney ask him about it on cross-examination. He said he never was convicted of any crime.

Detective John Howe on rebuttal testimony said that Kissane's reputation is "rotten."

Kissane in an interview outside the courtroom said there was no truth in the testimony of Policeman Drury to the effect that he, Kissane, was in the employ of Lingle in any capacity. He denied making such a statement to the policeman.

WINS CITIZENSHIP TO OBTAIN HER CHILD

MRS. ELIZABETH COOSNESSOVA SPEARS.

GALINA SPEARS.

Can Bring Child Here

Fred Spears, formerly a sailor in the United States navy and now a chauffeur living at 402 South Western avenue, yesterday was hopeful of rounding up his family, nine years after a romance with a wounded Russian in Vladivostok. Spears found his future bride, Elizabeth Coosnessova, unconscious from wounds during a skirmish between the bolsheviste and the White Russians in the Siberian city. He cared for her until she recovered and they were married in a Russian church.

Spears was recalled to the United States, but he couldn't bring his bride because he hadn't received permission from the navy to marry. A few years later he remarried her in the Philippines and was then able to bring her to America. But the young daughter, Calina, who was with friends in China, could not enter this country until the mother became a citizen.

Mrs. Spears knew all the answers when given the citizenship test yesterday by Naturalization Examiner George Mackay and can expect her final papers within a few days.

CANNON CHALLENGES TINKHAM; RECEIVES SNUB AS ANSWER

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.] — The receipt of a challenge from Bishop James Cannon Jr. by Representative George Holden Tinkham [Rep., Mass.] today, daring him to repeat charges about the bishop made on the floor of the house yesterday, drew the following reply from the Massachusetts representative.

"I do not accept challenges from discredited persons."

Representative Tinkham had reviewed the testimony of Bishop Cannon before the senate lobby committee and asked a number of questions about the alleged stock speculations of the bishop which the latter had refused to permit the committee to touch upon, claiming, successfully, that it had no jurisdiction.

In a statement made public at Louisville, Ky., last night Bishop Cannon said, "making such statements on the floor of the house, where he is immune from prosecution, brands him as a blustering, cowardly congressman."

KIDNAPED BY TRIO ROBBED, TAKEN TO DANVILLE, HE SAYS

E. J. Whitman, 30 years old, 9029 Laflin street, a collector for the Postl Health club, 312 South Wabash avenue, and a brother-in-law of Charles M. Postl, head of the club, reported to the police of Danville, Ill., late last night that he had been kidnaped in Chicago at noon by three men in a large automobile, who released him on the Dixie highway a few miles north of Danville. The kidnapers took $46 from his pockets, he said.

After he had walked into Danville and notified the police Whitman called Postl by telephone. He said he was leaving a building at Randolph and Clinton streets when he was seized by the three men, who at pistol point threw him into their car and drove away. Postl said Whitman suffered no harm at the hands of the kidnapers and was at a loss to understand the motive for his abduction. Members of Whitman's family said they believed he was a victim of mistaken identity.

FLY ACROSS U. S. AND BACK AGAIN UNDER 32 HOURS

Brock and Schlee Set New Mark.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 18.—(AP)—Battling storms and fuel shortages on their eastward trip, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee today completed the fastest recorded round trip ocean to ocean flight across the United States.

They reached San Diego, Cal., in the record time of 13 hours, 55 minutes, and 30 seconds without incident, but despite adversity which struck them soon after they started the return voyage and followed them to the end the flyers managed to make it back in 16 hours and 50 minutes. Their elapsed time for the round trip, covering approximately 4,200 miles, was 31 hours and 58 minutes.

Land with Crash at Finish.

After fighting severe electrical storms and head winds over the Rockies last night and being forced to land for fuel at Tallulah, La., this morning they ran out of gas at the local municipal airport and crashed into a fence, narrowly escaping injury and doing considerable damage to the plane. They had crossed the finish line at Jacksonville Beach, 12 miles away, a few minutes before.

Leaving San Diego at 5:11 p. m. [P. S. T.] the airmen encountered their first difficulties over the mountains. Several times, they said, they thought they would be forced to jump in their parachutes. Riding from one storm to another they barely managed to get through. The landing at Tallulah was made at 9 a. m. When they reached Jacksonville they flew into dense clouds. Brock estimated he spent nearly forty minutes seeking his bearings.

Stop May Cloud Record.

The landing at Tallulah prevented the west to east flight from being nonstop and threw a question on any claim for a record. Flight officials said the time for the flight would be compared with the marks set by Capt. Frank Hawks on an ocean to ocean basis, despite the fact that Hawks' route was about 400 miles longer than that taken by Brock and Schlee.

NEW YORK TO GIVE NOISY GREETING TO BYRD'S PARTY

Antarctic Heroes Will Be Welcomed Today.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his antarctic companions are coming home tomorrow from the south pole and New York is on tip toes to greet them. There will be a picturesque harbor parade, with the guns of Governor's island booming above the din of steamboat whistles. There will be a march through noonday crowds from the Battery to city hall, where the official welcome will be staged on Jimmy Walker's front steps. There will be luncheons, dinners, receptions and at least one wedding.

Grover Whalen, dean of the city's greeters, will be on hand, of course. So will Mayor Walker and every other high ranking city official. Admiral Byrd's home state, Virginia, will be represented by a delegation headed by Gov. John Garland Pollard.

First Met at Quarantine.

The wives and families of the eighty-one members of the expedition will sail down the bay to quarantine to meet the ships on which the adventurers are returning. The army and the navy, the marines, the National Guard, the Boy Scouts, and most of the working population of lower Manhattan will be at the Battery when the three city boats—Macom, Riverside and Manhattan—unload the south pole men for the land parade.

Two planes will greet the Byrd party at sea. A navy amphibian will carry former Governor Henry F. Byrd of Virginia, brother of Admiral Byrd, and others. In the other plane will be Mary Daly, aviatrix, and newspaper men with a welcome to Russell Owen, reporter of the Byrd expedition.

Wedding for Side Feature.

Prof. Lawrence Gould, geologist of the Byrd expedition, is to be married almost immediately after his arrival to Miss Margaret Rice, a student at the University of Michigan. Miss Rice, who arrived here today, is the daughter of a Detroit financier. Her home is in Grand Rapids.

Special stands have been erected at city hall for the day's ceremonies. Admiral Byrd will be created an honorary doctor of law by New York university.

From tomorrow until July 15 Admiral Byrd and his companions will be entertained at receptions, luncheons, and dinners almost daily. On July 11 Admiral Byrd is scheduled to go to Chicago and give the central states their chance to greet him.

SELL HOTEL BELMONT BAR PLUS A DASH OF ATMOSPHERE FOR $27

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—The historic bar of the Hotel Belmont, might have been sold today under the auctioneer's hammer for $2 had not a gin bottle, a seltzer bottle, and two drinking glasses added $25 to its value.

When James P. Silo, auctioneer, who has been disposing of the hotel's furnishings, opened bids on the bar he was prepared for the worst. He heard the initial offer of $2 with equanimity and produced the bottles and glasses.

There was a faint rustle among the purchasers. Irving Finn of the Bronx offered $27. Not another dollar would the bar bring. Mr. Silo knocked his hammer. Mr. Finn said he would present the bar to a friend who owns a home in the country.

KING AND QUEEN FLEE AS BOLT KILLS BOOKMAKER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—The second day of the fashionable Ascot race meeting broke up with a near riot this afternoon when a torrential rainstorm sent thousands of magnificently clad women scurrying for shelter, and six inches of water on the course made further racing impossible. A bookmaker was killed by a flash of lightning, and one of the grand stands was struck.

The storm broke suddenly in full fury shortly after the Royal Hunt cup race was run. King George, Queen Mary and the royal party hurried to left the royal loge and dashed to Windsor castle in closed automobiles.

In the wild scramble for shelter dozens of fashionably dressed women fell or were knocked down in the mud.

The storm swept other parts of England and five persons have been reported killed in London either by lightning or drowning. Train services were disorganized, roads torn up, and houses struck.

CONGRESS GETS RESOLUTION TO ALTER DRY LAW

Michaelson in Favor of National Referendum.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Representative M. Alfred Michaelson [Rep., Ill.] today introduced in the house a resolution for modification of the eighteenth admendment.

In connection with the resolution Mr. Michaelson placed in the record a statement declaring that he is convinced "the people of this country are losing faith in the efficiency of the eighteenth amendment and the legislation passed in pursuance of it."

"The time is ripe to start the movement for the amendment of the amendment," he asserted. "In order to crystallize public sentiment for or against such an amendment I favor a nation-wide referendum or a referendum by states on this question at the earliest possible moment."

Acquitted of Florida Charge.

Representative Michaelson, who represents a Chicago district, entered the spotlight two years ago when he was indicted in Florida on a charge of bringing in liquor from Cuba in a leaky trunk. Later Michaelson was acquitted when a relative assumed responsibility for the trunk.

At the time of the Florida incident Representative Michaelson was generally labeled as a dry because he had voted for the Jones five and ten law. In his statement today, however, he asserted that "I am not a dry; neither am I a wet." Explaining his Jones law vote he said:

"I voted for this amendment not from the standpoint of wet or dry but because I believed, as did the people generally, throughout the country, that a more severe penalty for commercialized law violators might prove a deterrent on those and their kind who were responsible for the terrible St. Valentine's day massacre in Chicago, which had just recently shocked the entire nation.

"Jones Law a Failure."

"Whatever hopes any one had in this regard have since been dashed to the ground. Crime is on the increase, respect for law and order is noticeably on the decline and the emphasis that was put on the cell and stone pile as deterrents is meeting with contempt and seems not to have had the desired effect."

Under the resolution sponsored by Mr. Michaelson the judiciary committee of the house would report a joint resolution having for its purpose an amendment to the 18th amendment to vest in congress the exclusive power to deal with the liquor problem as it sees fit. Such an amendment would allow congress to establish the Canadian dispensary system, permit the sale of wines and beer, set up any other kind of a liquor system or retain the present absolute prohibition plan, as it chose.

Chester E. Cleveland, a Chicago attorney, was credited by Mr. Michaelson with devising the amendment proposed in his resolution.

COMMITTEE REPORT CONDEMNS DRY LAW SLAYER OF VIRKKULA

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Emmett J. White, federal customs patrol officer, was charged with "culpable negligence" in a report filed today by the house claims committee in support of its resolution for a payment of $5,000 to the widow and children of Henry Virkkula of Big Falls, Minn.

While driving home with his wife and two children Virkkula was shot and killed by White on June 8, 1928, near International, Falls, Minn.

The report quoted at length from a statement made by the author of the relief bill, Representative W. A. Pittenger [Rep., Minn.], which had declared that "no man of ordinary prudence who has any regard for human life would, under the circumstances disclosed by the testimony of White himself, fire into the car as he did."

"White was armed with a sawed-off shotgun," the statement continued. "Each cartridge contained nine deadly missiles. Because of the shortness of the barrel, they scattered while fired four times. Virkkula was instantly killed. He had been shot in the back of the neck. Twenty-six bullet marks are on the car."

Agent White was indicted in Koochiching, Minnesota; the case was removed to federal court, and resulted in his acquittal. The committee held, however, that the acquittal did not affect the government's obligations to the victims.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon wrote to the committee in opposition to the bill, saying its passage would be "conducive to increased lack of respect for the customs laws."

LIFT CORNS RIGHT OUT

The English Way

Right from England comes the new, better, joyful way to take out corns—root and all.

Callouses go also and you can rub off that hard skin on heels and toes with your hand—the magic treatment.

Ask any leading druggist for a package of Radox—put 2 tablespoonfuls in a gallon of hot water—do this for 3 or 4 nights in succession—then lift out the corns.

This joyful exhilarating foot bath is simply great—you'll enjoy every minute of it and your burning, sore, tired and aching feet will feel better than they have for years—ask for Radox and foot comfort will be yours.

MICHIGAN DUMPS EX-CONVICTS ON CHICAGO, HE SAYS

Parole Records Cited by Police Captain.

Michigan is paroling convicts with the stipulation that they leave the state and is thereby unloading some of its criminals on Chicago. The charge was made yesterday by Capt. Joseph Goldberg of the Albany Park police station after an investigation of the arrest on Sunday of two former Michigan convicts. The pair were found with the $2,560 loot taken from Charles Fernald, a second vice president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, in a recent holdup.

The prisoners are Harry Rinstein, 24 years old, who was paroled from the penitentiary at Jackson, Mich., last Feb. 15 from a 2½ to ten year sentence, and Ralph Howard, 23, paroled last Jan 30 from the same institution, to which he had been sentenced to 5 to 10 years. Both were paroled to Maj. F. C. Thomas of the Volunteers of America, who heads the Hope hall for discharged convicts at 6036 Ravenswood avenue.

Records of Paroles.

Records of the Michigan parole board show that 29 convicts were paroled to Maj. Thomas in 1930. Of this number, 17 were released from Jackson, 10 from Ionia, Mich., scene of a recent jail delivery, and two from the Detroit house of correction. No records of these releases are sent to the Chicago police.

"The system is an outrage," Capt. Goldberg said. "It dumps a dangerous class on the city without warning. We have enough trouble keeping track of our own hoodlums without taking on all comers. When a job is pulled here it is difficult enough to round up our own crooks without having to worry about those from other states.

"As far as the police know these Michigan convicts are respectable citizens, and when we do arrest them on suspicion we find no records and turn them loose, free from further surveillance. Illinois parole laws require the man to stay in the state, but under the Michigan law if the man is found within the state he can be sent back for his full sentence."

Gov. Fred W. Green and Richard W. Nebel of the Michigan parole board said at Lansing yesterday that the policy of paroling men out of the state is pursued only in isolated cases in order to prevent the prisoner from returning to old gang associations. Both said that men are not freed under the plan until jobs are assured.

At Hope Hall it was said Michigan had sent many prisoners in former years. The officers of the hall said they could not proceed against the inmates if they violated parole.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Lester Rivers, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Milton Thomas and Sam Beach, robbery, each sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Carlo Sutera, burglary, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Stanley Garrick, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Alfred Phommer, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Peter Schwaba.

Wet Jersey Victory Stirs Prophets.

vided, demonstrates that the repeal movement has developed tremendous momentum.

"This is a great tribute to a great man," said Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. "The Republicans of New Jersey not only understand Dwight Morrow's unique abilities but they are also determined to repeal the eighteenth amendment and thus restore to the people of our forty-eight sovereign states their ancient American right of local self-government in local affairs. The Republican leaders of other states may well take warning before it is too late."

Dry League Belittles Result.

On the other hand, the Anti-Saloon league belittled the result, saying that the nomination of a wet in New Jersey is no more significant that the nomination of a dry in Maine.

"The phenomenal interest in the nomination of one wet to replace another," said the league, "is probably on the theory that Mr. Morrow may become the national wet leader to restore the liquor traffic. If so, it is a vain wet hope, because Mr. Morrow has no plans to solve the liquor problem."

Roosevelt Runs as Wet.

Albany, N. Y., June 18.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will run for reelection on a wet platform, it became known today—just how wet has not been decided. While the governor himself will not discuss the situation it is known that he regards the idea that the Democratic party in New York state is anything else than wet is ridiculous.

It is also understood that he believes a mere declaration for light wine and beer is out of the question. The Democratic platform's plank on prohibition will be far different from that of two years ago.

The victory of Dwight Morrow yesterday in New Jersey is believed to have had a far reaching effect on the Democratic leaders in this state. Those who remained over in Albany today after the state committee meeting were of the opinion that a very decided stand concerning prohibition must be taken, and the governor has agreed with them.

DAWES PLUNGES INTO FAIR WORK ON ARRIVAL HERE

Plans Finance Campaign for Exposition.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Ambassador Charles G. Dawes arrived home from England yesterday for a stay of about two weeks. He plunged at once into the work of financing the Chicago Century of Progress exposition.

"This is like old days in the A. E. F.," he said, as he sat behind a stack of mail at his desk in the Central Trust company offices, dictating correspondence and disposing of numerous visitors at the same time.

Dynamic in action, unchanged in manner by his residence in London, Gen. Dawes soon had the main facts in the fair situation in hand and had made his plan of campaign. It will be with no ballyhoo now. Before the public realizes it the buildings will be up on the lake front and the dream will emerge into reality. Dawes is behind this with all his force and resources. He will not rest until it is an accomplished fact, and particularly until the money is in hand to pay all the bills.

Predicts Victory Over Crime.

Upon his arrival he was met with questions about what he thought of the crime situation in Chicago, its effect upon the fair, and if he contemplated doing anything about it. Some enterprising reporter in London had written a surmise that the ambassador was to be called into action in his home city and would resign his post.

He made it clear that his whole business here at this time is in connection with the exposition and personal affairs, that he has no thought of resigning. At the same time he expressed complete faith in the citizenship of Chicago and in the ability of the city to emerge victorious from this combat with the "hornets that are stinging the lion into action." He looks upon it all as an opportunity for Chicago to show the real stuff that is in it.

"It is not a time for talking, but for acting," he said in discussing the subject of crime.

"No Thought of Resigning."

He said he was returning to Great Britain in two weeks.

"I have no thought of resigning," he stated. "I am enabled to go back in two weeks because everything in connection with the Century of Progress is going on so well."

Gen. Dawes conferred with several of the exposition workers. He is particularly pleased at getting the services of Sir Walter George Cole, British exposition expert, as head of the department of European exhibits.

Gen. Dawes would not discuss the naval treaty, saying that he had expressed himself in detail on that to the press when he landed.

PREDICTS PAPER OF 1980 WILL BE MADE BY RADIO

Milwaukee, Wis., June 18.—(AP)—Frank Parker Stockbridge, editor of the American Press and veteran of 50 years in journalism, today looked 50 years into the future and gave his forecast of what the newspaper of that day may be like.

Drawing on recent scientific achievements as the basis for his picture, he told the National Editorial association that the horoscope hints at these things:

The editor will receive his quota of general news, general advertising, pictures and features by radio, in facsimile, automatically, by means of machines.

The pages of the paper will be transmitted by radio to subscribers, and reproduced on sensitized paper.

HUNDREDS TAKE PART IN BIG MAN HUNT IN NEW YORK

2 Slain by Maniac, 14 More Threatened.

New York, June 18.— [Special.] — The greatest man hunt in the history of the New York police department got under way tonight seeking the man who shot to death two men in Queens in the last seven days and sent letters threatening to kill fourteen others.

Under the direction of Police Commissioner Edward Mulrooney, 425 detectives, motorcycle, automobile, and gun squads as well as 1,000 uniformed policemen patrolled the less frequented roads in Queens. Postal inspectors are aiding the search.

Two suspects were brought in by the patrol late tonight. One was found crawling in a clump of weeds and tall grass near College Point and the other was found seated in an automobile parked without lights in Richmond Hill.

"I didn't kill anybody," were the latter's first words. In the automobile the police found some rope, a pillow and clothing.

Both suspects were looked over by Miss Elizabeth Ring, the woman who witnessed the slaying of Noel Sowley, one of the victims. She was certain that neither man could have been the murderer, and the suspects were freed.

The hunted man—believed by the police to be insane—is held responsible for the fatal shooting of Sowley, 26, of Bergen Beach, near Creedmore, on Tuesday night, and the killing of Joseph Moyzynsky, a grocer, near College Point, a week ago. The grocer also was with a girl when he was killed.

Because of this woman angle, detectives and women policemen sat in pairs in autos in secluded spots tonight, inviting attack in the hope of capture of the madman.

FRANCE PLANS HIGH TAX TO RID HIGHWAYS OF THE BILLBOARD EVIL

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 18.—France will try in the next year to reduce the disfiguration of countryside beauty spots by billboard advertising. The billboards are going to be taxed so heavily that it is hoped their size, if not their numbers, will be curtailed.

It is proposed to include in next year's taxation a levy of $24 a square meter (about 11 square feet) for every billboard of less than six square meters (about 65 square feet) with a sliding scale tax which will reach $100 a square meter for every billboard of more than 20 square meters (about 215 square feet).

Some of the billboards at present lining the main roads out of Paris will have to pay a tax of $16,000 a year if they are maintained.

ASKS CITY TO BAN TINY GOLF LOTS IN RESIDENCE ZONES

Ald. O'Toole Seeks Action from Council.

An attack on miniature golf courses in residential and apartment districts was made yesterday in the city council by Ald. William R. O'Toole [14th], chairman of the buildings and zoning committee. He introduced a resolution, which was referred to his committee for a hearing, directing the building commissioner to stop the operation of the courses and to have them removed.

"The courses are a commercial enterprise operated for private gain," said Ald. O'Toole, "and should not be located in residential and apartment districts. They are operated until early hours in the morning and create a disturbance that prevents nearby residents from sleeping, and detract from the rental value of property.

Urges License System.

"I believe that the city should license and obtain a revenue from them. I think restrictions should prohibit their location in any except districts zoned for commercial and industrial purposes." City Collector Eller also announced he would ask the council for an ordinance providing a license fee.

The resolution was in conflict with the action of the zoning board of appeals in the morning. The board ruled that the courses may be located in all districts except one family dwelling districts and overruled Building Commissioner Paschen's refusal to issue permits for three courses.

Follows Corr Opinion.

This decision was based on an opinion of Frank J. Corr, assistant corporation counsel, which was approved by Corporation Counsel Ettelson. The opinion was given after Paschen had halted the work of the Metropolitan Golf Courses, Inc., on the installation of a course at 67th street and Oglesby avenue.

Paschen refused permits for courses at 173-183 Delaware place, 6301 Sheridan road, and 7920-30 Yates avenue. Other cases pendings are for lots at 71st and Coles avenue and 7507-09 South Shore drive.

INDIANA SHERIFF IS SENTENCED AS PUBLIC DRUNK

Greensburg, Ind., June 18. — [Special.]—Leon Neal, 31, sheriff of Ohio county, was convicted of possession of liquor and public intoxication in City court here today. He was sentenced to thirty days at the state farm and fined $130.

With Neal at the time of his arrest here was a woman, who gave the name of Miss Minnie Kerrigan, Marysville, Ky. The couple was registered at a hotel under the name of Ralph Moore and wife.

It was from the Ohio county jail that Ralph Moore and Jack Teale, rum runners, escaped Sunday. Following the delivery Neal said that he and his wife were overpowered by the prisoners and several visitors.

CAN'T you get the grease off that DIRTY STOVE?

Quick! GOLD DUST does a faster, better, cleaner job.... without the use of sand or grit

GREASE is untidy on stove or range. To end dirt and grime—use Gold Dust, the fast-working cleaner that CONTAINS NO GRIT.

Don't fool around with EXPENSIVE FLAKES for heavy, dirty work. Gold Dust is ESPECIALLY MADE for removing that DIRTY DIRT.

And so, to make heavy housework easy, avoid these two mistakes: Don't use flakes on sink or floors. Don't scratch woodwork with harsh cleansers that contain GRIT instead of soap. Stick to Gold Dust for cleaning dirty dirt, and learn to smile at household DRUDGERY.

So many soaps just wash off the surface dirt, and they don't get right down to ground-in grime. But Gold Dust does—it makes your home spotless, KILLS dangerous GERMS instantly! Makes everything SAFE and SANITARY.

There is NO MAGIC about Gold Dust. It is simply a better . . . far more PEPPY SOAP!

Be sensible. Keep Gold Dust on your KITCHEN SHELF and say GOOD-BYE to greasy sinks and stoves . . . dirty walls and floors . . . and grimy bathtubs.

Woodwork washed with expensive flakes or chips is apt to look gray and smudgy, not quite clean.

Harsh cleansers are so likely to scratch and mar. And they leave unsightly deposits of grit.

COOK EXPECTS OUTSIDE HELP IN REMAP FIGHT

Voters in Other Districts Disfranchised.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

In the circle of counties girdling Cook county and in industrial areas downstate the census shows inequalities of representation at Washington as well as at Springfield. In these districts Cook county legislators hope to enlist aid in the fight for reapportionment.

The census places Joliet, Aurora, and Waukegan in the same boat as Chicago in the matter of "taxation without representation." So are East St. Louis, down on the Mississippi river, and other centers of large industrial growth. The figures show that a resident of Shawneetown or Golconda, down in Egypt, is equal to more than two residents of Elgin or Joliet in the election of members of congress.

Eleventh District Gains.

Du Page, Kane, McHenry and Will counties, adjoining Cook in the metropolitan area, form the Eleventh congressional district. The census gives them a combined population of 356,549. Ten years ago the district had a population of 267,694. In ten years the district has increased approximately 33 per cent in population. It has grown at an even faster rate than Chicago with its approximate 25 per cent gain.

By way of comparison, the local legislators look at the Twenty-fourth congressional district. This is composed of eleven counties in Egypt which have combined population of 161,211. Each of the counties, excepting one —Massac—has less population than ten years ago. In the 1920 census the district had 179,786 population, and the 1930 census shows it has lost about 10 per cent.

Cite East St. Louis District.

Similarly in the Twenty-second district, which includes the East St. Louis industrial area. The census gives this district a population of 343,420. Ten years ago it was 290,425, an increase of about 18 per cent. Like the Will-Du Page district the voter there has about half as much voice at Washington as has the voter in the Twenty-fourth district.

Since 1901 there has been no congressional reapportionment, due to the opposition of country members to giving Cook county more congressmen. This is why Illinois elects two congressmen at large, this being the only state with more than one congressman which has not carved out new districts, one for each member.

Show Congressional Lineup.

The growing disfranchisement, which in the eyes of Cook county legislators is stimulating sentiment for reapportionment in counties like Will, Lake, and Du Page, is brought home with a vengeance by the census figures. Cook county with its 3,989,069 population has ten district congressmen, and Lake county with 103,350 population is included in the Tenth district.

Adding the Du Page-Will district, with its 356,549, gives a combined figure of 4,448,968, which is approximately 58 per cent of the population of the state. It elects only eleven district congressmen, while the other 42 per cent of the state's population elects fourteen district congressmen and in addition has both Republican nominees this year for congressman at large, Richard Yates and Frank L. Smith.

FINDS TEN YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE O. K., SO HE WEDS HIS "WIFE"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, June 18. — Nelson Rounsevell, a Nebraskan and publisher of the American Daily Panama American, commented in an editorial this morning on his marriage with Bonnie Baker of Des Moines, Ia.

"After ten years 10 months and 14 days of moderately peaceful happiness as husband and wife Mrs. Rounsevell and I have decided to risk the perils of matrimony," Mr. Rounsevell wrote.

He then told how he met Bonnie at Des Moines on July 30, 1919, three weeks after he was discharged from the A. E. F., and how within three hours they both left for Oregon, traveling as companionate man and wife. They were not married, as legal barriers stood in the way then which have since been removed. They later traveled together through California, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, and Panama.

"And our relationship as husband and wife has been so conducted that many persons have actually suspected that we were married. Now that suspicion is well founded," the editorial declared.

They were married yesterday by a Canal Zone magistrate, following an attorney's advice. The Canal Zone's laws do not recognize common law marriage. Both have been living in the American owned Hotel Tivoli in the Canal Zone.

SHANAHAN AND MALONE CLASH; STIR ASSEMBLY

number of Cook county officials to appear before it Tuesday afternoon.

Passing a resolution proposed by Senator Lowell B. Mason of Oak Park, the upper house invited Mayor Thompson, the presidents of the three major park boards, the president of the board of education, the village heads of Oak Park and Evanston, the presidents of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and the Chicago Public library board, and all other duly appointed or duly elected officials of local governing bodies situated in Cook county to appear for presenting such facts "as are pertinent to the tax legislation pending before this legislature."

The resolution also provided for the appointment of a committee of five senators who are carefully to examine all tax legislation pending. This committee was empowered to subpoena witnesses, books, and documents as it deemed necessary.

Sterling Names Investigators.

Lieut. Gov. Sterling, as president of the senate, named Mason and Senators Victor P. Michael, Peoria; Earl B. Searcy, Springfield; and Adolph Marks and Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago as the investigating group. Senators Edward J. Hughes and James J. Barbour of Chicago declined appointment.

The senate's action, if all investigators are accepted, will bring a crowd of at least 2,000 officials into the state house Tuesday afternoon, including every one from the mayor and President Cermak of the Cook county board to the last duly elected constable in the county.

The senate had just passed its resolution as a fiery interchange took place on the floor of the house between Speaker Shanahan and Minority Leader Igoe. Since the house was in session as a committee of the whole, Mr. Shanahan had relinquished his post to Representative David L. Swanson of Chicago and had taken his old seat on the floor, which he seldom occupies.

The speaker asked Mr. Fairweather to recall an occasion when he [Shanahan] had stated he thought it "unwise" to include a bill such as Mr. Igoe presented yesterday, in the special session. It would be "unwise" to ask a Republican legislature to abolish two Republican boards—the assessors and reviewers, he argued then, he said.

The Democratic leader leaped up at this.

IGOE—I'm obliged to the speaker for telling us about that. He's more interested in politics than the people.

SHANAHAN—I gave my honest opinion. Your bill would allow a Democratic president of the county board to appoint the assessor and reviewer, an I have grave doubts that it would be advisable to give this power to the Democratic party.

IGOE [shaking his fists and shouting]—The Democrats would do a damn sight better than the Republicans. Why don't you forget your partisanship? We don't get a chance at you very often.

SHANAHAN—I'm not afraid of a Democratic president of the county board, he is my old friend. But today's move was engineered solely for political reasons.

IGOE—That's a typical broadminded Republican way of looking at it.

This colloquy came to an end and the stand was cleared for C. H. Pease, accountant of Evanston, who, before he left the post, said that the board of review had slashed more than $5,000,000 from the reassessment books and thus prevented the collection of about $250,000 in taxes.

Pease said he was hired by the tax commission and worked on the books in the board of review.

Reviewer Charles V. Barrett sent Speaker Shanahan a wordy wire regretting his inability to be present. It included this: "I am fearful that too much politics is being played in this matter. My advice is to give the people themselves a chance to rule on those matters, and not individuals representing the Loop Building Managers' association in Chicago."

Tire prices are down!

—anyone can afford Goodyears this summer

When rubber goes down, tire prices follow.

If you think these are merely advertising claims demand to see the proof.

Any Goodyear Dealer will be glad to demonstrate the facts.

That's why more new motor cars leave the factories on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more transcontinental, urban and interurban buses and coaches operate on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why more truck tonnage is hauled on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

That's why, throughout the world, year after year, more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind!

No mistake about it, this season is the chance of a lifetime to take full advantage of low tire prices and high Goodyear value.

RURALITES YIELD BUT A LITTLE ON TAX AMENDMENT

But Woo Chicago Votes on That Little.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.]—Chicago's effort to halt advancement of the resolution for amendment of the state constitution to permit levying of an income tax and other new imposts, was overridden today by the downstate bloc in the house of representatives, but its apparent strength was short of the two-thirds necessary for final passage of the resolution.

Under steady pressure from the majority, Cook county's chief demands for changes in the resolution were defeated or were altered to meet a compromise. The only one of these compromises considered material was one limiting the state's share of the proceeds of an income tax to 15 per cent, except by two-thirds vote of both houses.

Unaltered in its general nature, it was announced that the resolution was ready for final consideration by the house; but by tacit agreement that it should be printed in its revised form, passage was postponed until tomorrow.

Woo Chicago Votes.

The downstate forces, following the Emmerson leadership, failed to show anything like the 102 votes required for passage of the proposed amendment. Their top figure on the two roll calls—the rest of decisions being cast by rising or viva voca votes—was 88, and efforts to win over Chicago votes were reported under way tonight.

The argument being made to them is that the provision restricting the enactment of an income tax law gives Cook county protection, and it is reported that a number of Chicagoans anxious for downstate help on the Strawn committee bills for the relief of the local governments of that county are inclined to let the resolution be passed tomorow—some of them voting for it—in the belief that the proposal will be beaten in the popular referendum next November.

Senate Wants More.

But from the senate—which passed the resolution in its original form last month—came word that even the amendments put on by the house were not acceptable, that if the revised resolution is passed by the representatives tomorrow it will have to go to a conference committee of the two houses where the senators will insist that the state's possible share of income taxes be increased materially and the imposition of such a tax be made possible by a three-fifths vote.

This difference in reference to the vote is material. For example, three-fifths vote of the senate is 31. Downstate has 32 votes. Two-thirds is 34. The ratio in the house of representatives is the same. Therefore, with the two-thirds rule in effect, Cook county would have a veto power. Under a three-fifths provision the downstate majority would dominate.

United Against Chicago.

This report of the senate's attitude coupled with resentment of downstate's anti-constitutional attitude toward reapportionment created doubt in the minds of observers that many Cook county members can be won over to the resolution by tomorrow.

"The legislature is guilty of a crime against the people of Illinois in not reapportioning the state," said Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, a leader of the redistricting battle for years.

"Still I am cognizant that real estate owners are entitled to some relief by this amendment, whether reapportionment come snow or not. Reapportionment must come. It will come by some means, but I am willing to meet that question by itself."

Add Laughter to Defeat.

Two proposed changes in the resolution restricting the new powers to be given the legislature under the resolution were voted down by viva voce votes amid laughter by some of the downstaters. Similar treatment was given other motions from Cook county sources.

Consideration of the resolution occupied nearly four hours. In addition to the change concerning the levying of an income tax, only two changes were made. One retained the present language of the organic law permitting the tex exemption of property used for religious, educational and charitable purposes. The other continued the present law requiring that all real estate shall be in one class except for mineral land and lands devoted to reforestation.

How the Votes Went.

The first Chicago motion, one by Igoe to substitute for the pending resolution the one submitted to the voters in 1926, was defeated on roll call by 41 to 87. The next one, by Thon, requiring two-thirds' vote for any tax on incomes or gross sales lost on a rising vote by 40 to 83.

The Thon amendment to limit the state's share of income taxes to 10 per cent brought an effort by Little to raise the figure to 25 per cent and the final adoption of a substitute by Devine fixing the 15 per cent ratio.

The 15 per cent figure was adopted on a rising vote by a vote of 51 to 49, and the Thon amendment then was passed by a vote of 88 to 10.

BILL TO HELP PREVENT UNEMPLOYMENT IS O. K.'D BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Legislation to aid in preventing unemployment advanced another step today with approval by the house judiciary committee of the Wagner bill to provide for advance planning and regulation of public works.

The second of the three companion measures introduced by Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], which reached the judiciary committee after passage by the senate, was referred to a subcommittee for further study. This bill would establish employment agencies under a federal aid plan.

The third proposal, by which an index of employment is sought through the collection of labor statistics, has been reported by the labor committee.

The bill reported contemplates the advance planning of federal public works in times of business depression. The New Yorker, argued before the committee, that the regulation of the $3,500,000,000 spent annually for public works, would be a tremendous factor toward stabilizing employment conditions.

At the White House today William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, after a conference with President Hoover, said there was evidence "that we are reaching a point of improvement in employment conditions."

ARVEY CHARGES WOLFE TRIES TO TANGLE COUNCIL

Aroused by Three Bids on Traffic Light Repair.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] in the meeting of the council finance committee yesterday accused Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe of trying to confuse the aldermen on three bids received for the repair, servicing, and painting of traffic signal lights.

The bids were submitted by the Welsbach Traffic Signal company, the Fries-Walter company, and the Outdoor Lighting company. For repairs and service for the remainder of this year the Outdoor company's offer of $78,605 was several thousand dollars lower than the other two bids.

Paint Job Is Included.

The bid of the Outdoor company for painting each signal light was $6.10, compared with the $2.75 offer of the Welsbach company. Commissioner Wolfe in his analysis included the painting of all lights—3,184—installed in 1927 and 1928. With the addition of the painting costs the Welsbach company had a total bid of $91,480 and the Outdoor company a total bid of $98,027.

At the request of Health Commissioner Kegel the committee sent a telegram to Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' fiscal rescue committee, informing him that it is the desire of the council to include in the financial relief bills now before the legislature the sum of $300,000 to place the health department's expenditures on the basis of 1929. The aldermen added to the message, "If this will not jeopardize the passage of the bills."

Vote Two Appropriations.

Two appropriations were passed by the council yesterday. One of $150,000 was made out of the special assessment rebate fund to the department of electricity for the relocation of street lights and conduits on Ashland and Western avenues and La Salle street. The other appropriation was for $79,000 to the bureau of parks and playgrounds for life guards and attendants at the city's beaches.

STEALS BOX OF CANDY, $60.

An armed man yesterday took a box of candy and $60 from Miss Olga Holmes, clerk in a candy store at 830 East 63d street.

ALD. ROSS SAYS HIS SAY AND NO MAYOR'S GAVEL CAN STOP HIM

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th] spoke yesterday on the refrigeration ordinance before the city council. His speech was accompanied by the rhythmical banging of Mayor Thompson's gavel. The mayor was trying to rule a point of order, but the alderman raised the pitch of his voice and continued until the end of his speech.

The occasion was the calling up for passage of the ordinance for the regulation of artificial refrigerators. The health committee, headed by Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th], recommended the ordinance prepared by the boiler inspection department, while a minority report to the council favored Health Commissioner Kegel's ordinance. Ross spoke for the boiler department's ordinance.

Action on the ordinance was postponed until the next council meeting on July 2.

SEEKS TO CANCEL 'L' TRACK LEASE TO NILES CENTER

Ald. Albert Asks I. C. C. to End Contract.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] announced last night he had filed a petition with the Illinois commerce commission requesting the cancellation of the contract between the North Shore Electric line and the Chicago Rapid Transit company for the operation of "L" trains from Howard avenue to Niles Center.

The petition states this trackage is owned by the North Shore line, a company controlled by the directors who supervise operations of the Rapid Transit company. The petition also says that since 1925 the Rapid Transit company has paid approximately $1,000,000 for rental.

"These rentals would provide the interest and dividend charges on several million dollars of capital that could be used to pay for various extensions and improvements on Rapid Transit lines," said Ald. Albert.

The petition asks that the "L" company be ordered to cease operation of its trains over the tracks and that the North Shore line be directed to establish service and reduce its present single ride fare of 58 cents from Chicago stations to Niles Center to 17 cents. The 17 cent fare is now charges for single rides on "L" trains.

The commission also is asked to permit lease of wooden coaches by the transit company to the North Shore line for the proposed Niles Center service from Howard street.

Albert also asks an inquiry to establish if the transit company should be reimbursed for improvements made since 1924.

SEWAGE DUMPED IN LAKES FOUND GROWING MENACE

Chicago Given Clean Bill by Federal Report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Dumping of sewage into the great lakes by cities other than Chicago has caused a drinking water problem which is becoming more difficult every year, in the opinion of the government public health service officials.

Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming made public today the report of a survey on the efficiency of a group of thirteen municipal water purification plants along the lakes.

The most highly polluted water was found to be at the extreme southern end of Lake Michigan in the Calumet area, while that near Cleveland stood second in this respect.

Chicago was, in effect, given a clean bill of health in the report, as all of its sewage goes down the drainage canal and does not pollute the lakes. Cleveland, which has been a center of opposition to the diversion of water to carry away the Chicago sewage, releases its waste into the lakes with the resultant problem of water purification, the health service report discloses.

5,500,000 Population Involved.

"The total population of incorporated communities located on and draining into the great lakes may be estimated roughly at 5,500,000, exclusive of Chicago, which is sewered into the upper Illinois river," the report states.

"Of this population something over 4,000,000, including Detroit, are drained into Lake Erie, either directly or through the Detroit river."

Including additional sources of pollution, such as unincorporated towns, summer colonies, and isolated industrial plants, the report declared that "the wastes of over six million people or their equivalent are discharged directly or indirectly into the waters of the great lakes along their American shores and interconnecting waters."

The thirteen water purification plants studied are at Ashtabula, O., Cleveland, O., Lorain, O., Elyria, O., Sandusky, O., Monroe, Mich., Wyandotte, Mich., Detroit, Mich., Bay City, Mich., East Chicago, Ind., Whiting, Ind., Evanston, Ill., and Winnetka, Ill.

Cleveland to Sandusky Named.

"The most highly polluted zone exists at the southern end of Lake Michigan, where the two plants at East Chicago and Whiting are located," the report said. "Although the zone extending in the Detroit river below Detroit, in which the Wyandotte plant is located, probably stands next in the order of relative average density of pollution, that which extends along the southern shore of Lake Erie from Cleveland to Sandusky stands second in this respect among the marginal zones of the great lakes proper and first from the standpoint of the magnitude of population involved."

The report concludes that, judged by the government standards for water, the plants at East Chicago and Whiting are clearly overburdened by excessive pollution, while, excluding chlorinization, both the Lorain and Wyandotte plants are overburdened, and those at Sandusky and Cleveland are "very close to the margin in this respect."

DEBATE DELAYS VOTE ON VALLEY WATERWAY PLAN

Diversion Rate Basis of Controversy.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.] — Controversy over Chicago water diversion continued today to delay action on the house rivers and harbors bill in the senate. Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] urged approval of the committee amendment to the water diversion proviso in the paragraph for federal completion of the Illinois state waterway project. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch [Rep., O.] argued for adoption of the Blaine substitute backed by the lakes states.

Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] is to speak tomorrow in behalf of the Illinois project. Possibility of action on the Blaine substitute tomorrow seems remote in view of a plan to allow a part of the day for action on the world war veterans' bill. Sponsors of the rivers and harbors bill fear that unless it is passed before the end of the week it may encounter a filibuster which will prevent action before adjournment of congress, which now seems likely to come about the middle of next week.

"The waterway provided in the pending bill connecting Lake Michigan with the Mississippi river is the vital link in the longest and greatest waterway within the interior of any continent," said Senator Deneen. "It runs for 3,300 miles from the heart of North America, beginning at the Gulf of St. Lawrence and thence following the St. Lawrence and the great lakes to Chicago and taking up its course anew, passing through Chicago, the Des Plaines, the Illinois, and the Mississippi rivers to the Gulf of Mexico.

"This should be a national waterway. It should be built and controlled and operated as a national waterway. The secretary of war and the chief of engineers should determine its character."

Senator Deneen said the Blaine substitute was drafted by Raymond T. Jackson with the approval of Newton D. Baker.

"It is generally known that Mr. Baker and Mr. Jackson represent clients who have large interests," said Senator Deneen, "but if I were permitted to offer a suggestion I would say that it would be more appropriate for them to represent their clients in the courts."

Grape Juice for Health

Physicians Recommend It

A Brain-Sharpener. Pure grape juice, served as a breakfast fruit, is so perfectly adapted to the human system that its rich fruit nourishment and mineral salts are taken into the blood stream without digestive effort—quick, new vigor to meet the awaiting problems of the day!

Non-Fattening. Pure grape juice deserves a prominent place on every reducing diet—first, because it supplies the kind of nourishment the body needs; secondly, because it is non-fattening. Its mildly laxative qualities keep one feeling fit and fine.

A Delightful Refreshment. For more than 60 years Welch's Grape Juice—the pure juice of luscious Concords—has proved a delightfully refreshing beverage for millions of people. Six liberal portions to the pint make it the most temptingly delicious 5c drink in America. Many prefer it diluted with one-third water. Insist on Welch's—pure, unadulterated.

TARIFF WILL NOT HURT YOUR TRADE —U. S. TO FRANCE

Protest Grows Against New American Rates.

PARIS, June 18.—(AP)—Ambassador Walter E. Edge introduced today what was intended as a calming note into the hostile discussion of the new American tariff schedule.

A communique issued at the embassy said the new rates, if applied to the French exports to the United States in 1928, would have added only about 3.35 per cent to the total duty, and added that "the revised American tariff signed yesterday by President Hoover can have no serious effect upon French exports to the States." The statement said:

"As is well known, by far the greater part of American purchases of French products is of quality commodities. It would be indeed a very small percentage of American buyers who would desist from purchasing exclusive French designs because of a small possible increase of cost. In fact, the negligible increase could be readily absorbed in the profits of the distributor.

Irritating Rules Removed.

"In considering tariff changes it must be admitted that almost every nation in the world is today operating under the protective system, and the tendency everywhere has been upward. However, in this tariff revision the American congress has taken the opportunity to include changes in administrative regulations that have in the past proven irritating and objectionable.

"An outstanding feature of the new act is the authority given the President to reorganize the tariff commission in order that scientific and expeditious investigations as to the justification of rates can be immediately undertaken.

"Under this provision, the tariff commission is charged with the responsibility of obtaining facts as to production costs at home and abroad and, together with the commission, the President is given authority to lower or raise to a maximum of 50 per cent any rate in the act that proves to be unfair or unjust."

Czechs and Germans Protest.

PRAGUE, June 18.—(AP)—Deputations from Czecho-Slovakian and German industrialist associations today protested to the United States minister against the new American tariff, which, they declare, would strangle the export trade of Czecho-Slovakia to America. The minister promised to visit personally the industrial centers and report to the United States government the view of the manufacturers.

Spain May Break Modus Vivendi.

MADRID, June 18.—(AP)—The government today was studying requests from foreign trade interests that the government "immediately denounce the modus vivendi of 1906 with the United States because its new tariff is prohibitive against most of Spain's exports to the United States."

Cuba Sees End of Friendship.

HAVANA, June 18.—(AP)—The newspaper El Mundo said today that signing of the Hawley-Smoot tariff measure brings to an end the long established and beneficial influence of Pan-Americanism upon the relations of Cuba with the United States.

"Henceforth, Cuba, the rest of the American nations, and ourselves, shall regard the United States as a formidable foe," says the editorial.

PLAN FOR GROUP TO STUDY FARM LABOR SHORTAGE ASSAILED

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—The McNary resolution to create a commission to study the reported shortage of farm labor was attacked by Representative John C. Box [Dem., Tex.] today as a move by administration leaders to thwart restriction of Mexican immigration. The McNary bill passed the senate yesterday.

"The farm board and special labor importing interests, who are promoting this resolution for another commission whose creation is based on a recited labor shortage, if they get the additional commission, will be keenly disappointed unless the President appoints men known in advance to be opposed to the restriction of pauper and peon immigration and in favor of bringing in more of it," Mr. Box declared.

"'Obviously not so intelligent,'" Box added, "is the mildest, most charitable term I can apply to the scheme of creating a commission to report an excuse for importing more pauper and peon labor under present conditions."

PARIS, June 18.—(AP)—Count Boni de Castellane, who has been suffering from a nerve trouble for more than a year, is confined to his home in Paris, unable to move about, his friends said today. The count's illness, however, is not regarded as serious. Up to a few weeks ago the former husband of Anna Gould was able to take short walks. Recently his physicians advised against such exercise.

SENATE ORDERS COST INQUIRY ON TARIFF ITEMS

Puts Flexible Clause to Work at Once.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Scarcely waiting for the White House ink to dry on the Smoot-Hawley tariff act, the senate today adopted the Borah resolution directing the tariff commission to investigate the cost of production of a number of articles.

Senator Borah introduced the resolution and left no doubt that his purpose was to force the administration at once to make use of the flexible tariff provision which the President has indorsed.

The resolution requires the tariff commission to investigate differences in cost of production and report at the earliest practicable date on shoes, furniture, cement, and a number of agricultural implements. To this list Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] by an amendment today added bells, wire fence, and wire netting.

'BIG BOY' GILLESPIE LAUGHS AT REPORTS HE HAS QUIT WIFE

Hollywood, Cal., June 18.—[Special.]—George Gillespie, who, possibly because of the volume of his voice, in wild west sound movies is known as "Big Boy," laughed today at reports that he has separated from his wife of a year, the former Katherine Thorne of Chicago.

"She's just back on a visit with her folks," "Big Boy" said, "and I expect to meet her in Arizona June 25. Then we'll take in the Frontier day rodeo together."

Gillespie said he was "on courteous terms" with members of the wealthy Robert J. Thorne family, but not yet in the family circle with his in-laws. He has become an installer of miniature golf courses on Los Angeles vacant lots.

McReynolds Refuses to Prevent Ban on Doctor

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Justice McReynolds of the Supreme court refused today a petition from attorneys for Dr. John R. Brinkley of Milford, Kas., to issue an order which would prevent the Kansas board of medical registration and examination from acting upon a complaint to bar Brinkley from practice.

CAR FRANCHISE QUESTIONED BY CHURCH EDITOR

Carlstrom Sees a Victory for Ordinance.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Rev. U. M. McGuire, editor The Baptist, will ask a number of questions regarding the transit franchise in the next issue of his publication. Explaining the appropriateness of the queries, he says.

"Anything which clearly involves questions of right and wrong or which affect the people's well being is everybody's business, particularly the business of religion."

Among the questions he raises are:

"Is the 'terminable franchise' actually terminable?

"Is it true that the present traction properties are to be combined at $50,000,000 more than their actual value? If so, who pays that excess valuation?

"Will the new ordinance deliver Chicago to a great power and utility corporation?"

Thompson Sounds Warning.

The reported effort of Samuel Insull, at the power conference in Berlin, to censor the speech of United States Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett, brought a statement from Carl D. Thompson of the committee against the transit ordinance.

"Mr. Sackett says that the selling price of electric power is 15 times the cost of production," said Mr. Thompson. "The transit ordinance, if approved, will give the interests concerned a perpetual grip upon the city to exact just such extortionate returns as are here described. It has been reckoned that this ordinance will permit the traction interests $21,000,000 more a year in return than they have been receiving."

Prof. Rodney B. Mott of the political science department of the University of Chicago said Attorney Walter L. Fisher's report to the federal court on the ordinance showed "numerous errors of fact and mistakes of judgment."

"When the 'indeterminate permit' is a disguise for a perpetual monopoly, the city loses all real control over its utilities," said Prof. Mott. "Mr. Fisher's ordinance is just that kind of a wolf in sheep's clothing. The power to revoke the franchise is so fettered by practical limitation that it is useless."

The committee against the ordinance, headed by David Rosenheim, yesterday challenged the nonpartisan committee, headed by Ald. McDonough, to a debate.

Labor Man Backs Ordinance.

Thomas L. Gregson, president of the Calumet Joint Labor council, which has indorsed the franchise, issued a statement yesterday in behalf of the ordinance.

"I hope every worker will give his support to the ordinance and eliminate the street car question," wrote Mr. Gregson. "I have studied the ordinance closely, and I believe that the public is being honestly dealt with. The workers use the surface and elevated lines. They have a direct personal interest in better transportation.

"I have had opportunity to compare the Chicago surface lines with the street cars in several European cities. Across the Atlantic I found that the fare is three and four times as much as in Chicago for the same distance, and under inferior conditions in all cases."

Carlstrom Sees Victory.

Attorney General Carlstrom spoke in favor of the ordinance last night before a group of foreign born citizens in the Hamilton club.

"I urge the citizens of Chicago, through a sincere interest in the city and its people, to consider the constructive features of the traction ordinance," said the attorney general. "I express the conviction that the ordinance should be overwhelmingly approved at the referendum July 1."

"It is unthinkable," wrote Dr. Willis O. Nance, an alderman for ten years and a member of the council committee on local transportation, "that the voters could pass up the golden opportunity in the referendum July 1."

Among the benefits of the plan Ald. Nance listed: A comprehensive unified local transportation system; a universal transfer system; definite guarantee of extensions and improvements; subways, and a provision for pensioning employés.

SENATE MAY REACH VOTE ON WORLD WAR VETERANS' BILL TODAY

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—An agreement which will insure a vote in the senate on the world war veterans bill, probably some time tomorrow, was forecast today by Senator Charles L. McNarry [Rep., Ore.], assistant majority leader who told the senate that he expected to be able at the start of tomorrow's session to propose an agreement which would permit disposition of this bill before the rivers and harbors bill is out of the way.

As soon as the veterans bill is passed it is planned to have the house concur in senate amendments and then rush it to the White House in order to force President Hoover to act before congress adjourns.

Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], chairman of the finance committee, which reported the bill favorably, opposed it in the senate today. He objected especially to a provision which would permit veterans suffering with diseases incurred through their own misconduct to receive special compensation for disability.

Place Last of Steel for Lingbergh Beacon Support

The last piece of steel was placed yesterday on the 75 foot tower which will support the Lindbergh beacon atop the Palmolive building on North Michigan avenue. When the 2,250,000,000 candle power light is turned on pilots will be able to see the beacon 500 miles from Chicago, engineers state. Present at the completion ceremony were President Charles Pearce of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company; Bert Massee, Felix Lowy, N. N. Dalton, vice presidents, and Col. Horatio B. Hackett of the architectural firm of Holabird & Root.

Aldermen Vote $150,450 for Transit Referendum

An appropriation of $150,450 to the board of election commissioners to pay the salaries of the judges and clerks at the special referendum on the transit ordinance July 1 was passed by the city council yesterday. According to Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], the council has already appropriated for the rent of the polling places.

PRINCE WILL TRY TO WIPE OUT JAIL STIGMA BY DUELS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 18.—The honor of Prince Ludwig Windisch-Graetz, scion of one of the oldest Austro-Hungarian families and chief figure in the plot to forge vast sums of French francs, which cost him a session behind the bars, seems to have been badly pricked and stamped upon these last few days. The prince, notwithstanding his recent amnesty, which restored full civil and military rights to him, has decided that only a few duels will set that honor of his aright.

Two duels, according to information in political circles here, are in store for him.

The first is scheduled with Tibor Taitvay, minister of justice, who informed parliament that the prince's "amnesty" was merely an exoneration given by a group of private citizens whose findings were in no way official.

The prince objected to this interpretation, claiming that the jury, which restored his civil and military rights was composed of generals and gentlemen, most of them members of the high Maria Theresia order, and that the minister of justice had grossly injured him. The minister replied by a letter, which was not published but which sent the prince's seconds scurrying to him. When and where the duel will take place is being kept a secret.

With one member of the government on his list, Prince Windisch-Graetz went gunning for another. He wrote a bitter article in one of the newspapers, attacking the agricultural policies of Baron Pronay as well as the baron himself. The baron is reported to have replied that he could teach the prince not only something about agriculture but about common decency. Such sentiments verbally expressed piqued the prince's honor, from which, it is reported, duel number two will result.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"
—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

EDGE, U. S. ENVOY, REFUSES TO MAKE JULY 4 SPEECH

Wife Giving a Big Party Is His Excuse.

Doings of Our Envoys

PARIS.—Ambassador Walter E. Edge refuses to deliver principal address at Fourth of July dinner of American chamber of commerce.

BERLIN.—Ambassador Frederic M. Sackett defies Samuel Insull, Chicago public utilities magnate, and delivers speech to world power conference assailing cost of public utilities.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator George W. Norris assails Insull on floor of senate.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 18.—American Ambassador Walter F. Edge today refused to deliver the principal address at the American chamber of commerce annual Fourth of July dinner. Ambassador Edge has even declined to attend the banquet.

Ever since the organization was formed, and even during the critical war years, the chamber of commerce has always featured the ambassador as guest of honor and the diplomat's speech has always been the principal address.

Wife Planning Big Party.

Mr. Edge gives two reasons for declining the invitation:

First, he has already spoken three times before the chamber of commerce.

Second, his wife is giving a big reception and garden party for all Americans in Paris on July 4, and the ambassador figures that the festivities will not be over before 8 p. m., and then he will be tired out from receiving several thousand guests.

The president of the chamber of commerce, William N. Taylor, invited Premier Tardieu to attend the banquet, thereby requiring the American ambassador's presence, according to etiquette. The premier pleaded a previous engagement.

Tomorrow the chamber will vote whether to break the tradition and eat without the ambassador, or cancel the banquet as a sign of protest.

Sackett Delivers His Speech.

BERLIN, June 18.—(AP)—Frederic M. Sackett, American ambassador, in an address today told delegates to the world power conference that he knew of "no other manufacturing industry where the sale price of the product is the great mass of consumers is 15 times the actual cost of production."

The conferees, representing the greatest power-producing interests of the world, applauded when the ambassador spoke his views, around which in the last 24 hours had centered a critical discussion.

The envoy delivered the original text of a prepared speech, to certain portions of which objections had been voiced by Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate.

Advance copies of his speech had been sent to the press several days ago and the attention of Mr. Insull had been called to statements they contained. Mr. Insull had asked him to omit the statements. The embassy had sent out word to hold up the address. Last evening the hold order was countermanded and the release advanced for this morning's newspapers.

Mr. Insull left this afternoon for London. He had made no statement to the press regarding the Sackett matter up to the time of his departure.

Norris Assails Insull.

Washington, D. C., June 18.—[Special.]—Samuel Insull was the target today of Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], who commented in the senate on cable dispatches relative to Mr. Insull's reported objection to a speech prepared by Ambassador Sackett for delivery before the world power conference at Berlin.

Senator Norris, who has frequently assailed utility companies for charging excessive prices for power, quoted Mr. Sackett's declaration that he knew of no other manufacturing industry "where the sale price of the product to the great mass of consumers is fifteen times the actual cost of production of the article sold."

What He Thinks of Magnate.

"Thus we learn," said Senator Norris, "that Samuel Insull, who at one time thought he had bought a seat in the United States senate with money taken from the consumers of high priced power, this same Insull, representing the power trust which has crept into the back door of school houses, into lodges, women's clubs, and farmers' organizations—this same outfit which has been crawling and creeping everywhere and boasting of its deceptions, this same man, now in Berlin, his activities becoming world-wide, approaches the American ambassador and tells him what he cannot say.

"Are we willing to submit to this? Are we going to be held up by this industry?"

PREPARE TO ANSWER ENVOY'S CHARGES ON ELECTRICITY RATES

The accounting staff of the Commonwealth Edison company, which supplies Chicago with electricity and of which Samuel Insull is chairman, was set to work yesterday to prepare data to answer the charge of Ambassador Sackett in Berlin that power rates to consumers are excessive. These statistics will be made public today or tomorrow and will show, it was said, that by far the greater part of consumers' rates is attributable to costs of distribution.

Most of the executives of the Insull companies are attending the convention of the National Electric Light association in San Francisco and therefore no official reply to Mr. Sackett's charges was issued. However, Martin J. Insull, brother of Samuel Insull and president of the Middle West Utilities company, touched on the subject of rates yesterday in a talk before the San Francisco convention.

"It is the consumer who determines whether we can furnish service at 15 cents or 5 cents per kilowatt hour," he said. "If he chooses to restrict his use of electricity, the overhead charges included in the price for initial use will result in an apparently high charge for the service."

Mr. Insull cited figures to show that "5 cent electricity" is an accomplished fact where the quantity and duration of the customer's use is adequate.

INDIA'S NATIVES FLEE TO FIELDS IN "NO TAX" WAR

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, June 18.—Indian Nationalists have shifted their civil disobedience from salt raids to the nonpayment of land taxes. This "no-tax" drive is gaining headway throughout the peninsula.

In the Gujerat district, authorities are attaching property of evicted tenants, who are pitching camps in fields. Many tax evaders are also being arrested. Authorities are strengthening their fight against this form of "attack."

As quickly as the tax collectors arrive the natives lock their doors and desert their homes, leaving movable property for the government agents to seize.

Further disorders occurred today in the foreign section of Bombay with police trying to disperse pickets from in front of British cloth and liquor shops. Police twice charged the crowd. One unusual incident was the seizure of a policeman in mufti by onlookers after he had hurled a stone through a shop window. Nationalists charged this act a deliberate attempt on the part of authorities to incite a riot in order to precipitate a general assault.

More than 10,000 Nationalists, clad in homespun, massed to hear Pandit Nehru, acting president of the All-India national congress, tonight, but he declined to speak, declaring he didn't want to give police an excuse for violence. The Nationtalists are exerting every effort to avert violence in the campaign for liberty.

Pandit Nehru conferred with congress leaders today and urged the continuance of the boycott campaign and stressed that Mahatma Gandhi, jailed leader, had directed no change from the passive resistance drive, intimating police are seeking an opportunity to call out troops.

REAR ADMIRAL

Byrd took health along

HOW the Aretic explorer dreads sickness! He knows how this endangers his men shut up in the snow huts. That is why Rear Admiral Byrd, just returned from the South Pole, took Nujol along.

With all the drugs in the world to choose from, Byrd took something which wasn't a medicine at all. Colorless and tasteless as pure water, Nujol simply gives your body the internal lubrication it needs, like any other machine. Great explorers, sportsmen, athletes know that they feel fine if they keep their bodies internally clean. That's why so many of them regularly use Nujol—and nothing else—to free their bodies of the natural poisons—we all have them—that make us feel depressed and sick.

Crystal-clear Nujol makes millions of people feel better and happier all the time. See what it will do for you. Get a bottle tonight at any drug store—and be just as careful as Byrd to say "Nujol."

THE TRACTION ORDINANCE. II. NEW ROUTES, MORE CARS AND FASTER TRAVEL.

An appraisal of the new traction ordinance which will be submitted to the voters on July 1 properly begins with a study of the physical plan of extensions which are set up in the ordinance as exhibit B.

In the next ten years the company agrees to increase the present surface line mileage by at least 30 per cent. In the same period the company undertakes to increase the mileage of its elevated lines by at least 56 per cent. The company undertakes to spend at least $200,000,000 in physical improvements and to spend $65,000,000 of that amount in the first three years. In addition, the city is to put the traction fund to work at least in the construction of subways, and more money for the same purpose is to be obtained by special assessment.

That is the plan in broad outline. It must be viewed in greater detail and in perspective to be understood.

Chicago's local transportation systems, both surface and elevated, grew outward, fanwise, from the district which we now call the loop. They were intended to enable a man to get from his home, north, south, or west of the center of the city, to his office or shop downtown, and to enable his wife to get downtown to do her shopping. The elevated stub ends downtown, used now only in the rush hours, originally were the downtown terminals of the various elevated lines, which were not connected with each other. Eventually the loop was built to accommodate all the elevated trains, but Chicago's rapid transit service is still loop-centered.

The 1907 ordinance gave recognition to the fact that vast numbers of Chicagoans do not want to go to the loop except occasionally. Industrial plants employing many thousands of workingmen, such as the stockyards, the steel mills, and the Western Electric company, are not at the center but toward the rim of the city. A transportation system which aims only to carry a great number of people downtown and home again cannot serve the needs of a large part of the population. The 1907 ordinance provided for extensions and improvements on cross-town lines, with many through routes which came nowhere near the loop.

The 1907 reorganization applied only to the surface lines. The elevated lines today are what they always have been: they all lead downtown. The new ordinance promises to remedy that situation. The ordinance will make it possible to travel from the north to the south side without touching the loop, and at rapid transit speed.

Consider, for example, the present problem of getting from Ravenswood to the stockyards. The trip may be made by surface line, at slow speed; or it may be made by elevated line to and through the loop, then along the eastern edge of the city and then west again on the stockyards branch of the elevated. Either way means time wasted. The street cars are direct but slow and the elevated's greater speed is negatived by the indirectness of the route.

The new ordinance meets the need for rapid transit by closing the gaps in the elevated line along Ashland avenue. This is a relatively inexpensive means of accomplishing what amounts to a revolution in Chicago's transportation facilities. In time the Ashland avenue line, extending almost from Lawrence avenue on the north to 87th street on the south, will be flanked by parallel lines to the west, each of them intercepting the elevated and surface routes radiating from the loop. The Ashland avenue line alone will greatly reduce congestion in the loop and save long hours of tiresome travel every week for thousands of men and women.

The plan of the extensions cannot be considered apart from the provision of the ordinance permitting free transfers from the elevated to surface cars and transfers from the surface to the elevated for 3 cents. The surface lines are to become, what they are not now, feeders for the elevated. Riders will be encouraged to take the surface cars only as far as an elevated station and then continue their journeys on the faster trains. The surface line extensions have been planned with this in mind.

Of course the problem of providing improved service to and from the central district remains. Additional facilities are provided for this purpose, too, and will be considered later in connection with the subway program.

The opponents of the ordinance, with few exceptions, admit that the program is adequate for the present and immediate future, but they charge that the sum to be raised by the new company is not going to be large enough to provide the promised extensions. This is a question upon which every one is not entitled to an opinion. The problem is essentially one of engineering and the engineers who have looked into it are satisfied that $200,000,000 will do the work. That professional judgment must be given much greater weight than the guess of irresponsible individuals.

MORROW'S VICTORY.

The victory of Dwight Morrow in the New Jersey Republican primary was so overwhelming as to give it more significance than the moderate success which might confidently have been expected could have had. Mr. Morrow's personal fitness for a place in the senate, promptly acknowledged by his chief opponent, Mr. Fort, and by the public generally, is unquestionable. On that account alone, it is fair to say, Mr. Morrow deserved to be chosen as the Republican candidate. But Mr. Morrow's campaign was especially distinguished by his emphatic declaration in favor not merely of modification of the present prohibition régime but of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and a restoration to the states of their original constitutional function.

This represents the fundamental treatment of the prohibition question and is fortified not merely by considerations of expediency and immediate public welfare but of those profoundly wise principles of American government which the prohibition experiment ignores or attempts to overrule. Whatever mitigations of present deplorable conditions repeal or amendment of the Volstead act and of state dry laws might bring about, they will all fall short of essential reform unless and until the basic error represented by the eighteenth amendment is removed, and Mr. Morrow deserves the gratitude of the nation, as he has the approval of all who understand and respect the American constitutional system, for placing his candidacy upon the rock bottom foundation of American constitutional principle.

His overwhelming victory, therefore, is striking evidence not only of the growth of protest against existing concrete conditions but of a perception of underlying principles involved. It is true that New Jersey is known to be what is called a wet state, but Mr. Morrow swept districts thought to be dry against a most respectable opponent energetically supported by the Anti-Saloon league, and his fundamental attack upon the basic constitutional error of prohibition challenged unequivocally the whole system of constitutional perversion established by the adoption of the eighteenth amendment. His declaration and the overwhelming indorsement of it by the Republican voters of New Jersey mark therefore one of the most important events in the course of the revolt against the prohibitory régime and the march of the American people back to the solid foundations of our constitutional system.

It is worthy of note that the primary result was foreshadowed by the Literary Digest poll, which gave in New Jersey 47,747 votes for enforcement, 75,673 for modification, and 125,469 for repeal. It is emphatic evidence of the validity of the poll, at least in New Jersey, and cannot be discredited by the pet dry alibi that the friends of prohibition were not fairly represented.

MR. BLAINE AND HIS RESOLUTION.

The senate has heard Mr. Blaine of Wisconsin argue in favor of what he calls his resolution concerning the Illinois waterway. That resolution was intended to restrict the diversion of water from Lake Michigan for purposes of navigation to the 1,500 cubic feet a second which the Supreme court decided was sufficient for sewage dilution. This flow of water is not enough for a waterway, according to engineers, and Mr. Blaine is therefore arguing for a waterway without water.

The resolution bears Mr. Blaine's name, but it is not his work. It was drafted by Mr. Newton Baker and Mr. Raymond T. Jackson, who practices law with Mr. Baker in Cleveland. Mr. Baker is general counsel for the Lake Carriers' association. This association is dominated by the steel corporation, which operates ore carriers on the lakes and is working in harmony in this matter with the Niagara Falls power interests. Mr. Baker nominally was special assistant attorney general for Ohio when he fought the diversion at Chicago in the Supreme court, but he was not paid by the state of Ohio for his services. Presumably he is paid by the Lake Carriers. He has represented them at other times in Washington. He spoke in their behalf not long ago in support of the 12-hour day for seamen on the lakes.

Mr. Jackson entered the sanitary district case as an assistant attorney general of Wisconsin. Mr. Baker invited him to join his law firm in Cleveland and the offer was accepted. Mr. Jackson may have been representing the state of Wisconsin when he and Mr. Baker drafted the resolution for Mr. Blaine or he may have been representing his clients in the steel business. The question is one into which the senate may well inquire. It is not only relevant to the issue; it is the essence of it.

Editorial of the Day

SOUND AND FURY IN CHICAGO.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

The sound and fury which have been generated in Chicago by the Lingle killing are perhaps wholesome manifestations of an aroused municipal conscience, but unfortunately they seem to vary only in intensity from the sound and fury which were being generated a week ago and a month and a year ago in Chicago. The city, of course, makes the mistake of interesting itself in effects instead of causes; in failing to look past any single gang outrage or any single killing to the culture of corruption, laxity, indifference and inefficiency which gang outrages and gang warfare breed.

The Chicago conflict with the criminal, after all, is not so very much different from any other conflict. It has its root causes and its exterior manifestations, and it can no more be brought to an end by dealing with the exterior manifestations than the phenomenon of the tides can be stopped without reference to the moon. When Chicago resorts to its favorite gesture of impatience—the roundup—it is, of course, dealing with the exterior manifestations of a condition. The roundup is a showy, spectacular and impressive piece of police business, just as the department shakeup is a showy, spectacular and impressive piece of police business, but they signify, in the last analysis, exactly nothing.

When Chicago seriously embarks on the war to end gang wars and hoodlumism it will not bother much about the trench raids that have characterized official activities during the last ten days. It will go back of the lines to find out by what right, and under whose authority and through what conditions of arrogance, greed, dishonesty, and corruption the enemy flourishes. Until it does that the "Jake" Lingles will be shot down in broad daylight, and Chicago may take what slight satisfaction it can in such high post-mortem resolves as emanate, with appropriate theatrical gestures, from the city hall.

COOLING MILK ON FARM.

THE advantages of prompt cooling of milk on the farm are very great. The spoilage due to souring is decreased, the product as delivered to market has a better flavor, and the ultimate consumer is better protected against disease. The U. S. Naval academy once proved all these points by installing a refrigerating apparatus in the dairy and putting the warm milk in the cooler at once. The consumption of milk by the cadets bounded up, and milk-caused health disorders declined. The milk producers who operate in regions where ice can be cheaply stored have had a great advantage over their competitors to the south. This advantage is in a fair way towards being wiped out.

Refrigerating machines not too expensive for 4 can, 40 gallon dairy farms are on the market. A study made by the New York state agricultural station shows that this apparatus works satisfactorily, saves milk from souring, protects calves and babies from indigestion due to spoiled milk, keeps bacterial count down, and improves flavor; and at the same time is inexpensive to purchase and economical in operation. They approve especially of electrically driven refrigerating machinery, but they also indorse refrigerating machinery adapted to farms on which there is no current.

Small, inexpensive machines do not chill enough to cool body heat milk within an hour or thereabouts. Therefore, the refrigerating apparatus runs continuously. When not in direct use for cooling milk it freezes ice to help out with the milk cooling. The cans of milk are set in cement or iron vats which are insulated by a layer of cork board three inches thick. Three inches of cork board will save enough ice and refrigeration to pay for itself in a single summer. The cork is coated with asphalt to keep it from becoming wet and thereby becoming a poor insulating material. Celotex, insulate, flaxlinum, or fibrofelt can be used instead of cork board, provided it is, say, three and a half inches instead of three inches in thickness.

Into this vat, water, the ice frozen during the day, and the milk in the ten gallon cans are placed. The milk is promptly cooled to 40 degrees and held there, remaining sweet, of good flavor, and low bacterial count.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. J. writes:

1. Is whooping cough catching?
2. Is it catching only when the person who has it coughs?
3. If a person has had it about five weeks is it wise to continue keeping my child away from the person who has it?

REPLY.

1. It is highly contagious for about two weeks and mildly contagious for about three more weeks.
2. That is probably true during the last three weeks but not so during the earlier two weeks.
3. The time limit of isolation is about up.

IT MAY BE DIABETES.

J. F. C. writes: Please let me know what I should do. I have sugar in my urine. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

I assume you have diabetes.

Diabetes is dangerous and it will become more dangerous unless you do something about it. You are in a rocky sea and you had better take a pilot aboard.

See a physician of some experience in treating diabetes. Have him tell you in minute detail what to eat and how much, what not to eat, and how to live in other ways. Demand detailed advice. Refuse generalities.

Get one or more books for the laity on diabetes.

QUICK CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, June 13.—[Friend of the People.]—I am English. I came to America in 1907. I married an American citizen in San Francisco in 1923, which I understood at the time would make me an American citizen through marriage.

The following year I went to register, thinking I would cast my first vote at the presidential election.

I was informed I was still an alien and could not vote because the equal rights law had passed before I married. In the meantime I have become widowed and would like to be advised how I can become a citizen and the quickest way. L. B. J.

If the writer's late husband was a citizen of the United States she may file a petition for naturalization without a declaration of intention [first paper] and be naturalized 90 days thereafter. She should call at this office for a form A-2214 so that she may start her case. H. L. BOETHE,
Acting District Director of Naturalization.

NOT CITIZENS.

Chicago, June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We Filipinos were not allowed to register during the last election registration. I can't understand why.

The Philippines are a dependency to the United States. We can enlist in the regular army and navy of the United States and are classified as American born citizens.

In the postoffice clerk and carriers' civil service examinations we are given the same privileges and rights as naturalized citizens. S. B.

You are mistaken in assuming that you are citizens.

DOUBTS CAR'S NEWNESS.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About two weeks ago I purchased an automobile from a large dealer in Chicago which was supposed to be brand new. After driving the car, I have reason to believe that the car is not as represented, i. e., that it has been used, perhaps as a demonstrator, and then sold to me as brand new car.

Is there any way that this can be determined without having to resort to legal means? [2] If I find that it is true, what steps should I take for rectification? W. T. H.

It would be necessary for you to show specific points on which the car was inferior to car which would have complied with the wording of the contract of sale.

Good Morrow, Mr. Morrow, and Thrice Good Morrow to Thee!

Good Morrow, Mr. Morrow, and a curtsy likewise, good Mr. Morrow. Thou indeed hath won a most notable victory, Mr. Morrow, and hast great cause for happiness on this pleasant morrow, Mr. Morrow. And doth thou not hear the gracious little bee that is buzzing busily around thy head? Strike not at him with thy hat, Mr. Morrow, for 'tis the pleasing little insect known as the presidential bee, and as he buzzeth thou canst distinctly hear him saying, "Nine-teen thirty-two! Nine-teen thirty-two! Nine-teen thir-ty-two!" Ah, 'tis a pleasing sound, Mr. Morrow, and not only doth the busy little bee hum those pleasant words, but out over the great broad countryside, which every way thou wendest, good Mr. Morrow, the people are repeating the same thing. Gramercy and fair fortune to thee, Mr. Morrow! And heed not the low wailing sound thou hearest. That noise cometh from those standing at the wailing place in front of the sacred 18th amendment and they are sitting in sackcloth and ashes and rending their garments and weeping with great bitterness because they liketh not thy victory. But be not cast down, good Mr. Morrow, but listen rather to the great paean of joy that cometh up from the land in all directions, even from ocean to ocean. And likewise, good Mr. Morrow, hearken to the buzzing of the little bee and be of good cheer. And once more good Morrow to thee, Mr. Morrow.

Some, patient, delve in the debris
Of ruined worlds remote, of Greece and Rome,
Carthage or Alexandria, journeying free,
Here in their magic chairs and far from home.
Piercing the jungles, faring over seas,
To Samothrace and the Ægean isles,
Strange continents, along the verdant leas,
Yet saved the irksome task of traveled miles.
Some hear the chanteys of the long lost ships,
Perils of storm or tales of plains and trails,
Light fantasies that fell from singing lips,
Sir Galahads in quest of precious grails,
Or deep in disquisition, Kant or Freud,
A dip in science, the occult and strange,
Ancient or modern as the changing mood,
And molded to an ever varying range.
Stories of eld, the frivolous, sublime,
The critic's study, Christian or profane,
Moods of the great or near great, changing tastes of time,

HIC JACET.

There was a surprising turnout of lodge brothers at the grave of a deceased member who had left a provision in his will giving twenty dollars to every brother who visited his grave between two and three in the afternoon of June 18. The attendance was not only large, but might also be said to be enthusiastic. No tears were shed or flowers planted, but all brothers lined up promptly, forming on the right and marching by two, to receive their bequests. People are different! Now us, we would cheerfully leave twenty dollars to all the brothers in our lodge (it's a college fraternity) who remained away from our grave. But we know they'll do that without our saying anything about it in our will. But six weeks after our untimely demise there'll be a letter in the mail addressed to us asking us to send five bucks to insure the publication of our name in the annual fraternity directory under the classification, "Our Live Wires in the World Today."

THE MAD RACING of Atlantic ships carrying thousands of tons of imports to get into the U. S. before the new tariff went into effect had nothing on us. Tuesday afternoon, knowing that the new bill would become a law at midnight, we madly raced down the Boul. Mich. to get a necktie before the new schedule went on. "How much?" gasped we, rushing into a haberdasher's, grabbing a necktie and tossing two dollars on the counter. "That tie will set you back just seven bucks fifty," said the clerk. Gosh! Too late! Too late!

IF YOU SAY SO.

Let me be with you once again,
If only for a little while,
Just hold you in my arms, and then
We'll part with kiss and friendly smile.

So may we then at last erase

Let me but look into your face
And then I'll go . . . if you say so, dear!

SOMETHING BEHIND IT

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 19, 1865.

CAIRO, Ill.—The flag of truce steamer Rudolph from Jacksonport, Ark., arrived here and brings news that the army of Jeff Thompson has been paroled. The number thus released totals 7,454 men and 686 officers. Gen. Thompson expressed himself delighted with the manner in which the business of receiving the surrender had been conducted by the staff officers of Gen. Dodge.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington special says: "S. S. Hayes, a prominent Democratic politician of Chicago, formerly controller of that city, has been appointed by President Johnson the third member of a commission to revise the internal revenue system."

NEW YORK.—The Herald's City of Mexico letter gives an account of life in the capital during the winter. The empress has given a number of state balls at which all the ceremonials and magnificence of the European courts were carefully copied. Dresses of the ladies are in the last Parisian style and jewelry and diamonds appear in profusion. The letter says that Emperor Maximillan's popularity is increasing. He is described as friendly to the United States. There are now in Mexico about 40,000 European troops.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's Washington special says: "Preparations for celebrating the Fourth of July at Gettysburg are progressing rapidly. Gen. Hancock has been ordered to furnish a regiment of infantry, a battery and battalion of cavalry. Gens. Meade, Hancock, Howard, Wilcox, and other distinguished officers will be present, and President Johnson and part of his cabinet are expected to attend."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 19, 1900.

PHILADELPHIA.—There has become evident a determination on the part of some of the Republican leaders to check the Roosevelt for Vice President movement. Friends of John D. Long and Dolliver have been shrewdly encouraged to keep their candidates to the front, and the hope has been held out to both of them that Roosevelt will be pushed out of the field. So far as the general wave of sentiment toward Roosevelt is concerned, however, it has not subsided. On the contrary, it has grown stronger. Senator Hanna discourages the Roosevelt movement and said tonight that, in his opinion, the Roosevelt wave had spent its force.

CHICAGO.—In a disorderly session lasting until after 1 o'clock this morning the city council passed the ordinance allowing the Ogden Gas company to "sell out" to the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. The "gang" remnants fought amendments seeking to increase the compensation or lower the price of gas. They howled and hooted until they carried the day.

LONDON.—Hostilities have begun in earnest in China by a battle between the Chinese forts and the allied fleet at Taku. In a battle on June 17 twenty Europeans are reported to have been killed and 57 wounded. A Russian gunboat was blown up. The British gunboat Algerine and the German warship Itlis were badly damaged, two British merchant vessels sunk, two forts blown up, the rest captured at the point of the bayonet by landing parties, and several hundred Chinese soldiers killed. There seems little doubt now that China has decided to defy the world. Of the European losses 16 were killed and 45 wounded by the explosion on the Russian warship.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 19, 1920.

NEW YORK.—William G. McAdoo, who has been considered by Democratic leaders as one of the principal candidates for the Democratic nomination for President, announced he could not permit his name to go before the San Francisco convention. He declared the decision is irrevocable, and gave as his reason that he "can't afford it." In Washington, however, Senator Carter Glass stated that he still favored the nomination of McAdoo despite his refusal.

NEW YORK.—George W. Perkins, financier, died in the Stamford Hall sanitarium, Stamford, Conn. Mr. Perkins was born in Chicago Jan. 31, 1862.

AFTER MILWAUKEE, CHICAGO.

Chicago, June 17.—Your front page article in this morning's TRIBUNE, singing the praise of Milwaukee, is indeed very fine. Mr. Bennett pictured a great many interesting features of Milwaukee which, no doubt, your readers enjoyed.

What an article Mr. Bennett could write when he returns to Chicago about our own beautiful and progressive city! Mr. Bennett's article might then be sent to every newspaper in the United States with the request to have it reproduced on the front page similar to your article this morning. Such a message from Chicago telling of our own beauty spots, points of interest, and achievements would be most welcome at this moment and would help more to clear Chicago's reputation than the two inch headlines in all our newspapers reporting the activities of gangland.

With the coming World's Fair a great deal of promotion work has to be done for Chicago and it might be well to start this work now.

A prominent visitor from Europe, on his first visit to Chicago, told the writer that he was simply amazed at our beautiful city and that most people in Europe think that the United States ends at the outskirts of New York City. He stated that Chicago is known, however, as a smoky city of gang wars.

RUBBISH ALONG THE OUTER DRIVE.

Chicago, June 16.—May some one who has a supply of ordinary common sense and the necessary authority quickly remove the wooden horses and the rest of the litter along the south shore outer drive, including in this litter whoever is responsible for the present mess.

I. N. H.

SAND, TOO.

Chicago, June 11.—It's a queer state of affairs that with thousands of people out of work the south park board is holding on to taxpayers' money that is intended for making a park along the outer drive. For months those who drive and those who live along the drives have been swallowing sand while money to strew black dirt, put out trees and shrubs and make sidewalks has been held by the south park board. Now that men are desperate for work why not give a few thousand people work to do for a while and relieve poverty and get the park completed? What are we waiting for? The weather is good, the men are anxious for work, money is waiting to be spent, and we'd all like a park instead of a dump all along the lake.

A. HAWKS.

CHICAGO, WIS.

Chicago, June 15.—Isn't there some way to compel the legislature to reapportion the state, or, failing in that, to achieve political separation from the self-righteous robbers downstate? Either an independent city state to include all suburbs which care to join or else ask Wisconsin to take us in.

CHARLES H. BOSS.

SCHUMANN-HEINK.

Chicago, June 12.—As a staunch admirer of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink I must take exception to the tone of your article, prominently displayed on page one of Wednesday's TRIBUNE, in which an attempt is made, in speaking of her forthcoming 4 a day engagement at Roxy's theater, New York, to relegate her to the dusty forgotten hordes of the has beens. Such phrases as "once famous singer," "gray haired woman," and references to her haplessness at being given a chance to sing again build up a picture skillfully designed to bring a reminiscent tear to the reader's eye. I know the formula well; in my newspaper days I composed many such pictures.

But I resent the methods being applied to the world's greatest contralto. It is unkind; it is also untrue. Mme. Schumann-Heink is 69 years old. She has been before the public for 50 years—before the American public for very nearly forty—and during that entire time she has been uninterruptedly active in opera and concert. Within the last season or two she has appeared with extraordinary success in the great Wagner rôles at the Metropolitan, and less than a month ago her singing at the Evanston music festival won her a magnificent ovation. Her wonderful constitution, together with a fine, sane philosophy of life, and, of course, more than all, a genuine musicianship and technique unrivaled amongst prime donne of the present day, have enabled her to do this.

Let us, then, pay tribute to her superhuman achievements instead of dragging in rocking chairs and new born great-grandchildren for the sake of an only moderately effective sob story.

Schumann-Heink may be, as her biography styles her, "the last of the Titans"—but she is by no means a fallen giant as well. ARTHUR MEEKER JR.

THE WEEPING OF MEN AND ANGELS.

Hinsdale, Ill., June 9.—The new Chicago organization of men opposed to prohibition has adopted the name "Crusaders"—crusaders for booze—and Clarence Darrow is mentor and apostle of light. If that is not a spectacle to make men and angels weep there is no use in looking farther. M. A. MYERS.

BRITISH BLOOD.

OPPOSE BUYING BIG GUN RANGE NEAR ROCKFORD

Legislators Divided on Guard Project.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 18.—[Special.] Attention has been called during this session of the general assembly to an unusual situation in the district which includes Rockford and Camp Grant. There, the Illinois National Guard wishes to establish an artillery range for summer training of state troops and the three district legislators—one senator and two representatives—are divided on support of the measure.

The $600,000 appropriation bill which was originally designed to purchase 1,000 acres near the reservation, has passed the senate and is now pending in the house where an amendment is sought which would detach the acreage clause and allow the guard leave to buy less land and pay a larger price for it.

Would Change Proposed Site.

The first site selected lies about eight miles from the Rockford city limits and, according to Representative Leroy M. Green of Rockford, is rough land more suited to range purposes than the site now desired.

Mr. Green is strenously opposed to the idea of placing a range in the vicinity at all on the grounds that it is unnecessary and would become a nuisance, disturbing to the farmers and residents, and carrying no small element of danger.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn has referred to a political situation in this district, but does not make his meaning plain," Mr. Green said. "If he means that the representatives from this district are opposing this appropriation while the senator [Senator Charles W. Baker of Monroe Center] is for it, then the fact that the senator also opposed it in 1927 when the proposed site did not include his land, is a fair matter of comment."

Baker Explains His Stand.

"I haven't had one letter to request that my support be thrown against the measure," Senator Baker said.

"I have been put into an embarrassing position in the matter because if the guard is allowed to buy the site it now wants, it will likely purchase about half of a 495 acre tract of land which I own. But surely my acquiescence in this matter is indicative of the fact that I do not regard the establishing of the range as detrimental or I wouldn't want to jeopardize the remaining half of my property.

"Furthermore, as I understand it, the range would only be used about two weeks each summer and I doubt if there would be firing upon it more than six or seven days out of that period."

Representative David Hunter of Rockford is aligned with his fellow house member, Mr. Green, against the appropriation. During the world war Mr. Hunter served in the 26th division, a New England unit, was wounded twice and decorated.

"From a military standpoint," he said today, "I have never been able to see a great need for an artillery range at Camp Grant."

ARMY MUST SPEED OR LOSE ITS FUNDS FOR LIGHT TANKS

Washington, D. C., June 16.—[Special.]—An appropriation of $250,000 voted by congress two years ago for the purchase of a number of new light combat tanks for the army will revert to the treasury on July 1, unless contracts for expending this fund are awarded by the war department.

Originally the appropriation was intended for financing the purchase of six light seven ton tanks of a design developed by the ordnance branch of the war department. At the time, war department witnesses told the congressional committee that the ordnance tank was an excellent fighting machine.

Before arrangements for acquiring the ordnance tanks could be made, the infantry tank board discovered defects in the ordnance machine and expenditure of the fund was ordered held up pending new experiments and the remodeling of the tank.

BOLIVIA REVOLT FADES; REBEL FORCE RETREATS

LA PAZ, Bolivia, June 18.—(AP)—Col. Toro, Bolivian minister of the interior, declared today that the insurgent movement in southern Bolivia led by Roberto Hinojosa, communist leader, was "without any importance whatsoever."

At the same time he admitted the communists had advanced from their base at Villazon as far as the village of Mojo, several miles inland, but said they had later returned to Villazon, a railway station near the Argentine frontier, captured yesterday.

FEAR CONGRESS TOO LAVISH FOR TAX CUT PLANS

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—With government expenditures climbing beyond budget estimates for the fiscal year 1931, continuation of the 1 per cent reduction in taxes on incomes made for the calendar year 1929 seemed improbable today, although the treasury will complete the 1930 fiscal year with a surplus.

The 1 per cent reduction on all normal and corporation incomes was granted by congress at the recommendation of Secretary Mellon. He said the government in the 1930 fiscal year ending June 30 would have enough surplus to permit the cut. The decrease falls in two fiscal years, $80,000,000 in each, and reduced estimated receipts by that amount.

Growing income tax receipts for the present fiscal year were expected to overcome the loss sustained through the lowered rates, but this situation was not expected to continue in the next fiscal year.

President Hoover in his budget estimate last December included figures in which the treasury set the surplus in revenue for the 1929 fiscal year at $122,788,966.

Since that time the Spanish war pension bill passed over the President's veto has added about $75,000,000 to the government expenditures for the coming twelve months, and the farm board expenses are expected to be $100,000,000 more than the treasury had estimated.

From present indications the government is faced with a deficit on July 1, 1931, but this same situation has occurred in previous years and the treasury has finished those years with a surplus.

On Monday the government had collected $3,527,626,535 for the fiscal year since last July 1, but had expended $3,730,182,600, leaving a deficit of $202,556,065 on that day. The receipts were $117,000,000 more than for the same period last year, and the expenditures $186,000,000 greater.

MRS. NETCHER WINS DIVORCE, $1,250 MONTHLY

Mrs. Constance Reed Netcher, 28 years old, of the Ambassador East hotel yesterday won a divorce and $1,250 monthly alimony from Irving Netcher, vice president of the Boston store. The decree was granted by Superior Judge Sabath. She charged cruelty and testified to numerous incidents of mistreatment in New York, Paris and London.

Her testimony was supported by her mother, Mrs. Helen Reed of 1400 Lake Shore drive, and by Mrs. Myrtle Reno, a sister. They were married on April 25, 1921, and separated last November.

The alimony payments are to cease when Mrs. Netcher remarries, the judge ordered. The couple have no children. Netcher is a brother of Townsend Netcher, husband of Constance Talmadge, motion picture star.

PRICES OF FOODS PULLED DOWN BY STOCK DECLINES

Consumers of foodstuffs, noting further declines in the stock market to new low levels for the season, were cheered at the prospect of cheaper foods yesterday, as grains, meat animals, butter, and raw sugar sank to the lowest price ranges in years.

July wheat quotations were the lowest since the war, at 94¼ cents, while corn was down to 73⅜; oats at 35⅝; and rye the lowest in more than 30 years at 48½ cents during a market day of little buying influence and heavy selling by "shorts."

Hogs, selling for the most part under $10 per hundredweight, reached the lowest mark since 1924, while sheep and cattle showed corresponding declines. Butter prices, in the face of abnormally large storage stocks and heavy country production from dairy cows, continued their downward pace. The best butter sold here at 32 cents a pound, wholesale, while eggs were unchanged at 23¼ cents a dozen, wholesale, for extra fine firsts.

An outstanding feature of Karashah Rugs is their remarkable value. We believe they are superior in value to any other type of rug selling in America today under $195. We say this advisedly out of an admittedly wide experience in selling both Oriental and American made rugs.

KARASHAH RUG

KARASHAH RUGS, the latest achievement of the renowned Karastan Weavers, are here presented to the public for the first time. We predict for these new rugs a vast and increasing popularity.

—a rug that can be produced only on the famous Karastan looms which duplicate with marvelous fidelity the character and spirit of Oriental originals.

—a rug with an enduring sheen that lasts as long as the rug itself.

—a rug that differs in essential construction from all other power-loom rugs except Karastans. (The patterns are woven clear through to the back, as in all high-grade, hand-woven Orientals.)

You are invited to inspect our present representative showing of these splendid new rugs whether purchases are intended at the time or not. They are shown in a special display on our Oriental Rug floor, where they may be freely compared with Orientals, Karastans, and other types of American and European made rugs.

BRITISH PREMIER ASKS FOES' HELP IN JOBLESS CRISIS

Lloyd George Accepts Bid —Baldwin Rejects It.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—Prime Minister MacDonald in the house of commons tonight, during a debate on unemployment initiated by Sir Austen Chamberlain, announced that he had invited the leaders of the opposition parties to a conference to cooperate towards finding a solution for its unemployment problem.

The prime minister's idea is that the three political leaders should confer with their chief supporters and "pool their ideas in common stock," which, he hopes, will result in the passing of important emergency relief legislation for the 2,000,000 jobless without obstruction or delay.

Labor to Take Responsibility.

The responsibility for such a plan, if the legislation would be adopted, would be taken by the government, the prime minister explained. He added that the leading member of the new cabinet committee on unemployment would be Sir John Anderson, recently permanent undersecretary of the home office.

David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, immediately accepted the prime minister's invitation, but it is understood tonight that Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, has definitely rejected the invitation.

Mr. MacDonald announced the invitations after one of the longest nonstop sittings of the house in ten years, which ended at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, when haggard members straggled out after a 22 hour wrangle over the Labor party's finance.

Snowden "Conceals Contempt."

A large part of the all night battle consisted of verbal duels between the acid tongued Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden and Winston Churchill, the witty and good natured former Conservative chancellor of the exchequer.

The crippled Yorkshireman was in one of his most bitter moods, but was undaunted by Mr. Churchill's continued sallies, and when the latter accused him of holding the opposition in contempt Mr. Snowden won his point with the icy retort:

"I'm doing my best to conceal my contempt of the opposition!"

Mr. Snowden turned a deaf ear to all entreaties for adjournment and insisted that the debate on the bill be completed before the members were allowed to leave.

SCIENTISTS FROM THREE COUNTRIES CONFER BY RADIO

Scientists and engineers in three countries, the United States, England, and Germany, conferred yesterday over what is said to have been the most widespread and far reaching radio network ever attempted. Countless listeners in many countries heard the addresses.

It was noon at San Francisco when the delegates to the convention of the National Electric Light association gathered there. It was 9 p. m. in Berlin, where members of the world power conference were in session. The proceedings were broadcast in this area over W-G-N, CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

No static or atmospherics marred the words of the speakers. Three widely separated points on the earth's surface were joined together as effectively as if the delegates were within speaking distance of each other.

ROBBERS TAKE $10,000 FROM GENEVA BANK

Three robbers obtained $10,000 in a holdup at the First National Bank of Geneva, Ill., yesterday. At the same time another robber was being routed by tear gas from the Highwood State bank at Highwood.

Two of the Geneva robbers entered the bank while a third remained outside. They produced revolvers and commanded a woman and two men employés and a customer to lie on the floor while they took $10,000 from the cashier's cage and vault. The three then jumped into an automobile and fled towards Chicago. The police here were notified to be on the lookout for them.

The Highwood robbery was attempted, according to Edgar Benson, a clerk in the bank, by the same youth who held it up and stole $5,000 last Dec. 31. As the young man approached the cashier's cage Benson stepped on a lever which flooded the building with tear gas. The robber fired one shot at Benson but missed, and then ran from the building. He escaped in an automobile.

DALLAS GOSSIPS AND CLARA BOW KEEPS IN HIDING

Dallas, Tex., June 18.—(AP)—Clara Bow of the movies remained in seclusion in a hotel today while reporters sought further explanation of her unexpected visit to Dallas.

One of the reasons she assigned for her visit was that she wished to "straighten things out" with a young Dallas professional man. She was quoted as saying that their friendship caused threats of a $150,000 alienation of affections suit which, she said, she settled for $30,000.

Last night Miss Bow was at a night club with several persons socially prominent in Dallas. They included Dr. William Earl Pearson, whose wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Atwood Pearson, obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce in Los Angeles, Nov. 1, 1928.

"Publicity," Say Producers.

Hollywood, Cal., June 18.—(AP)—Clara Bow is on two weeks' vacation in Texas. The producers characterized as more "extravagant" talk her story of being involved in a threatened suit. Just like her other flares in the headlines, they say. And no one intimates that such things ever diminished box office receipts. The producers have never penalized her for such things before and they give no hint of any action now.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre to Paris train. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is apprehensive about the coming visit, because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris, Catherine is disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants. Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and she tells him of her vague fears.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment. Back in the apartment she finds the gallery open for the first time and she goes in only to discover a number of pictures and tapestries missing. She asks Jeanne about them and the maid says they were sold shortly before Mr. Bender's death. Catherine feels she is lying and believes she and Eduardo are thieves. She finds Jeanne is exerting a baneful influence on Mme. Bender.

Geoffrey again takes Catherine out to dinner and she unburdens herself to him. He has already put an investigator on the case. He asks her to marry him, but she wants time to be certain of her feelings. Catherine goes to visit Geoffrey's sister at Fontainebleau.

Geoffrey discovers Blom, the mysterious person seen around the Bender apartment, is seeking a possible heir to the Bender fortune. Shortly after this discovery Blom's engagement to Mme. Baron, Miss Cushing's milliner, a widow, whose maiden name is the family name of Mme. Bender, is announced.

A fire breaks out in Mme. Bender's apartment early in the morning and she is burned to death. Most of the building is saved. Catherine had returned suddenly to Paris the night before. The servants deny to Geoffrey that she came to the apartment. Geoffrey follows Eduardo, the butler, to Blom's office. He sends for his investigator to watch the pair, then calls his father and together they call on the commissariat de police, who assigns Inspector Bazin to hear their case. Geoffrey returns to see if the servants have meanwhile heard from Catherine.

Catherine did go to Mme. Bender's apartment on her return from Fontainebleau. It was after midnight, and entering the side door she reached her room without encountering the servants. Shortly after, smelling smoke, she investigates and finds it is coming from her cousin's room. The door is locked. She dashes to get the keys and arouse Jeanne, who fights with her to prevent her from opening madam's door. She sees the butler carrying a heavy candlestick, and then a crashing blow on her skull robs her of consciousness.

Geoffrey meets the inspector at the Bender apartment and they question the butler and Jeanne. She intimates Catherine placed the candles in Germaine's room that set the bed curtains on fire. Geoffrey is barely able to control his indignation.

INSTALLMENT LXX.

OUTRAGED FEELINGS.

Geoffrey's fingers twitched, but the inspector proceeded, unperturbed.

"Listen to me," he said, referring to his notes. "If the young lady did reach the apartment last night, she must have done so shortly after midnight. Well then—at a quarter past one there was a light in her room."

Jeanne's eyes opened abruptly. Geoffrey saw that their dullness had vanished, giving place to a sharp alertness. For a tense moment they searched the speaker's face.

"En effet!" The words were muttered under her breath with a mixture of wonderment and cogitation, "is it true what you are telling me?"

"It is an established fact. This gentleman here was outside in his car, saw the window lit up and a shadow cross the blind. Then the light was put out."

With a jerk Jeanne turned her head and stared at the Englishman in silence. She seemed to be thinking deeply.

"Now I see why you are asking me all these questions. So she was here! . . . One might almost suppose, monsieur, that she was hiding in her room waiting for a chance to steal away unobserved . . ."

"Why unobserved? Have you anything in your mind?"

She did not answer at once, her dark eyes still narrowed with their look of concentrated thought. When she spoke it was with halting deliberation.

"It is difficult to say, monsieur. . . . But the idea has this moment occurred to me that perhaps—who knows?—mademoiselle discovered the fire before I was aware of it, realized it was the consequence of her own folly and—you follow me, monsieur?—took herself off in order to avoid the result of an inquiry. Mind, I know nothing. But if the unfortunate young lady saw at a glance that it was impossible to save madame . . ."

"Now I see why you are asking me all these questions. So she was here!"

Geoffrey never knew how the interview terminated, nor by what exercise of diplomacy Bazin managed to get him out of the bedroom without making a scene. All he recalled was that somehow or other he was outside in the passage struggling to throw off a firm grasp which detained him by the shoulder. Through a red haze of anger he heard a voice saying,

"Gently, monsieur! There is nothing to be gained by violence. Do not speak now—follow me to the back of the apartment."

With an effort at control the young man allowed himself to be led along to the left and into an unused room, the door of which the inspector closed. Then his indignation burst its bonds.

"You heard what that devil said?" he cried in stifled accents. "You heard? She has had the audacity to lie there quietly and assert that mademoiselle—"

He broke off, dimly aware of a change in his companion's manner. The blue eyes level with his held a shade of uncertainty, one rough hand upraised itself to twist the ends of the blonde moustache.

"Monsieur," came the reply, hesitatingly and with a slight hint of embarrassment, "either that woman in there is exceedingly resourceful, or else she hit upon what very probably may be the true explanation of mademoiselle's absence."

Geoffrey's eyes blazed at him.

"My God! You don't mean to tell me you believed her story!"

"Monsieur, I do not believe anything till we have absolute proof that the young lady returned last night. But if we find that she was here, then what we have just heard suggests the happiest way out of the difficulty. For in that event she is at this moment perfectly safe, only dreading to come forward. . . ."

Geoffrey was still trying to master his outraged feelings when his companion turned his head towards the passage and lifted a warning hand.

"Let us not speak of this here, monsieur. We can discuss it all better at the commissariat, if you will accompany me there."

As they passed the ruined passage one of the two subordinates came forward from his inspection of the débris and spoke a few words to his superior. The latter in turn addressed Geoffrey in an undertone, first glancing round to see that they were not overheard.

"It seems there is a certain amount of clothing and personal effects left behind in the young lady's room, and we shall have to decide whether or not she took any of the articles with her when she went to Fontainebleau. Do you think you can help us?"

Geoffrey considered, and shook his head.

"The best person to know about them is my sister, who I believe is in town this afternoon. Shall I try to get in touch with her and ask her to come here?"

"If you please, monsieur. You can telephone from the rue Mesnil."

At the door of the commissariat the two men separated, Geoffrey being left to do his telephoning while the inspector ascended the stairs to ascertain if any report had been received from the taxi driver of last night. Twenty minutes later Bazin returned, to find the Englishman pacing the floor.

"Nothing has come in so far," he announced, "but I had hardly hoped for news this early."

"My sister is on her way to meet us at the apartment," Geoffrey informed him shortly.

"Now, monsieur, I have another little matter to attend to on our way back. The deceased had a car. I obtained the address of the garage from the concierge, and I propose to give instructions that on no account is the car to be taken out."

As they drove rapidly round the Place Victor Hugo and into the Avenue Malakoff Geoffrey acquainted his companion with the facts concerning the butler's sortie that morning. Bazin listened attentively. Turning into a narrow mews, he sounded his horn in front of a large garage. A youngish man came out to meet them. To him the inspector stated his business.

"You understand? This car is in no circumstances to be allowed out of the garage. If any one calls for it, you are to give a point blank refusal and communicate at once with the commissariat."

"Certainly, monsieur, I will carry out your instructions—when the car is returned."

"Returned! Do you mean it is not here?"

"No, monsieur. It was taken out two days ago. I understood it was going into the country for the week end."

The occupants of the gray car exchanged startled glances.

"You are sure of this?"

"But yes, monsieur. I know the car you speak of well. For the past few months there has been no regular chauffeur, but it is sometimes used by a manservant—a Spaniard, I think he is. It was he who called for it on Thursday."

There was nothing to be done.

The inspector's blonde face was contracted with annoyance.

"This looks as though they had stolen a march on us," he muttered. "I don't like the look of it. I daresay I could find the car, but it might mean searching half the garages of Paris. On the whole I am afraid we must let it go."

Good morning!

You don't think it's going to be at the start. There's not a doubt in your mind as to what is about to happen and you cock an eyebrow and wish wearily that the author and director had been smart enough to fool you. Which is when the joke begins to be on you. They do. Whereat you're as pleased as Punch and enjoy the rest of the picture heartily, for it introduces the unexpected.

"The Midnight Mystery" has suspense and a lot of action. The locale is a rock bound island off the coast of Cuba where a house party is being entertained by the young owner, Gregory Sloane, who is engaged to the guest of honor, a blonde who writes successful blood and thunder mystery novels. Gregory doesn't want his Sally to continue thus to do. He wants her to be just the little woman at home and tries to prove as how the film shall demonstrate that, really, she wouldn't have the first idea what to do if she ran up against a gruesome situation in real life.

Enter Gruesome Situation—and so on.

I didn't care for Miss Compson as Sally, thought the dialogue sometimes blah and the direction not always astute. But I enjoyed the picture as a whole and believe that you will.

"THE ARIZONA KID."

Produced by Fox.
Directed by Alfred Santell.
Presented at McVicker's theater.

THE CAST.

The Arizona Kid	Warner Baxter
Lorita	Mona Maris
Virginia Hort	Carol Lombard
	Mrs. Jiminez
Pulgra	Theodor Von Eltz
Nick Hort	Arthur Stone
Snakebite Pete	Walter P. Lewis
Sheriff Andrews	Jack Herrick
The Hoboken Hooker	Wilfred Lucas
His Manager	Hank Mann
Bartender Bill	De Sacia Mooers
Molly	Jim Gibson
Stage Driver	Jim Gibson

"The Arizona Kid" is a good western, that would have been better had it not so zealously aped "In Old Arizona."

The story is timed in the '80s when stage coaches tore round them western hills; dance hall girls sang "Take back your gold, for gold can never buy me—take back your bribe and promise you'll be true," and a trip to the west with its bandits and Indians was the Great Adventure that westerners consider a trip east to be in this year of our Lord.

Mr. Baxter, "The Cisco Kid" of "In Old Arizona," is, of course, "The Arizona Kid," who for plenty of reasons has a price on his head. As in the former picture there is a scolding Mexican housekeeper impersonated by Mrs. Jiminez, and a wild, dark woman who loves the "Kid," only this time said lady's heart is true. The false damsel is not missing, however—she's a blonde. As in "In Old Arizona" the hero is discovered with a passionate yen for perfume and baths.

The plot is a fairly interesting one with suspense that's pretty well maintained. The piece has much action and several laughs. You will thoroughly approve of Mr. Baxter, Miss Maris and Mrs. Jiminez, find minor rôles nicely handled and the direction intelligent. Scenery and sets win approval and the sound effects are all right.

If, as you watch the show, you keep comparing it with "In Old Arizona," you won't think it's so hot, but if you shut off your mind to that grand and glorious picture, why, you should find considerable pleasure in the adventures and romancing of "The Arizona Kid."

See you soon.

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Giulio Gatti-Casazza, director of the Metropolitan Opera company and America's foremost impresario, and Rosina Galli, his première danseuse, were married quietly at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Jersey City today and slipped quietly away aboard the liner Vulcania for a honeymoon in Cannes. Gatti-Casazza is 60 and his bride is 33.

The marriage came as a surprise even to members of the Metropolitan Opera company. It linked two careers closely allied since the days when Sig. Gatti-Casazza was director of La Scala in Milan.

Then Mme. Galli, a small black eyed signorina from Milan, was pirouetting in La Scala's dancing school. There Sig. Gatti-Casazza first noticed her work.

Later she joined the Chicago Opera company as a danseuse and a few years after Sig. Gatti-Casazza became director of the Metropolitan Opera company in 1908 she poined its ranks.

She expects to dance no more on the Metrolopitan's stage, William Guard, director of the company's publicity, said today. She will retain direction of the ballet school and the organization of ballets in operatic productions.

Sig. Gatti-Casazza also is a native of Italy. His first wife was Mme. Frances Alda, a soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company for many years, whom he married in 1910. Some years later there were rumors of discord between the two and in 1928 Mme. Alda announced she had filed suit for divorce in Nogales, Mexico. The marriage was dissolved shortly afterward.

Dr. James H. Hutton Installed as Head of Medical Society

Dr. James H. Hutton was installed as the president of the Chicago Medical society at the annual meeting and banquet in the Medical and Dental Arts building last night. Dr. John Harger was installed as the new president elect. Dr. N. S. Davis was re-elected secretary. One hundred and fifty Cook county physicians and surgeons attended the meeting. Dr. Charles Reed, retiring president, made a brief address.

A medical education has become so costly that a student no longer can work his way through to a doctor's degree, Dr. Harger last night told the 87 members of the graduating class of the Chicago Medical school. The commencement exercises were held at the Blackstone hotel.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Questions.

The Answers.

F. M. Stutesman, Columbus, O., salesman — Will Rogers, I believe. His humor has a human touch that appeals to everybody. He makes the world laugh at present day issues. I think the crown goes to him. He is my man, anyway.

L. C. Deighton, 105 East Delaware place, salesman — Andrew Volstead, congressman from my home district in Minnesota, is the fellow I would pick, for he is the author of a law that compels everybody to live a righteous and sober life. I guess Volstead is the most famous man in the world today.

E. C. Rennhack, 4900 Kenmore avenue, designer—I believe Lindbergh is the most famous man in the world. I think he has accomplished the most spectacular feat in the last century. He put over something worth talking about when he made that memorable flight across the Atlantic.

Miss Bland Sutherland, 7622 Colfax avenue, stenographer. That is a rather hard question to answer, but I believe I would pick Thomas A. Edison as the most famous man in the world. He has done the world so much good with his inventions that we could not get along without in the present day.

Mrs. John E. Price, 5535 Kenmore avenue, housewife.—Why, of course, Lindy is the most famous man in the world today. One could never forget his famous flight across the Atlantic, when he risked his life for the sake of aviation.

Gifts of $23,405,743 to Yale Announced at 229th Graduation

New Haven, Conn., June 18.—[Special.]—Yale has received gifts amounting to $23,405,743 during the past year, President James Rowland Angell told alumni gathered for the university's 229th commencement exercises today.

Among the larger gifts was one of $7,500,000 from the estate of John W. Sterling of the class of 1864, a New York lawyer, who bequeathed his fortune to his university. This latest sum brings the total received by Yale from the "Sterling fund" to over $22,000,000.

The next largest amount is a $5,000,000 gift by Edward S. Harkness, 1897, which is his initial gift, to enable the university to inaugurate its presidential quadrangle plan. Another member of the class of 1897, Francis P. Garvan of New York, has given his university his collection of early Americana. President Angell described it as a gift of "supreme importance, not only to Yale, but to the entire country," and he said that Mr. Garvan also expected to organize at Yale an "institute of American arts and crafts."

John D. Rockefeller Jr. was announced as having given $750,000 for the endowment of the divinity school.

President Angell also announced that Mrs. Payne Whitney, her daughter, Mrs. Charles Shipment Payson, and her son, John Hay Whitney, 1926, have promised the university funds for a new gymnasium.

Four hundred and thirty-eight students received diplomas today, and ten honorary degrees were conferred. Those honored are: Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador; Thomas Day Thatcher, solicitor general; Wilbur Lucius Cross, dean of the Yale graduate school; the Rev. Francis John McConnell, Methodist Episcopal bishop of New York and president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America; William Gillette, the actor; Robert Borthwick Adam, a Johnsonian scholar; and Paul Wilberforce Harrison, medical missionary.

THE STAGE

THE organization of New York theater managers, formed to abate the abuses of ticket speculation, has announced the details of its plan.

The premium charged by accredited ticket brokers has been fixed at 75 cents. The practice of selling tickets to brokers en bloc, and of permitting them to make mass "buys" for weeks in advance, will be stopped.

According to the bylaws of the organization, which has adopted the title of the League of New York Theaters, 50 per cent of all seats must be on sale to the public at the box office, except in cases of special demands by the accredited brokers, when additional seats may be supplied to them. But "at no time shall the amount assigned to the box office for the public be less than 25 per cent of the orchestra seats."

In order that seats may be bought at the box offices in locations as desirable as at the brokers' the principle of alternating rows has been adopted. If the brokers have the first row tickets the second row must be held in the box office, and so on to the back row. The division of tickets among the various accredited brokers must be arranged among themselves; and if they cannot agree the governors of the league will make the division. All unsold tickets consigned by the managers to the brokers must be returned to the box offices at 7:30 p. m. for night performances and 1:30 p. m. for matinée performances.

The movement to end the flagrancies of ticket speculation in New York began six months ago at a meeting of managers in the Empire theater. For several months it was carried on by a committee consisting of Arthur Hopkins, Brock Pemberton, and Gilbert Miller. Then a formal organization was established, with Mr. Hopkins as president and a board of governors representing the public, the theater owners, the producing managers, the brokers, the actors, and the playwrights. Its members are former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, L. Lawrence Weber, John McBride, Lawrence Langner, David Marks, Frank Gillmore, and Edward C. Carpenter. H. D. Savage, an experienced organizer and administrator from the banking and engineering fields, was appointed executive secretary of the league at a salary of $25,000 a year.

Earl Carroll, producer of the revues called "Vanities," and his business associates have concluded negotiations for the erection of a new theater seating 2,800 at the southeast corner of 7th avenue and 50th street, New York. Mr. Carroll's present theater occupies a part of this site, and so will be demolished. The deal involved a $4,000,000 lease and the placing of a loan of $1,450,000 with the Mutual Life Insurance company. The theater and its site will represent an investment of about $3,000,000; the building itself will cost more than $1,000,000. The new playhouse will be devoted to a policy of elaborate musical shows and revues.

Joseph Schildkraut, who has been absorbed in the movies and talkies for the last two years, is about to return to the stage. Charles L. Wagner has persuaded him to sign on the dotted line for appearances in a play called "The Tyrant," by Rafael Sabatini.

Publix Signs Contract for All Fox Film Productions

New York, June 18.—(AP)—An announcement today said the largest single contract ever made for the sale and distribution of motion pictures has just been signed through which the entire output of Fox Film corporation for the coming year will be used by the complete Publix chain of 1,031 theaters.

Singing Crowd Greets Aimee with Flowers

Evangelist Here on Way Back to Temple.

A crowd of 200 enthusiastic disciples, assembled from the Chicago and Kenosha branches of the church she founded, welcomed Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson back to her old time popularity last night with armloads of flowers and much hymn singing.

The evangelist arrived at the Union station from New York on the way back to her Los Angeles temple after conducting a tour of 65 pilgrims through the Holy Land. Long before the train reached the station the crowd was pressed against the doors leading to the train shed, and the parishioners of Kenosha and Four Square Gospel churches No. 1 and No. 2 of Chicago were talking excitedly and making final arrangements as to who would present the flowers.

When Mrs. McPherson appeared, dressed in black velvet, her new blond hair peaking from beneath a close black felt hat and a white fur thrown back over her shoulders, the group cheered, then broke forth into singing "The Lord Planted a Garden," written by the evangelist. After leading the singing Mrs. McPherson said in greeting:

"I've heard so much French and talked so much Arabic that it's good to talk English and be understood again. I'm glad to be back with you, and if you'll all go over to the Chicago and North Western station I'll get on a chair and talk to you and we'll have a service. How many want to go? Fine. Now, right about face, forward march."

With that the crowd marched while Mrs. McPherson, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, who had met her in New York, carried the overflow of the floral tributes.

No one remarked about the blonde curls which were undisputably red when the evangelist passed through Chicago a few months ago for the Palestine tour. No one asked about the report that upon her arrival in New York she had failed to declare all her foreign purchases, or about the holy water she brought back. No one asked about the action filed recently against the will of the late Mrs. Catherine McAdams of Beloit, Wis., which left a bequest of $55,000 to Mrs. McPherson and her associates. It was charged that the evangelist had used undue influence in regard to the will and led Mrs. McAdams to believe that she was "religiously cured of cancer."

No one asked these questions but reporters. But Mrs. McPherson cleared them with a sentence or two. The New York difficulty was only due to her having the suitcase of her daughter, who remained abroad, but which was sent back on the next boat. The will suit she hadn't heard about.

Boys' Club Starts Campaign to Keep Youths from Idling

Asserting that leisure time is one of the direct causes of juvenile delinquency, a city-wide prevention program was started yesterday by the Chicago Boys' club, 120 South La Salle street. Vacant lots all over the city are being acquired by the club, fitted out with the latest playground equipment, ad staffed with trained instructors.

"Summer time is idle time for growing boys," John H. Witter, general superintendent of the club, explained, "leaving many thousands who are unable to go to the country or camp to roam the streets. This leisure is a serious problem, as shown by arrest records."

Another feature of the summer program is unemployment and vocational guidance for boys. A special drive is being staged to get full time jobs for boys who have finished school and summer work for those who will reenter school in the fall.

Chicago Colony Moving In at Mackinac Isle

BY THALIA

Most of the Chicagoans who have spent their summers amid Mackinac island's wooded hills over a period of years are planning to be there this year as usual. The colony will be minus Mrs. John Lewis Cochran and her little brood, as they are varying their annual custom and are going to Cape Cod instead, but most of the others will be established within a few weeks to remain until the close of the season on Labor day.

Mrs. William Warren Dixon of 1515 State parkway and her boys, Bruce and Warren, are departing today, and the Homer L. Dixon family plans to go up next Monday. Their place at Mackinac is named "Kaho Cottage" which was compounded from the first syllable of Mrs. Dixon's first name, Katharine, and of Mr. Dixon's.

Mrs. Selim W. McArthur of 2644 Lake View avenue has already opened "Rockwood," and Mrs. Jay Beidler Camp of the south side is also ensconced for the summer, with her children. Mr. and Mrs. Billings McArthur of 515 Barry avenue and Dr. Hugh T. Patrick of 1428 State parkway and his daughter, Miss Margaret Patrick, are not planning to depart until the first week in July, and Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Harvey haven't decided just when they will go.

Miss Kathryn Bermingham wore a frock of peach-colored crêpe Elizabeth and a brown straw hat edged with malines for her marriage yesterday afternoon to Charles H. ReQua Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. ReQua of Winnetka. The service was read at the residence of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, the Edward J. Berminghams, in the presence of the families and intimate friends of the bride and groom. Mr. and Mrs. ReQua are to reside in Santa Fe, N. M.

A number of Chicagoans have gone east for the wedding in New York today of Miss Lillias Dell Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Webster, to Calvin Durant Trowbridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge of Lake Forest. The ceremony will be performed at the Central Presbyterian church and a large reception will follow at the Park Lane hotel.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Wylie will be maid of honor for Miss Webster and the bridesmaids will be Miss Ruth Gibson of Boston, Miss Katherine and Miss Jane Trowbridge, Miss Carolyn Durand and Miss Helen Webster of San Mateo, Cal., and Miss Dorothy DuBois and Miss Elizabeth Killborne of New York. American Artists' Paintings on View Win Critic's Praise

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The summer exhibition of paintings by American artists arranged by Thomas Gerrity in the Knoedler gallery and just opened to the public is a remarkable achievement. Mr. Gerrity has used the finest discrimination and the exhibit is representative of American painting at its best. The pictures make one tingle with pride that they are the work of our artists. Sometimes under the onslaught of the European invasion, one begins to doubt if America has anything worth while of her own. The doubt is ground to powder, laughed to the winds, when such an exhibition as the Knoedler is holding comes into notice.

In the first room there are fifteen paintings. The hauntingly, soberly beautiful "Paris," by Flora Schofield, is to the left as one enters. Then comes the most delicious, the most delightful and exquisite, the most lyrical of forest paintings, "Silver Birches," by A. H. Wyant. Daniel Garber follows with a fascinating landscape, a whimsical bit of precise beauty, "The Antique Shop." Two paintings by Bruce Crane, a misty brown and gray landscape with silence running through the low swamp, "Early Morning," and a sharper landscape, "December Grays," in which the snow lies like the ashes of summer against the rough bark of trees, stand one on each side of a shiveringly delicate brown landscape, "November Indian Summer," by J. Francis Murphy.

Walter Palmer has two stunning winter paintings. Palmer is 76 years old, but his work has the vitality and strength of a young man. "Late Afternoon" is remarkable for the sun falling through the trees, the shadows in the river, and the chill majesty of the snowlocked hills. The second Palmer is also a picture of winter, "The Open Pool." George Inness is represented by a most unusual and delightful landscape, a mixture of soft Umbrian background and vivid Yankee foreground. Fresh green frames the Hudson and the low lying veiled landscape beyond. The "Winter," by Rockwell Kent, is superb.

Among the other paintings of particular appeal in the exhibition are "Gloucester," by Childe Hassam; "Mending," by Gari Melchers; "Rocky Coast," by Frank Duveneck; "The Japanese Book," by William M. Chase; "Portrait of a Child," by Mary Cassatt; "Snow Scene," by J. H. Twachtman; "Washday," by Robert Spencer, and "Sheep Shearers" and "Woodman Winter," by Horatio Walker.

Despite Professor, Doris Says Naggers Don't Make Successes

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A question comes up in the press report of a statement by Dr. H. W. Hepner, psychologist of Syracuse university, to the effect that "an unhappily married man usually is more efficient than the happily married one."

If true, success magazine stories are going to have to change their tune about "the little woman to whom I owe everything." Said little woman will refuse to pose for the picture of common scold or miserymaker to her husband's triumphant progress.

The idea is upsetting, likewise, to all the hitherto prescribed advice to newlyweds. The suggestion to make life as miserable as possible for friend husband has not been generally advocated.

Maybe it works with some men, who, we suspect, would be just as great financial wizards did they occupy bachelor apartments. It's in 'em to gather the prize fruits for their labors. It is not in some men, which makes the suggestion impracticable.

True, men have risen to success heights with nagging, exacting women behind them. But we'll wager more men have been prodded into the full use of their ability by confidence-inspiring wives than by naggers.

Men will stand for only so much home friction, these days of easy divorce arranging, and the woods full of gay, companionable, appreciative and "sympathetic" other women. Or, supposa, they choose to stick by the extravagant shrew or whatever the qualifications of the miserymaker, where's the fun in it for either of the principals concerned? Are the efficiency and its rewards worth while?

We heard of a hard-boiled female parent who coached her daugther well in the art of hectoring success out of her husband with extravagant whims and constant bullying. The daughter eventually succeeded in achieving distinction for her mate, all right. He has a reputation for holding more liquor most of the time than any other man in his group. It's common wonder that he holds his job and commoner talk that it won't be for much longer.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Chances Not in Her Favor.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend and I have the same boy. He seems to like my girl friend better than I. How could I get him to like me better?

EILEEN."

I should not try it, Eileen. The chances are not in your favor and there might be the loss of her friendship.

Good News at Algonquin; Now $1,000 in Fund

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With her first guests of the season comfortably tucked away in summer vacation cottages and preparations completed for a second reception today of another 100 tenement mothers and children, Camp Algonquin found a moment yesterday to read her accumulation of mail. And she found the best news yet this year. The Camp Algonquin fund yesterday went over the $1,000 mark.

The largest gift was $316.59 from the Abbie E. Tyrrell fund. A few years ago the late Miss Tyrrell, a school teacher living in Oak Park, made provision for Algonquin's children in a bequest to THE TRIBUNE'S camp fund. Every year comes the remembrance. Another annual gift came from a Hinsdale woman who prefers to be known as "BX." Each year she sends several gifts during the season.

The school children who know better than most people how much their less fortunate classmates need those Algonquin vacations have been busy. The "Best You Can Do" club of room 305, Bradwell school, sent $3 with "the sincere regret that we cannot do more, but we hope this small contribution will help give some one an enjoyable vacation."

Four children in the 6800 block of South Shore drive put on a play and earned $1 for the fund. They were Bootie, Sunshine, and Margy, each 7 years old, and Betty, 10 years old.

While friends all over Chicago were remembering them in gifts, the guests at Algonquin romped over the camp acres yesterday. They couldn't get enough of the thick grass and shady trees and the wide airy space.

Asleep with the 8:30 curfew after their journey from the city Tuesday evening, the whole camp was awake before the rising bell yesterday, waiting for breakfast. Then they marched into the refectory to music, sang a blessing, and ate with the appetite of harvest hands. When there wasn't a bowl of oatmeal, milk, cocoa, egg, bread and butter and prunes left, the older children scurried outside to investigate the camp paths, a couple dozen kindergarten children made a town in the sandpile, and the mothers were guided in the morning soap and water ritual for the babies up in the nursery.

Mrs. Astrid Save, camp superintendent, expressed her pleasure over the coöperation given by the new staff of counselors in making the first day, ordinarily a difficult one, an ususually well ordered camp beginning. The staff will be enlarged with the coming of today's group and the 200 all-summer undernourished children on June 30.

These gifts have arrived for the Algonquin fund since the last acknowledgement:

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Bobby's women folk all have short hair. Aunt Lou, with her long, wavy tresses, is a constant wonder. The other day when she was doing some intricate twists preparatory to a French arrangement, Bobby called to his sister, "Hurry, Eleanor, come quick! Aunt Lou's winding up again!"

Mrs. F. M.

The children had spent a wonderful afternoon at the circus and were resting in the park on their way home. Dreamily watching the flight of a bird, Milly asked, "Don't you wish you were a bird, Chester, and could fly 'way up to the sky?"

"Not me," answered Chester. "I'd rather be an elephant an' squirt water through my nose."

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Information on "Sun Bathing for the Baby" will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today it's dolls. And there's so much to be said about dolls that I must plunge into the fascinating subject in a thoroughly businesslike way.

For quite young children a doll should be sturdy and washable. There are several dolls on the market that answer these requirements. One is an all wooden doll of which the body is strongly jointed. These are natural looking with modeled faces and are made blonde and brunet, boy, girl, and baby dolls in several sizes. Some have long hair and some have the hair painted on.

Another doll for the tiny girl and boy [and don't be afraid of your boys having dolls—it won't make "sissies" of them!] is a stockinet doll. The body is of cloth with modeled and painted head, hands and feet which are washable. These come in medium and large sizes.

Of course, everybody knows the rather expensive dolls with the sweet, chubby, beautifully made faces, which are dressed as peasant children. Besides the little boy and girl, a baby doll has recently been brought out by these same makers.

Quite as different as possible is another patented doll only a few inches tall and made entirely of wood and painted. These come in sets or families and are fine to use in connection with house building, and trains, and trucks, etc. They are washable.

Besides these dolls with trade names there are many others, not patented, like the old fashioned china headed doll with a cloth body.

Perhaps of all the toys dolls are the ones most likely to have their importance recognized. Mothers and fathers are not only willing to spend money for dolls, but they realize the train of interesting play set in motion by the gift of a doll. Dolls' clothes have to be made and washed and ironed. They have to be put on and taken off and put away in a trunk or box. Dolls have to eat, and sleep, and be bathed and taken to walk! They have to have houses to live in and furniture for the houses. They have to have vehicles to take journeys in. And parties are necessary to every doll's social life! Boys can share in much of all this. And moving day is their pie. No one who is interested in children's play has to argue a mother into realizing the importance of dolls as a plaything.

Just be sure the dolls are as sanitary and as pleasing to the eye as possible. Avoid the shody, the ugly, and the grotesque.

Proof of Its Newness.

At a recent party I wore a new dress—a lovely chiffon frock in which I felt I was the last word in style. My friends all admired it, and I began playing bridge with a self-satisfied feeling.

Hearing laughter behind me, I turned to find one of the ladies staring at my dress—I looked down, too, and then I blushed. The price tag was still on the belt! I had removed one but as I had dressed hurriedly, I overlooked this one. It was most embarrassing!

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Bedding and Clothing.

"I have been in the hospital twice within the last few months, have had a serious operation and the result is I am in a weakened condition and cannot resist cold. Even though the weather is getting warmer I need heavy underwear and heavy blankets which I cannot buy. My husband has been out of work and we have seven children. If you can get clothing for them, too, I shall be so grateful. They are 16, 14 and 10; the boys, 14, 12, 8, and 6. I wear size 40.

"Mrs. B. W."

This woman seems to have had more than her share of earthly troubles and could, I am sure, use a great deal of assistance.

Food Talk.

Dainty appearance and light and airy texture are qualities in desserts which appeal to our warm weather appetites. That is why mousses, parfaits and bavarians are such popular summer desserts at the best hotels. Have the names of these desserts sounded so difficult and mysterious that you have never tried to prepare them at home for your own family? The truth of the matter is their preparation is simple once you have the principles of making in mind.

It is true that these foods are usually made of rich materials such as heavy cream. The whipping of the cream, however, expands the product to double the original bulk. So there is never the danger of getting the calories in a whipped, airy food that there is in one in liquid form. These desserts may be made equally well with evaporated milk. It supplies only about half as many calories as does cream, but the minerals and proteins are furnished in greater abundance. Then for those who must economize, evaporated milk will reduce the cost.

Mousses and parfaits are combinations that are usually frozen with salt and ice, and bavarians are congealed in ordinary refrigerators. The principle of putting the ingredients of a mousse or parfait together is the same as that of the bavarian. Sweetened custards or fruit mixtures are carefully folded into whipped cream or milk.

This folding should be done so carefully that there is no loss of air in the whipped ingredients. All of these foods are packed into molds which may be tightly sealed. Tight sealing is especially important for mousses or parfaits unless the freezing is done in an automatic refrigerator. A piece of adhesive tape wrapped around the mold so as to extend over the edge of the cover makes a perfect seal. The usual method of freezing is to pack the sealed mold into a mixture of one part salt and three parts ice.

These Recipes Will Simplify Tomorrow's Menu

STRAWBERRY MOUSSE.

1 cup whipping cream.

Select sound, well ripened berries. This is important that desired flavor and color be obtained. Berries vary in flavor and sweetness according to season and locality in which they are grown. Wash, hull, drain, and mash. Press quickly through a coarse sieve or force through a potato ricer. There will be from 1½ to 2 cups of pulp and juice. If berries lack flavor, 2 cups of berry pulp will be required. If berries are sour, ¼ cup more sugar will be needed.

Add sugar to pulp and let stand in refrigerator 20 minutes to chill and to dissolve sugar. Chill the cream. Whip until stiff. Add lemon juice and whip until extremely stiff. Cut and fold strawberry mixture lightly but thoroughly into cream. Turn into cold freezing pan immediately and place in refrigerator. From 2 to 5 hours are required for freezing. Yield: 6 servings. One serving: Total: 279 calories; protein, 6 calories; fat, 137 calories; carbohydrates, 136 calories.

COFFEE BAVARIAN.

3 egg yolks.
1¾ cups whipping cream.

Soften the gelatin in cold water. Boil the sugar and water until the sirup spins a thread. Pour in a fine stream over the well beaten egg yolks, whipping thoroughly. Add gelatin and stir until it dissolves. Chill the cream. Whip with a rotary egg beater until very stiff. Add the egg gelatin mixture, beating thoroughly to blend. Add sherry and coffee.

¾ cup sugar.
Pinch salt.
2 eggs.

Choose a good brand of coffee. Make a French drip coffee, if a drip pot is available, pouring the water over the coffee two or three times to obtain a strong infusion. If this method is not practical, tie the coffee loosely in a double layer of cheesecloth. Add boiling water, making sure that all the coffee is submerged, and let stand in a warm place on the back of the stove about five minutes. Drain off the coffee. There should be 1-3 cup.

Make a custard of the sugar, milk, salt, and egg yolks. Cook over boiling water and stir continuously to keep smooth. Cool. Whip cream and egg whites until stiff. Then combine. Fold in the cold custard, coffee infusion and the sherry.

Freeze in an automatic refrigerator or pack in a mold and bury in a mixture of 1 part salt and 3 parts ice. Yield: 6 servings. One serving: Total—198 calories; protein, 13 calories; fat, 138 calories; carbohydrates, 47 calories.

FARM and GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Army worms are chewing up crops by the scores of acres, centering their attack in Washington county, Ia., while wire worms have ravaged entire fields of grain recently in Calalier, Morton, and Towner counties in North Dakota, yet gardeners and even farmers with large fields in adjacent counties and states can be comparatively free from these attacks with a few precautions.

According to Gregory and Davis, Purdue university authors of a booklet on common garden pests, sweet corn often is taken on as a garden diet by these two pests. In small gardens a simple control measure is through rotation of crops. This is especially true in fighting the wire worm, a pest about one and one-half inches leng at maturity, hard and tan colored.

To circumvent the army worm, a striped caterpillar about two inches long, poison bait can be broadcast between the rows, similar to the treatment for cutworms. When fields are large the advice is to make a trench at the outside of the field and use the poisoned bait in this trench before the "army" marches into a new feeding ground. Two prescriptions, one for a large and another for a smaller batch of this poison, contain 25 pounds of bran, or two quarts for the garden treatment; one pound of Paris green or white arsenic, or one teaspoonful for the smaller batch; add some cheap sirup or strong molasses, using two quarts for the large recipe or one-half cupful for the smaller one, and three quarts of water to the first or three cupfuls for the second.

Bathing Suits Call for the Slim and Supple Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The days are here for donning the bathing suit—some of you wondering if you'd better appear in it, after all. Those hips seem to have grown heavier since last year—and the legs and the arms!

Of course, there are handsome beach costumes which you can loll around in without danger of exposing accummulated flesh. And rather than no beach visits at all, get one of the fascinating outfits and stroll or loll. Be outdoors as much as you can, this summer. Get your sun baths!

The sun tan as it was practiced from powder jar and rouge pot last year, it is understood, it not going to be quite the craze it was, and lucky it is, too. Of all the unbecoming and badly applied mixtures, artificial tan claimed the prize number of victims. The genuine thing in tans is always fashionable—and healthy. But more about the tanning and sunning later. It's the figures that has to be got ready for the tanning opportunity.

There's a good four weeks before some people will think that the water is warm enough for the plunge. You can do a lot with a figure in four weeks. You can take off six, eight or ten pounds, easily. Unless one is grossly overweight, a six, eight or ten pound loss can do a good deal of figure refining.

And now is a grand season for reducing. It's easy to go a couple or three days on a liquid diet to get yourself in trim for the rest of the loss. It's easy to make your luncheons of salads, your dinners of a light meat helping, two green vegetables, and a fruit dessert. You can drink glass after glass of water with more appetite for it and fewer shivers than in the cold season. And you can take a couple of good bending exercises or a good rolling one and a bending and get the waist and hips shapely in no time.

But the important thing is to begin the work today. Don't wait to try on the bathing suit until the swimming is here. Find out what your figure needs and go to it this very day.

Decorative Bodice Is Fashion's High Note

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Brocaded chiffon is good and getting better for smart evening frocks and ensembles. It is a material that is particularly beautiful for the hostess gown that stays at home. Paris likes her chiffons brocaded with velvet, and she dotes on them when they are brocaded in gold or silver, but she thinks they are a bit too fine to go out to public dancing and dining places. Something simpler for such things is the idea.

The hostess frock shown in our sketch is made of white chiffon brocaded with silver in a rose pattern, and it is one of Molyneux's smartest frocks.

The style message of burning importance that is so prettily told by this dress is that of the decorative bodice. Paris thinks that the naked, unadorned waist is too monotonous to be chic in this season when cleverness is essential, so Molyneux makes the bodice of this dress interesting by putting two boleros on it, and attaching the under bolero to a band that goes down the center front of the skirt. He also makes it possible to add further interest to the bodice by draping that long panel at the back around your shoulders in the manner shown in the smaller sketch. This draping of a panel or scarf around the shoulders is being done by the smartest women in Paris, and there's quite a trick to it. You had better rehearse your drapery in front of your mirror before doing it out in public, if you want to arrive at the prettiest effects. Worth while, though, because such drapery makes any shoulder line enchanting.

ICELAND HONORS 119TH BIRTHDAY OF ITS LIBERATOR

Ceremony Reminiscent of Small American Town.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 18.—All Iceland is celebrating the 119th birthday of Jon Sigurdson, Iceland's great statesman and liberator.

This year, on account of the crowds of visitors who have arrived for the great celebration at the end of the month of the millennium of the establishment of the Althing, the oldest parliament in the world, special ceremonies were provided in this little northern capital, which resembles a middle western American town. Except for the women wearing the Icelandic national costume, the resemblance would be exact.

Small Town Celebration.

The celebration, too, was just such as one would expect among home folks in a little town. To begin with, all went to church. The church is called a cathedral, but it is a modest little building. Every seat was filled. The sermon was on patriotism and the congregation joined lustily in the singing.

Then there was a concert by the town band in an open space opposite the beautiful little parliament house, which would just fit for a middle western town hall. When the music was over the band formed up in front of a procession. The band was followed by the prime minister of Iceland and his two ministers in a motor car. After them came what seemed to be the whole population of Reykjavik.

Lay Wreath on Grave.

All marched to the cemetery, where a wreath was laid on Jon Sigurdson's grave. The prime minister, standing bare headed in his car, made a patriotic address.

From the cemetery the procession marched to the stadium, where the day was ended with gymnastic displays and athletic contests.

MALTA PREMIER REFUSES TO QUIT TO PLEASE POPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 18.—The British government is faced today with the ticklish problem of finding a painless method of removing Lord Strickland from his office of prime minister of Malta without appearing to capitulate to the Vatican, according to authoritative reports.

Lord Strickland, who, by his methods of government, has turned the whole priesthood of Malta against him, and who is now in London, is said to have asserted his intention to wage a battle to the finish despite the dissatisfaction on the island and the attempts to assassinate him.

On the other hand, the Vatican is reported to have suggested to the British government that the Malta dispute could be closed up in a single day if Lord Strickland were to be removed from his office. The British government, however, does not possess the power to recall a premier elected under the Maltese constitution. Efforts that have and are being made to get Lord Strickland to resign have thus far failed.

Builder's Wife Takes In Washing, She Says; Sues

Mrs. Addie C. Furlott, 2218 North Newlin avenue, yesterday filed suit for divorce against Francis Furlott, a building contractor. She charges her husband has an annual income of $10,000, but that she has had to take in washings to support herself and their four children. She also charges cruelty. The Furlotts were married in May, 1913, and separated last June 14, according to the bill.

THREE TIED FOR LEAD IN BRITISH OPEN GOLF

IS STRIBLING FRAMING ALIBI OR IS HE HURT?

He and Pa Insist His Hand Is Sprained.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Young Stribling, who fights Otto Von Porat tomorrow night at the Stadium, yesterday utilized the first of his two extra days of training by skipping the rope and shadow boxing at the Arcade gymnasium. The battle between the heavies was postponed from last night when Stribling complained an injury to his left hand prevented him from entering the ring.

Stribling was consistent yesterday in his contention of injury when he refused to do any boxing.

Fred Gardner, member of the Illinois Athletic commission, which Tuesday ordered Stribling to meet Von Porat or face an indefinite suspension, attended yesterday's workout. The commission had acted when physicians' examinations revealed no injuries.

Von Porat's Manager There.

Sidney Strotz, president of the Stadium corporation which twice has postponed the fight, also was present. Ed Stevenson, Von Porat's manager, was another of the principals in attendance. Stevenson's first question, "Will Stribling fight tomorrow night?" indicated he either accepted Stribling's contention of injury or, perhaps, joined others who believe the injury was a belated attempt to get out of the battle with the Norwegian.

Several hundred of the fight proletariat paid 25 cents each yesterday for the privilege of waiting an hour for Stribling and his father-manager to appear at the gymnasium. They applauded Stribling's deft rope skipping and seemed to be satisfied that they received their money's worth.

Stribling did his final boxing Tuesday before members of the commission. Novocaine was injected into his hand and Strib pounded his spar mate without favor. Mr. Gardner said he is convinced Stribling is in condition.

Not Hedging, Pa Says.

Pa Stribling was just as emphatic in his claim that the hand is injured.

"Although the bones are not fractured, the hand is sprained, a recurrence of an injury he received four months ago," Pa said.

Stribling senior was asked if he desired to withdraw from the fight with Von Porat.

"We do not," he replied. "We want to fight in Chicago, and we bar no one. I asked for a postponement so W. L. would be in the best of condition. I believe he can whip Von Porat. We expect to deaden the nerves in my son's hand with novocaine before the fight starts."

With two postponements adding to the expense of the fight, Sidney Strotz, Stadium president, was a bit skeptical yesterday about the sincerity of the fighters. Strotz halted Von Porat's retreat more than a week ago by appealing to the commission to uphold the validity of a verbal contract.

Strotz Puzzled by Action.

"The physicians have proved Stribling's hand is not injured," Strotz said. "I do not know why Stribling, with his record, should be afraid of Von Porat, unless thoughts of the $700,000 which Schmeling and Sharkey, rival heavyweights, drew in New York, induced a desire to pass up his 25 per cent Friday night, in hope of the bigger chance."

Another theory was added to the "injury" and "run-out" arguments. It was recalled that when Stribling fought Jack Sharkey in Miami an attack of neuritis in his arm threatened postponement of the bout. Afterward his supporters claimed this cost Stribling the fight. The theorists yesterday considered the hand injury as an alibi if Von Porat wins.

Stribling has been one of the busiest fighters in the game since he turned professional in 1921. He has fought 278 bouts with 121 knockouts, a world record. His fights have brought him $400,000, most of which is invested in Florida real estate.

HAPPILY, WHALES ARE ABSENT FROM REGATTA COURSE

Yale, Harvard Row with Only Tradition in Air.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—With the Yale-Harvard boat races at New London, Conn., starting tomorrow and running on into Friday I should be reading my Moby Dick again to brush up on my whaling lore so as to be able to suggest the historical background and atmosphere of the town.

This I never have been able to do to my own satisfaction in some years of covering the Yale-Harvard race, as the only whale I ever have seen was an exceedingly defunct and sun ripened hulk which some hard working pitch men from the circus lot were dragging from town to town along the east coast of Florida last winter.

The boys were showing this specimen as an educational exhibit at a nominal charge of four bits per head, children half price and free list absolutely suspended, and although they said it had been embalmed under the supervision of the U. S. department of fisheries, there were times, standing to windward of the pitch, when one could only conclude that the morticians had overlooked a few acres of whale.

Like Mr. Pyle's Outlaws.

It reminded me somewhat of that patient trouper, the long departed chicken rustler who was trundled across the North American continent in the carnival troupe accompanying Mr. C. C. Pyle's first squad of bunioneers under the title of the Oklahoma outlaw. This unfortunate had been taken in error by some righteous homesteader out west somewhere about a quarter of a century ago and now, after a worthless life, he was enjoying another career under the title which exaggerated his original importance and invested him with a romantic kinship to Billy the Kid.

But in an unwary moment Mr. Dick Something, who had bought him out of stock from a rural undertaker out west, admitted that the silent, leathery object in the fiddle box coffin had really been brought down by a trap gun while trying to steal some pullets that were not his'n.

But, remembering the lively atmosphere of the educational whale in Florida, I am beginning to think that no newspaper entering the fastidious American home would be interested in a piece recreating the atmosphere of a town where, back in the whaling days, there were sometimes a hundred whales in port, reduced to raw products, but rich in atmosphere.

All for the Best.

I imagine that the passing of the New London whaling industry was all for the best because if it still existed there, Harvard and Yale would take their boat race to Poughkeepsie and the New Haven railroad would detour a long way round the town. A faint whiff of whale is a great sufficiency, and it might be enough for a boat race story just to say they used to catch whales out of New London.

The streets are faintly picturesque still, although the cobbles have been overlaid with concrete long since. But if a man is determined to do so, he can sit him down somewhere and, through the clatter of the traffic, the chatter of the crowds and the shrill of the policemen's whistles down by the monument, compel his imagination to summon lurching whales with the roll of the sea in their gait and brass curtain rings in their ears. The grog shop with its smoky scale model of the whaling vessel Nancy A or Salty B set over the mantle and its pewter ale pots foaming on the bar has vanished from the scene to be replaced by quiet, chain store speakeasies of the familiar, modern type.

These probably obtain their provisions from semi-official sources, because New London is a busy base of the U. S. coast guard and two and two make four.

Visiting New London at boat race time, one may have a greedy delusion that here is a place in which to pick up beautiful old ship models and aged

BETWEEN ROUNDS AT KILDEER KARNIVAL

CUBS BACK HOME TO OPEN AGAINST EASTERN CLUBS

Bush Picked to Face Braves Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The title holding Cubs will be back at Wrigley field today for a limited engagement of two weeks. During that time they will be called upon to repel the four eastern entries, and then set out on their most strenuous tour of the season. This will include visits to six of the National league's stopping places and in duration will be 26 days.

The first of the eastern teams to appear in the current home stay will be the Braves, who just now are enjoying heights to which they are not accustomed. For the opener this afternoon, Manager McCarthy will let them look over Guy Bush. The opposition probably will pick Harry "Socks" Seibold.

Raise Pennant Saturday.

Before the Braves leave town they will be permitted to share in the festivities marked by the formal raising of the pennant won last season by the Cubs. This little affair will be staged Saturday. On the same day there will be a double header.

When the Braves conclude their four day stay the Phillies will move in for four games in three days. Then there'll be a four game series with the leading Robins for whom most of the experts predict a gradual collapse. The Giants will be the last of the easterners to appear. They are billed for three battles. This program will carry the Cubs up to July 2.

Doubts Hornsby's Early Recovery.

Upon reaching here yesterday to learn that there was hope of having Rogers Hornsby back in uniform inside of three weeks, Manager McCarthy failed to display any excitement. He prefers to believe Hornsby will not fully recover from his broken ankle until some time in August and even then will not be able to move about with his one time agility.

Hornsby was reported in the city last night, but Manager McCarthy was unaware of his presence.

UZCUDUN, RISKO MEET TONIGHT IN SECOND BATTLE

Detroit, Mich., June 18.—(AP)—More evenly matched than any other two fighters of prominence in the heavyweight division, Paulino Uscudun and Johnny Risko will clash tomorrow night at Navin field in their second encounter.

Risko was awarded the decision in the first meeting, but the Basque wood chopper and his followers disputed that decision.

White Sox Reach Capital; Bent on Wrecking Griffs

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 18.—Our White Sox this afternoon swooped down upon the nation's capital with fiery vigor, bent upon the laudable task of slaying various and sundry pennant contenders in the American league of professional baseball clubs.

The prospective first victims of the seventh place crew are the unsuspecting Washington Senators, who recently have been bouncing back and forth between first and fourth places.

Dutch Henry, who has piled up a record of two victories already this season, both as a relief pitcher, will start against the Senators tomorrow, and Benny Tate, the catcher just obtained from Washington, will work his first game as a Comiskey employe. Garland Braxton, who was acquired with Tate, is going to get in the Washington series, too. Manager Bush plans to use him in Saturday's game.

Ted Lyons on Friday will make another attempt to win his tenth of the season and his third from the Senators. Then Braxton Saturday, and Sunday they will employ the old system of drawing a name out of a hat.

Tommy Thomas, who was left in Chicago, will rejoin the team in Philadelphia Monday if his ailing crazy bone gets better. He will be pressed into service at the earliest possible moment. Tommy is scheduled to start throwing baseballs tomorrow. He will be assisted by Catcher Chick Autry, who remained at home.

After four games in Washington, the Sox will go to Philadelphia for five games in three days, including doubleheaders Monday and Tuesday. Thursday a four game series will open in Boston after which the Sox go to New York to close their second eastern invasion. They will be in Gotham four days, but will play only three games.

The Great Shires made the trip here with the Sox and announced he plans to resume his formal vocal technique. "When they gagged the Great Shires they crushed his spirit and destroyed his superb power as a ball player," Arthur said.

SHANO COLLINS NEW MANAGER OF DES MOINES CLUB

Des Moines, Ia., June 18.—(AP)—Claude Davenport, veteran right handed pitcher today resigned as manager of the Des Moines club of the Western league. John "Shano" Collins, who piloted the Demons to the league championship in 1926 and to third place in 1927, will succeed Davenport beginning with Friday night's contest with St. Joseph.

NILLES SCORES 142 TO TAKE KILDEER MEET

200 Participate in Annual Karnival.

Nearly 200 gathered at the Kildeer Country club yesterday for that annual festival of golf and good cheer which is known as the Kildeer Karnival. Players from 46 clubs made merry for 18 holes on the water course in the morning, repeated the process on the woods course in the afternoon, and then assembled in the clubhouse to make the welkin ring.

E. E. Nilles of the home club won low net with 71—71—142, although six others with higher handicaps turned in the same score. Low gross was won by Richard Ferris, also of Kildeer, who came in with a 74 and a 76 for the total of 150.

The best 18 hole round was shot by Howard R. Walton of Sunset Ridge, who was above par on only two holes of the woods course. He began with a birdie on the 456 yard first by getting his spoon shot to the edge of the green and going down in two putts for a 4.

He followed with a string of five pars and encountered his first trouble on the seventh, when a tree caused his second shot to fall short of the green. He played perfect golf to the twelfth, which he three putted. Then he got back into stride and played the last six flawlessly.

Other prize winners were: Low net on water course, J. A. Colvin, 71; low net on woods course, Don Mercer, 71; low gross on water course, L. Q. Needler, 81; low gross foursome, J. Lehman, 152; C. Clark, 171; R. W. Martin, 159, and A. O. Brett, 163 for a total of 645. Leading net scores:

Harvard Nine Ends Season by Swamping Yale, 14 to 4

Cambridge, Mass., June 18.—(AP)—The Harvard baseball team today ended its season by swamping Yale, 14 to 4. The victory gave the Crimson an even break in the series for Yale won, 9 to 5, yesterday at New Haven. Like last winter's hocky series, the 1930 baseball issue will remain deadlocked as no provision was made for a third and "rubber" game.

Sixty-four Tee Off Today For Tribune Public Links Titles

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The 64 golfers who qualified from a field of 250 will begin match play this morning for THE TRIBUNE'S public links championship. On Saturday one in each division will emerge with the title after five rounds of intensive competition with the best park and daily fee golfers of the Chicago district. Jackson park will be the scene of the men's tournament and Garfield park of the women's.

This meet, which was designed to give the thrill of big time competition to players who have no club affiliations, has brought together the finest sharpshooters of the public links, who otherwise might go from one end of the season to the other without an opportunity to match their skill against an opponent in tournament play.

Clubs have their regular Saturday and Sunday tournaments, but the players who use the public links spend most of their week-ends shooting against that imaginary opponent, Colonel Bogey, who all too often fails to rouse them to their best efforts. For it is only when man is pitted against man with a championship at stake that the best golf is brought out.

Fame Knocks Today.

One may shoot for years, with no other aim than to beat his own best score, and get nowhere. It is when a title depends on every stroke that the champion and the dub stand out in contrast. Then it is that class tells and the man or woman with the nerves of a champion lays a mashie shot dead to the pin or sinks a long putt.

Today the public links players will get their opportunity to become famous. For years many of the selected 64 have been playing over their favorite courses, shooting fine golf but getting no opportunity to display their skill with a title at stake. Today they step onto the course to show Chicago whether they have the real stuff in them or whether they can shoot good golf only when no opponent or gallery is present to rattle them.

Some are playing in an important tournament for the first time but others are seasoned campaigners. Gus Fetz, one of the best public links players of the Chicago district, is among the qualifiers and followers of the game have made him the favorite in the men's division. Mrs. Bill Wallace is generally considered the most consistent of the women players.

Look for Dark Horse.

But golf is a game in which dark horses are continually appearing to upset the dope and one may show up between this morning and Saturday afternoon. When one considers how many unknown golfers of real ability play the game day after day it is not strange that Bobby Jones meets so many tough opponents who were before unheralded. That coal miner who nearly put him out of the British amateur had been playing a consistent game for years, but nobody ever heard of him because he never before had competed in a big tournament. So don't be surprised if THE TRIBUNE'S public links meet uncovers the counterpart of Jones' opponent. Those who qualified have done so after their scores had been matched against 250 of the section's best.

If you wish to see real matches, stop for a few minutes today at the Jackson or Garfield park links. You will see men and women playing for a title which means just as much to them as the national open does to Jones or Hagen. You will see a display of polished skill in situations which call for coolness under pressure and you'll get a thrill out of watching people battle for the fun they get out of it.

LOW BLOW GIVES LATZO WIN OVER JOHNSON IN 6TH

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 18.—[Special.]—For the second time within a week an important New York ring struggle ended in a foul tonight. Pete Latzo, former world's welterweight champion, fighting as a light-heavyweight, won on an illegal blow from Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro at Ebbets field, in the sixth round of what was to have been a ten-round bout.

Two minutes and 57 seconds of the sixth round had gone when Referee Jack Dorman disqualified Johnson on a foul.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOYLAKE, June 18.—Bobby Jones and two professionals led the 110 starters in the play off for the British open golf championship over the Royal Liverpool links today with rounds of 70. The others hitting this pace were MacDonald Smith, New York, and Henry Cotton, the young member of last year's British Ryder cup team.

Jones and Smith turned in their best rounds of the last three days. Generally, however, today's scores were worse than in the qualifying rounds. A score of 158 was necessary to get into the championship flight, but today's cards indicated that 160 would be sufficient to reach a place among the 60 finalists who play 36 holes on Friday. Another 18 holes tomorrow will determine Friday's field.

Barnes Shoots 71.

Jim Barnes today turned in a 71. The next American was Horton Smith, who talked with the gallery all the way around while doing a par 72. Don Moe, the Oregon university sophomore, had a 74 in company with Leo Diegel, the American professional champion. The showing of this little group was the only one which will worry the British golfers in their effort to recover the cup for Great Britain.

F. C. Stevens, the young amateur from Lakeside club, played the first nine in 35, but he cracked on the second, finishing in 80. Last, but by no means the least of today's American scores was George von Elm's, America's second ranking amateur. Von Elm was out in 42 and back in 39 for an 81, which probably finished his hopes of landing in the final rounds.

As a result of his 70 Cotton has become the hope of the British, but he never has won anything better than a sectional championship.

Archie Compston, the professional who was first choice of the British to win the championship had a 74 this afternoon, but so did nearly a dozen others, and he is already four strokes behind the leaders with one of the four championship rounds completed. Compston played in a thunderstorm this afternoon, which pulled down most of the scores turned in after lunch.

Expect New Course Record.

Jones is expected to win the cup which Walter Hagen took last year, and at the same time to reduce Hagen's championship record of 301 for this course. Jones already holds the all-time mark for four rounds in the British open with his 285, made at St. Andrews in 1927.

The start of Jones' round this morning was spoiled by a bunkered drive at the first on which he took a five. After four on the second he dropped another five at the third, as his spoon shot rolled over the green and stopped in the high grass beyond. He pitched to the other side with his mashie shot and had to hole a 15 foot putt to get that five.

He had two threes and the rest fours finishing the first nine, and was out in even fours. He opened up coming in, garnering three birdies. He took the first with three at the tenth when his approach was ten feet away from the cup, and he snared the next one at the 500 yard sixteenth after a place spoon shot past the flag barely missed for a three. He then repeated at the next hole with another long putt which took him down in three and two under fours for the incoming card. He was home in 34.

Mac Smith Blows Up on Last Nine.

MacDonald Smith was shooting at the course record on his trip out. He did the first nine in 33, which he earned with his putter, taking only one putt on several greens. He putted himself a birdie three at the second and took two short holes in par three; on all the other holes he played fours. He failed at the record because he

BY FRENCH LANE.

The track record for six furlongs fell at Washington park yesterday when Clubhouse, 4 year old son of Meridian-Superita, galloped to victory in the Drexel Boulevard handicap.

Forced to run faster than at any time in his racing career to withstand the spectacular challenge of the one time star Jock, Clubhouse continued gamely at the terrific pace and won by a length. Jock was second and Morsun third. Trailing them home were Golden Prince and Paul Bunyan.

Clubhouse skimmed over the six furlong course in 1:11 1-5. It was two-fifths of a second faster than any horse ever ran the same distance at Washington Park. The former record of 1:11 3-5 was made by Edward R. Bradley's Black Beetle a year ago.

Morsun Leads at Half.

Morsun had the early foot and it was the fleet early speed he showed that aroused Clubhouse to new heights. Morsun led to the stretch and ran the first quarter in :23 and the half in :46. A horse would have to possess wings or a high powered motor to speed along at a faster pace.

Still it didn't kill off Clubhouse and when Morsun weakened under his big task at the head of the stretch Clubhouse moved right on past him. Clubhouse kept on going, but Jock, the favorite, was moving up from far back.

An eighth of a mile from the finish, Jock, running on the outside, had conquered Morsun and was within a length and a half of the leader. He kept crawling up an inch at a time.

Pays 5 to 1.

Jockey Landolt went to the whip on Clubhouse at this stage and Clubhouse rolled on to victory, beating the most stylish field he had ever faced.

Clubhouse was at 5 to 1 in the betting, paying $12 for a $2 mutual ticket. Jock was the odds on favorite at post time. There was a late plunge on Golden Prince, but the hero of a year ago always trailed and finished far back of the leaders.

The triumph of Clubhouse came just before Chelys, one of the longest shots of the Washington Park season, raced to victory. She races in the silks of A. B. Hancock, noted Kentucky and Virginia breeder, and when she got a nose decision over Willa she paid $159.28 for each $2 ticket.

Chelys Whips Willa.

Willa and Zacaweista had been the early leaders but they went a trifle wide at the head of the stretch. Chelys was right behind them and Jockey J. Marcum guided the daughter of Campfire-Chowink through next to the rail. In a driving finish down the stretch Chelys kept her nose in front of Willa. Nora D was third.

AMPHIONS MEET PLAINES.

The undefeated Amphions, who have won five games, will play Belle Plaine in a Midwest league ball game at Amphion field, Laverne avenue and Le Moyne street, Sunday.

25 CARLOADS OF HORSES TO COME HERE FROM N. Y.

More than 25 carloads of horses are coming from New York to take part in the Arlington Park Jockey club's July turf meeting, it was revealed yesterday by Joe McLennan, racing secretary at Arlington, on his return from the east.

"The shipment will include all the good horses from the best known stables on the Metropolitan circuit," he said. "Except for the jaunt each August to Saratoga there has never been a turf hegira out of New York city that in any way compares with this one."

New Yorkers are not convinced that Gallant Fox is a better horse than Whichone, according to the Arlington racing secretary. "It rained throughout the day when the Belmont stakes was run," he pointed out. "The New York people not only believe Whichone did not like the track but that he was not up to his best race when Gallant Fox beat him. Many New Yorkers will back Whichone to beat Gallant Fox when they meet again in the classic at Arlington on July 12." In the race here Gallant Fox will carry 126 pounds and Whichone 122.

U. S. ARMY TEAM WILL COMPETE AT WHEATON SHOW

The Midwest circuit horse show scene will shift to Wheaton on June 29, when prominent exhibitors of the Chicago district place their color bearers on display at Polo farm. One of the features will be the performances of United States army team, which last year won honors during an invasion of Europe. The army team will be led by Maj. Harry D. Chamberlain, an Illinois man.

GRANDMA LAPP, 10-1 SHOT, WINS AQUEDUCT STAKE

Sun Falcon Takes Fifth from Aldershot.

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—The surprise victories in all stakes since the beginning of the Aqueduct meeting continued today when Mrs. Thomas R. Queen's Grandma Lapp, a 10 to 1 shot, won the $5,825 Woodhaven claiming stakes, while Harry Payne Whitney's Airliner, 8 to 5 favorite, finished far out of the money.

It was a day of mud and upsets and the favorites went down one after another. Airliner changed hands immediately after the race, Mrs. W. A. Rosen acquiring him for $5,800.

Another Long Shot Second.

Grandma Lapp's victory was the same kind of startling and sparkling effort she showed at Jamaica when she won by a big margin. The triumph today gives her two victories out of five starts. Mrs. Queen's horse won by a length and a half from Deedie, another 10 to 1 shot, while Blind Lane, heavily backed as the second choice, was a distant third. The time was 1:01 for five furlongs, and the result gave Mrs. Queen her first victory in the Woodhaven which first was run in 1898.

Sun Falcon Wins 5th.

Although the public choices suffered badly, the racing card was one of the most interesting since the meeting began. In the purse that was fifth on the program the colors of Miss Mary Elizabeth Altemus, fiancée of John Whitney, were raced for the first time. Capstone, formerly owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, was Miss Altemus' color bearer, but could not land in the money after being well up all the way.

The winner of the race was Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Falcon, and in a great driving finish he defeated the heavily played Aldershot, sent on by Trainer Henry McDaniel for Gifford A. Cochran.

TRIBUNE SWIM MEET CREATES WIDE INTEREST

A. A. U. to Hold 4 Title Events at Same Time.

Although no entries will be received until July 6 for THE TRIBUNE'S amateur swimming races for boys and girls in Lincoln park lagoon July 27, last Sunday's announcement already has created interest among Chicago juniors.

The races will be for two age classes. Boys of 12 and 13 will compete together. Those who are 14 and 15 will compose another group. The same age classifications will be used for the girls.

All races will be over a 100 yard course in the north end of the lagoon adjacent to the canoe club. Each swimmer finishing the course will receive a medal similar to those awarded contestants in THE TRIBUNE'S annual Silver Skates Derbies.

Seek More Information.

Athletic directors and swimming instructors at several of the city's pools have asked for additional information. While only four swimmers, two boys and two girls, will win championship trophies, these instructors believe the merit badges will prove an incentive to swimming.

Some of the younger boys are insisting they be given the right to prove their ability to swim 100 yards. Sam Greller, instructor at the Jewish People's institute, wishes to enter a team of 10 and 11 year olds, all of whom are expert and possibly might push the older fellows in a 100 yard race.

Four A. A. U. Title Events.

Four Central A. A. U. championship events will be held in conjunction with the amateur races. The seniors [over 16 years] will compete for the free style 100 yard title and in the high board diving. Champion swimmers of the Illinois Women's Athletic club are expected to enter, while many of the men who contested in the national indoor meet this spring at the Lake Shore Athletic club will compete in the Lincoln park events.

Oscar Knopp, superintendent of small parks and recreation, has been assigned by Otto Weege, Lincoln park superintendent, to prepare the lagoon for the diving championships. Knopp reported yesterday that the site has been dredged. Within a few days the barges will be anchored and the work of building a new diving board will begin.

Members of The Tribune Athletic association will conduct all the events.

BOBBY JONES, GOLFER.

WHILE Bobby Jones already is surfeited with golfdom's honors, the rank and file of duffers would like to see him add the British pro crown to his British amateur title. That may be a somewhat selfish wish from one angle. To any pro successful, the title means increased prestige, and likewise earnings power through the various emoluments that accrue to a champion. To Jones, an amateur, it means only added glory of which he is not sadly in need.

If the Atlanta wizard should capture all major events in which he competes this year he might think his cup was full. Sooner or later—although the time seems far distant—Bobby will find others to dispute his right to be called the world's greatest golfer. We may expect his law practice at some time to interfere with his golf. Golf takes not only actual time of tournament play but many hours devoted to practice.

As Helper MacTavis L. remarks, "Bobby Jones has now won everything but the Kentucky Derby and the Arlington Classic. Well, Bobby was not nominated for those events or he would take them, too.

Nix on This, Ken.

O, Harvey, what a cinch for you
Each time you go away.
You write about the work you do,
When all you do is play.
Do you call watching Gallant Fox
Parade around the soil,
Or tabbing Sharkey's hits and blocks,
Do you call that stuff toil?
And then to make the thing more sweet
When you get back to Chi.
That makes Boss Arch Ward cry.

This Wake Is Conducted by Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Chicago's Cubs.

Chicago's Cubs today open home entertainment for eastern clubs which found our Cubs still formidable in spite of injuries on the trip just ended. McCarthy's crew is only three and one-half games out of first place, behind Brooklyn. These pace-makers are rated by baseball critics as playing over their head. Of course, such teams often continue playing over their head, but the general impression seems to be that Brooklyn will not hold its lead once all the other teams get straightened away. Baseball tradition has it you don't know much about the race until after July 1.

The Wake was not quite as sweet on Cub chances at the season's start as many others who conceded the National gonfalon. We had no reasons but feared something would happen. About everything has happened that could happen to a ball team, and still the north siders are second. Therefore, to us at least, they look better now to repeat than they did on April 15 when everything was rosy.

Two Tie Jones at 70 to Lead British Open

came in with 37, his putting suddenly becoming erratic and causing most of his troubles. He played par to the thirteenth, which is a short hole, and took four and three and then had three fives in a row.

Jim Barnes, the Cornish-American pro, was the reverse of Smith in his day's golf. He was out in 37, after taking a six on the eighth, but he tightened coming in, and dropped all his putts into the hole, and collected four threes and one two. Four of these were birdies. He took three and two on the tenth and eleventh, and dropped five on the twelfth. He played a par three on the thirteenth and then he was bunkered for three holes straight, and took all in fives. He placed his second wood shots short distances from the flag at the seventeenth and eighteenth for two more threes and finished in 34, second low in today's list.

Horton Smith Has One Bad Hole.

Horton Smith's bad hole was the third. His spoon shot dived into the trench and he was forced to pitch away from the hole in order to get out. His mashie-niblick overran the green into the tall grass and he made his fifth shot before he was in putting distance. His ball was then 15 feet away, but he got it down for a six. He was out in 37 and back with one birdie at the sixteenth for 35, winding up with a par 72.

Don Moe played as he has all week in getting his 74 after a bad first nine. He played five fives and turned with 39, but recovered to come in with a 35.

Diegel fell with two cards of 37 in and out, smearing fives all over each of them. He had two birdies on the short fourth and at the tenth.

Von Elm Gets a 9.

Von Elm's round was one blunder after another, climaxed by a nine at the fifth. At the second he bunkered and blasted away in rage for three strokes before he was able to get out, and then he was in the rough. He took two more to reach the green and then he was barely down in two putts. He was out in 43 and back with three fives in 38 for a total of 81.

Von Elm was not alone among the touted amateurs who fell today. Cyril Tolley, last year's British champion, went out in 43 and came home in 41 for 84.

LANE DEFEATS TILDEN, 5 TO 4, IN TEN INNINGS

Lane Tech yesterday defeated Tilden, 5 to 4, in ten innings at Mills Stadium, and will meet Marshall Saturday for the city league championship. Tilden scored two runs in the ninth, tying the score, 4 to 4.

In the tenth frame, Carl Vaicek, Lane hurler, doubled. He went to third on Casper Stropel's sacrifice and scored when Bubbles Baumgartner doubled to deep center. Score:

WHALES HAPPILY ABSENT AS YALE MEETS HARVARD

furniture for almost nothing, but that is strictly a delusion because New London is in New England and New Englanders are not dumb. Ship models and antiques there are to be had, but they do them better and sell them cheaper in New York stores.

Balloon Men Always There.

At boat race time, New London swarms with people from elsewhere, always including a few hundred scratchy, sallow parties from the east side of New York selling blue balloons with a white Y on them to the Yales and the red balloons with a white H on them to the Harvards. It is the custom to buy clusters of these balloons and loose them from the observation trains, which consist of flat cars mounting sooty circus seats.

It is customary, also, for a certain proportion of the spectators of both sexes to become moderately tight, if not more so, and to make amiable chumps of themselves, babbling alcoholic nonsense and pulling at their flasks in the excitement of the afternoon. It is great fun, all in all.

But of the boat race, after watching perhaps a dozen of these Yale-Harvard races, I suddenly realize that I know very little.

I was always interested in the picturesque remarks of the coxswains as they urged the big men at the sweeps to more heroic sufferings along the four mile course, but the general uproar made them inaudible and then, when the shells approached the buoys at the finish, the sun threw a glare on the water and the two needles disappeared in the dazzle as though they had rowed right into a burning oil tank. So when I got back to town to do an authoritative dispatch on the rowing of the boat race, I had to ask a fellow in the Western Union, "Is it true that Harvard won?"

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—[Special.]—Another furious selling storm engulfed the New York stock market today, whirling nearly 500 different issues to new low price levels for the year.

At their bottom figures leading shares of the board showed losses of from $2 to $30 a share.

An aggressive rally developing in the last hour, however, wiped out a good half of the early losses, and the closing prices disclosed so-called pivotal stocks like United States Steel, American Can, New York Central, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and the like off only 1 to 8 points on the average for the day.

Trading was of enormous volume, the sales totaling 6,425,630 shares. Curb stocks were under heavy pressure all day and many new 1930 lows were registered there. Curb sales totaled 2,019,000 shares, a grand total of 8,444,730 shares sold during the day.

Wheat Falls to New Low.

The weakness of the share market was duplicated in commodity markets, July wheat falling to a new low for the year on the Chicago wheat pit and bank stocks crashing $5 to $10 a share.

Here is how some of the most active stocks sized up at the close of the day's business in comparison with their prices on Nov. 13 last, when most of them reached their lows on the liquidation of the great bull market:

Stock—	Low Nov. 13.	Today's close.	Net loss for day
Allied Chemical	197	249½	11½
American Can	86	115¼	7¾
American Smelting	62	86⅛	2⅜
Anaconda	70	46⅛	⅛
Baltimore & Ohio	165	101⅛	⅜
Bethlehem Steel	78¼	81	4
Consolidated Gas	80¼	105¼	3⅜
Hudson Motors	38	30½	2⅜

International Tel & Tel.	53	38½	1½
Kennecott	49¾	38½	1½
Montgomery Ward	49¼	35	1½
New York Central	160	158	3½
Southern Pacific	165	111¼	3½
Standard Oil of N J	80	61¾	3½
Studebaker	38¼	25⅝	⅛
Texas Corp	80	50½	1
U S Rubber	22	20½	2½
Westinghouse	102¾	132¾	5
Woolworth	82¼	84	1

Much of the buying in the late trading was reported to be for investment account and the rank and file interpreted this as a sign of great promise.

Some Comfort for Bulls.

Steel common, the big bellwether of the herd, rallied from its low of 151¼ and closed at 158¾, off 2¾ points. General Electric rallied to 68 at the close from its low of 65¾. American Telephone rallied from its low of 201¼ to 204, closing 5¼ points lower. Radio closed at 34½, 1½ points lower, after having sold at 33½. General Motors closed at 40⅛, off 1⅜, rallying from its low of 39.

Steel's Nov. 13 low was 150, Radio's was 28, and that of General Motors 36. Thus, as bull leaders were busily pointing out, most of the so-called pivotals of the market have a long way to go yet before crashing through their "big break" lows.

However, at least 200 stocks did sink below their October-November lows, and the bears took pains to see that this fact did not go unnoticed.

The fresh outburst of liquidation—bull leaders thought they had got the market bolstered up anew yesterday—was accompanied by the usual flurries of alarmist rumors, some of them with a palpably warmed over waffle flavor and others dolled out in a manner calculated to deceive even the very elect.

Somebody heard and told somebody else that President Hoover was ill, and they bandied this all over the place. They said Secretary Mellon was preparing a statement on economic conditions which might not be exactly an essay in optimism.

Finds Many Worth While Bond Issues are Overlooked

BY SCRUTATOR.

There is at all times a definite return that can be had on invested money without risk. Recently the United States treasury issued certificates that bore interest of 2¾ per cent and as no safer form of investment exists, it is apparent that any one attempting to get more for his funds is taking a risk which in general varies with the possible return's size.

Even a 5 per cent bond carries a greater risk than the treasury certificate. Almost all stocks carry still greater risks, both as to principal and to annual return. That has been true for nearly nine months, demonstrably. In the meantime, what of the bond market?

Since last October there has been a sharp differentiation between two classes of investors, careful investors and speculative investors. The conservatives have been leaning toward the bonds of nationally known concerns and the others have been concentrating on stocks.

Not Well Enough Known.

One of the results has been that a great many bonds, said by competent authority to be perfectly sound, have been neglected because they are not well known to the conservatives and hardly attractive to speculators who are not satisfied even with fairly large returns.

It is rather generally known that a well secured loan may be classed as a sound investment more often than any other form of property. The investor has the privilege, if he doesn't get his annual return on time, of demanding the return of everything he put in. Sometimes he doesn't get it, but his chances are usually safeguarded closely, and it is easier to pick a good bond than to pick a good stock.

All rules have exceptions. Other forms of investment have paid, in instances, income that was as sure and from which the investment could be recovered just as regularly as from high class bonds. Even those who bought stocks two years ago, Florida lands six years ago, Belgian hares thirty years ago, or tulip bulbs in Holland 300 years ago, profited if they converted paper profits into cash at the right time.

But there is a union scale of wages for a dollar; for the work it actually does. Getting more means payment for good guesses. Since last October the wise dollars, according to Samuel O. Rice of the Investment Bankers association, have been getting into conservative, highly marketable bonds. These went up in price at least until the last few days.

Will Meet Tests.

Other bonds, probably as desirable from every standpoint except marketability, have not appreciated so fast. According to F. A. Thulin, president of Peabody and company, there are some millions of dollars in bonds here in the middle west that would meet any sound tests worth, and which can be purchased at 75 cents on the dollar, or less. Yields might run above 10 per cent on much of this merchandise.

Mr. Thulin's view is that such distress securities at such prices have attractions far outweighing the risk involved. Trouble in marketing them is due to the fact that small investors do not have the facilities to investigate their worth. His suggestion is that investment trusts, large unit managed estates and men of large income should take up such bonds to a greater degree than they have.

N. Y. CURB STOCKS HIT NEW LOWS IN HEAVY SELLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18. — Securities prices on the New York curb exchange fell off in the widest decline since last November in the morning trading hours today, during which time scores of new 1930 lows were established.

Many popular issues, including American Gas and Electric, Electric Bond and Share, and American Superpower, went to new lows for the year and closed lower for the day despite rallies. Niagara Hudson and United Gas new also closed lower. United Light and Power A was almost alone in the list, scoring a fractional gain.

Invite Trio to Explain German Loan Disposal

Washington, D. C., June 18.—(AP)—Invitations were extended today to Secretaries Stimson and Mellon and to Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. to come before the house banking committee and explain the plan to dispose of $100,000,000 in German reparations bonds in this country. Chairman McFadden said, in forwarding the invitations, that it was proposed to hear Lamont on June 24 and Stimson and Mellon on the two following days. They were asked to appear as witnesses on the McFadden resolution to prohibit federal reserve and national banks and members of the federal reserve system from buying the bonds.

Cost of Living Still to Profit from Declines

BY O. A. MATHER.

The cost of living for the average American family has not been lowered to the extent that prices of wholesale commodities have declined in recent months. While the decline in wholesale prices has been an important factor in the current business depression and unemployment, still the consumer hasn't received the commensurate benefit to compensate for the adverse factors.

This conclusion is reached by the federal reserve board in its monthly review, issued yesterday. It finds that wholesale commodity prices have dropped about 7 per cent since last July and that on the average they are now the lowest in thirteen years.

"Gradual price recessions which were reported for all countries, beginning last summer or earlier, appeared to have accompanied a general slowing down of trade and industry to which the high level of money rates throughout the world, caused largely by the strong demand for credit from the American securities market, was a contributing feature," the review says.

Reflect Inactivity.

"These at first affected chiefly commodities with organized exchanges, but later spread to all classes of goods. The continuation of price declines in 1930 appears to reflect the inactive condition of business and a loss of purchasing power by the ultimate consumers through the decrease of employment and the reduction in wage payments. Prices to consumers have also tended downward in recent months, but the reductions have been considerably smaller than those of wholesale prices.

"Differences in the course of prices in different groups of commodities can be explained only with reference to a large number of circumstances affecting individual industries and markets. In raw materials the principal cause of price fluctuations has been the difficulty of adjusting the supply to the demand, while in manufactured goods the trend of prices has been downward for a number of years, reflecting chiefly lower raw material costs and economy of production through increased efficiency.

"Reduced industrial activity abroad, in turn, diminished the demand for raw materials and was a factor in the price decline. Unfavorable conditions in our bond market in 1929 made it difficult for foreign countries to arrange long time financing in this country and were a further factor tending to delay industrial recovery abroad and to depress the world level of commodity prices."

Steel Curtailment.

The current troubles of the steel industry are set forth in some detail in the midweek trade reviews.

"A sharp drop in steel specifications from automobile makers and an increasingly general tendency toward seasonal retrenchment in other steel consuming industries are too sweeping in their effects to be offset by the large volume of business in line pipe and the growing demand for structural steel," the Iron Age says. "Curtailment in automobile production in July will prove more drastic, it now appears, than was recently expected. Indications are that the general average of operations for that industry will fall to 50 per cent of capacity."

REP. WOOD CHARGES STOCK MANIPULATION TO BELITTLE TARIFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 18.—Will R. Wood, representative in congress from the Tenth Indiana district and chairman of the house appropriations committee, today is quoted by the Indianapolis Star as charging that the drop in the stock market, coincident with passage of the tariff bill, represented a case of market manipulation staged by moneyed interests and importers.

"The stock market was made to drop—forced to drop—by international financiers, who wished to make a political play and if possible prejudice President Hoover against the tariff," Wood said.

"I have reason to believe that John J. Raskob, representative of big business and chairman of the Democratic national committee, had a part in this drop, staged to give an impression that the new tariff is one not good for business.

"The new tariff will prove to be a decided tonic to American business, and by every natural reason its enactment should have caused the stock market to rise, if permitted to take its course without professional bearish pressure.

"The stock market at the present time is not an accurate barometer on the business situation, but now that President Hoover has signed the tariff act the moneyed importers will understand the tariff law is a fact and that it will remain in operation for at least ten years. Business—American business—is bound to improve as soon as this tariff law becomes effective. The stock market in due time will respond.

"I am investigating the matter, and I think I will be able to prove that the professional bearish demonstration was stage stuff. I expect to be able to prove what interests and what individuals promoted the downward manipulation. I have every confidence that business, labor, and agriculture will all be placed in a better economic position through the operation of this tariff law. That has happened in the past. It will happen again. I am bullish on business."

Raw Sugar Futures Reach Lowest Figure in History

New York, June 18.—(AP)—Raw sugar futures reached the lowest figure in the history of the sugar industry today when the July position sold at 1.27 cents a pound on the New York coffee and sugar exchange.

GRAINS RESUME DOWN SWING; SELLING HEAVY

Mart Recovers Part of Loss at Close.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grains and other commodities yesterday resumed their downward plunge to new low levels for the season and for some years.

The bullish enthusiasm so much in evidence Tuesday was replaced by exceptional pessimism, the failure of the foreign wheat demand to continue, a sharp decline in Liverpool, combined with the pronounced weakness in the stock market, brought in general selling. Stop loss orders were uncovered and wheat at the inside figure was 4c under the finish of the previous day with July touching 94½, and September, 97¼c. Corn dropped 2⅛@3c and rye 2⅛@3c while July sugar at New York sold at a new all time record low.

A wave of short covering swept over the grain markets toward the close on rumors that a bill had been introduced into congress to prohibit short selling of stocks, and wheat jumped 2½c from the inside figures and finished within a fraction of the best prices of the day with net losses of 1⅞c, July being 96½@96⅝, and September, 99¼ to 99⅜@99½c.

Foreign Buying Slow.

What little news was received during the day on wheat was generally favorable to a lower range of values. There was an utter lack of the heavy export demand for North American cash grain which has prevailed of late and while there were intimations that some business had been put through on the decline, quantities were not given. No. 2 hard winter at the gulf was said to have been sold at 1¾c over Chicago July. Cables from abroad said confidence was lacking and Liverpool closed 1⅛@1¼d lower with a leading import house a good seller of futures. Broomhall estimates that the European wheat crop, exclusive of Russia, this season may be 1,360,000,000 bu or 88,000,000 bu less than harvested last year.

Scattered showers were again reported in the Canadian northwest, and while official figures covering the week ending June 16 showed that the precipitation generally had been less than one inch in Alberta and Saskatchewan the trade generally look for a betterment in the crop comments from the prairie provinces. Winnipeg wheat closed 2¾@2¾c lower, although falling to get as low as last Monday.

Despite the drastic decline which has occurred in wheat of late with prices off 13@13½c from the finish on June 7 a majority of traders still lean strongly toward the selling side. So far the break has been due mainly to liquidation and short selling on the technical position and economic conditions, with an absence of heavy hedging pressure against the movement of new grain which is expected to get under way in the southwest before long.

New Low on Corn Futures.

Persistent commission house selling of corn futures more than offset the effect of local short covering, and while the market was firm early, it broke sharply later with July touching 73¾c at the extreme low, but when wheat started upward corn followed with the finish around 2c above the bottom with net losses of ⅞@1c, July being 75⅛@75¾, and September, 75@75¼.

Oats failed to get into new ground during the day as the marekt appeared to be well liquidated, and support from shorts tended to restrict the decline. Final trades were ½@⅝c lower with July, 36c, and September, 37⅛c.

July and September rye sold at a new low on the crop, and while rallying with wheat toward the last finished with a loss of 2¼c with July, 49¼c, and September, 53⅜@53¾c.

COPPER FIRM JOIN IN CUTTING DIVIDEND RATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 18.—Searching for a level at which consumers would buy custom smelters tested the market further today by offering copper at a new low point of 11¼ cents a pound, though others held to the 11¾ cents price established yesterday.

They were driven to this move by necessity to find a market for the metal coming to them on average price contracts, some of them having failed to balance their position in the market in the latter part of last week.

Two copper companies today joined the list of those that have cut dividends this year. A reduction of the dividend rate on Granby Consolidated Mining from $8 annually to $3 was announced today through the declaration of 75 cents, comparing with $2 paid in previous quarters.

United Verde Extension Mining company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, equal to $2 annually, compared with $4 paid previously since May, 1929.

Regular monthly dividends of 50 cents per share on the preferred stock and preference BB stock and five cents per share on the preference B stock were announced, all payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 15.

HURLEY WARNS U. S. TO STEER CLEAR OF SOCIALISTIC IDEAS

San Francisco, Cal., June 18.—(AP)—America was advised today by E. N. Hurley, former chairman of the United States shipping board, to "stop, look and listen."

Discussing government "government and business," Mr. Hurley told the 53d annual convention of the National Electric Light association that "instead of flattering ourselves that we are now in a position to indulge in all kinds of experiments, we had better strip for action."

"Were it not for the fact," he said, "that some of our foreign competitors for trade had previously handicapped themselves by socialistic experiments which we are now urged to adopt our position would be much worse than it is."

He said the efficiency of the shipbuilding business was "25 per cent less after the government became responsible for wages," adding that "the only esential difference between government and private administration is the incidence of responsibility."

"From the day the managers and men knew the pay roll was to be guaranteed our output of tonnage decreased," he added.

Mr. Hurley said the case for private management in the electrical industry is so firmly established that if a referendum were taken "there is no doubt but that the majority for the present would be overwhelming."

NET GAINS IN COTTON

The finish in cotton was with small net gains after a higher opening, a break and a rally several times during the day. The market was extremely nervous and prices moved in a moderate range. The government weekly weather crop report is in the main favorable, although deterioration is reported in the lower Rio Grande valley, due to frequent rains. Liverpool closed 1 point higher to 2 points net lower with spot sales 4,000 bales.

July cotton in the different markets closed 2 to 6 points higher, except in Chicago, which lost 5 points. Distant futures in Chicago closed 1 point net lower to 4 points higher, with other markets up 5 to 14 points, New York leading. Spots in New York were up 15 points to 13.70c, New Orleans unchanged at 12.75c, Galveston was 12.95c and Houston 12.75c. Trade is so unsettled that brokers are advising buying only on extreme breaks. CHICAGO STOCKS DECLINE UNDER SALES PRESSURE

Trading Is Heavy in the Active Issues.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks broke through to the level of Monday's close and in some instances went further down in the heavy trading on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Tuesday's modest gains were crushed out under the weight of heavy selling. Net losses among the active leaders did not exceed 3 points.

Trading in a dozen or so active issues accounted for about half of the day's sales of 675,000 shares, Middle West Utilities and Chicago Corporation led the rest of stocks by wide margins in point of sales volume. Chicago Corporation was well supported and at the close was off less than a point. Large blocks of stocks were taken between 12 and 12½ in early trading. Middle West, which was down more than 2 points during the day, recovered about half of its loss before the close.

Heaviest Net Losses.

The biggest net losses among the active shares were suffered by Borg Warner and Majestic Household. The latter sold down 4½ points and closed off 2¼ net. Borg Warner, which failed to share in Tuesday's rally, lost another 2½ points and finished a bare fraction above its low for the session.

Net losses among other representative issues were Bendix, 1⅛, Grigsby Grunow, 1⅝, Missouri Kansas 1½, Swift International 1¼, Insull Utility 2¼ Cities Service and Cord corporation were about unchanged on moderately heavy dealings.

Among the less active stocks Auburn fluctuated in a wide range, touching a low at 102 and swinging back up to 108 before the close. North American Car lost 3 and Merchants and Manufacturers was unchanged. Atlas Stores and Zenith each dropped more than a point. Pines Winterfront fell back 2½.

Up Against Trend.

Defying the general trend, Commonwealth Edison moved up 10 points and Midland United advanced a point. U. S. Gypsum edged up a fraction.

The Irving Air Chute yesterday notified the exchange that directors have voted to reduce the dividend on the common stock from $1.50 to $1 a year. A regular quarterly dividend of 25c was declared on the issue, as compared with 37½c in the previous quarter. It was explained by company officials that the change in policy is intended to conserve cash for expansion purposes. It was stated that extra dividends will be declared from time to time, as conditions warrant.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 24,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep.

Demand for hogs expanded soon after a 5@10c lower opening yesterday. Medium and weighty butchers were scarce and showed slight gains near the close, the high point of the day.

Five western markets expect 60,000 hogs today, against 49,600 a week ago, with all the increase at Chicago. Some outside points report slight decreases.

Hog Futures Steady.

Contracts for hogs to be delivered in the future sold at generally steady prices yesterday. June light brought $9.60, which was also paid for September light and mediums at the finish. A few of the latter reached $9.10 at the opening.

On the "to arrive" market light weights for today's delivery were bid $9.80, but no sellers appeared at this figure. Heavy grades for today were bid $9.80 and for the first half of next week at $9.70. One buyer wanted mixed 180 lb averages at $10.00 for today's delivery.

The cattle market entered new low price levels yesterday on one of the most unsatisfactory markets in years. The clearance was slower than usual and many loads remained in first hands until late in the day, practically without bids.

Narrow outlet for beef on recent seasons and reports that coolers are crowded with a surplus made buyers more cautious than usual in placing bids. Salesmen are advising the country to hold back and try to avert further drastic price cuts.

Lamb Prices React.

Buyers blocked further price gains in the lamb market yesterday, in spite of dwindling supplies. The reaction ended a three day advance of 75c on top kinds. Yesterday's losses of 25c were general, some medium kinds showing more decline, considering finer sorting.

Good to choice natives brought $12.00@12.50. Idahos at $12.50@12.60 were not quite as good as the $12.85@13.00 kinds Tuesday. Aged sheep showed little change. Yearlings declined 25c, choice 100 lb averages selling at $10.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 28,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, against 6,249 cattle, 39,667 hogs, and 11,647 sheep on the previous Thursday, and 6,421 cattle, 32,540 hogs, and 12,556 sheep a year ago.
